GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

CHIONODOXAS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

The majority of gardeners are familiar with this charming class of spring bulbous flowers, the bright blue of which has positively no rival. We remember when they first came into general prominence, and the mistakes made by many amateurs in attempting to grow and flower them as greenhouse bulbs. They are, no doubt, very beautiful for pot culture, but to see them at their best they must be witnessed in strong clumps in a rock garden, or bold masses in a sunny border. They have, within recent years, attained a degree of popularity equalled only by another little gem to which we have already alluded—Scillabifolia.

AT Drummond's—Flowering Bulbs for Christmas; Narcissus, Paper White, 1/9 dozen; prepared Hyacinths, all colours, from 3/6 dozen; French-grown Hyacinths, all colours, from 4/- dozen; White Roman Hyacinths. DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

CHARGE OF PICKETING

ONE MAN SENT FOR TRIAL

Messrs. Denson, Ltd., boot and shoe retailers, Dublin, summoned the following for watching and besetting their premises:—Michael O'Neill, 16 Upper Basin street, for picketing 36 Cornmarket; Lawrence Keller, 43 Smithfield, for picketing 14 Wicklow street; Frederick Hutchins, 12 Kearns place, Kilmainham, for picketing 18 South Great George's street; Desmond O'Connor, 29 Fingal street, for picketing 100 Talbot street; James Mitten, Quinn's avenue, Mount Brown, for picketing 5 North Earl street; Denis Geoghegan, 18 High street, for picketing 86 Capel street.

Mr. Basil McGuckin, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. M. Larkin and Co.), appeared for the complainants, and Mr. Alec Lynn (instructed by Mr. C. B. W. Boyle) appeared for the defendants.

Mr. McGuckin stated that the acts complained of took place although there was no dispute between Messrs. Denson and their employés. The offenders were members of another trade union employed by a firm separate and distinct from Denson's. There was a trade dispute, which was wholly unconnected with Messrs. Denson, in the firm of Winstanley. The workers in Winstanley's were members of the Workers' Union of Ireland, and the employés of Denson's were members of the Union of Distributive Workers. There was no dispute between Denson's and their employés.

Robert P. O'Neill, director and secretary of Messrs. Denson, Ltd., stated that he had no knowledge of any dispute between the firm and their employés. He saw some of the defendants acting as a picket outside 18 South Great George's street on August 29 and carrying a placard, on which was inscribed the words: "Don't patronise this shop. Strike on."

Mr. McGuckin—What effect has this picketing on the trade of Messrs. Denson?—It has affected the trade very seriously. There is a large drop in returns

The witness quoted figures to show that the business in the Denson shops had fallen off considerably in consequence of the picketing. There was a difficulty in getting supplies of goods from England, and at least on two occasions the carters who brought the goods from the L.M.S. stores were not allowed to deliver them, and they had to take them back to the stores. The witness stated that on August 20 the board of directors gave authority to take these proceedings.

Mr. Lynn—Do you say the company on August 20 directed proceedings to be taken in respect of events that were to happen on August 29?—It was in respect of events that were occurring then and previously.

In answer to Mr. McGuckin, the witness said that Winstanley, Ltd., holds no shares in Denson, Ltd.

Mr. Robert A. McGeagh, buyer and general manager, in answer to Mr. McGuckin, stated that between August 15th and 29th four pickets were outside the shop with a banner. This conduct had the effect of reducing the number of customers served by 50 per cent.

Thomas D'Arcy, chief delivery clerk at the L.M.S. Station, North Wall, Dublin, gave evidence that goods consigned to Messrs. Denson had not been delivered to them, because the picket prevented their delivery, and the goods were returned to the dépôt.

Michael McGrath, carter in the employment of the L.M.S., stated that he brought two consignments of goods twice, one to the shop in Wicklow street and the other to the shop in South Great George's street, which he was prevented from delivering to Messrs. Denson by the pickets.

The Justice returned Frederick Hutchins for trial on his own bail of £15 and another security for the same amount.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned until Monday next.

DAMAGED BABY CAR

Elizabeth Dalton, Charlemont street, appeared on remand on a charge of stealing a perambulator, value £4 15s., belonging to Mrs. Nolan, Lower Clanbrassil street. The car was left by the owner outside the Orthopædic Hospital, and the defendant's case was that it was brought to her house by her five-year-old daughter. The case was adjourned in order to give the defendant an opportunity of paying for the damage to the car.

Detective-Officer Cullen, who found the car at the residence of the defendant, said that the damage would cost £2 3s. to repair.

Inspector Johns, N.S.P.C.C., said that the defendant, who had two children, was very poor. In addition to having secured for her some home help he had given 23s. towards meeting the damage to the car.

The Justice said that owing to her poor circumstances he would not send her to prison, and, as she undertook to pay 1s. a week towards the damage, he bound her to the peace for twelve months.

THREAT TO WRECK OFFICE

MEN WHO WERE DRINKING

John Forrester, North Cumberland street; Christopher Crosby, Upper McDermott street, and Robert McCarthy, Elliott street, were charged by Guards North (79 D) and Rooney (101 D) with attempting to obtain money by threats at 2 Church street, and being guilty of conduct likely to provoke a breach of the peace.

Guard North gave evidence of arresting the defendants, who denied all knowledge of the affair when charged and cautioned.

Patrick Warren, manager of a turf accountant's office, 2 Church street, stated that about 5.20 on Wednesday four men came into his shop and demanded money. They threatened to wreck the place unless it was given to them. When he refused they left the shop, but a little while afterwards they returned and attempted to smash the door, and tried to get over the partition between the shop and the cash office. They made reference to the "animal gang."

Patrick O'Connor, a clerk in the office, corroborated.

The prisoner, McCarthy, on behalf of himself and the other men, said that they had been drinking. They were sorry for what they had done; they were married men, and promised to take the pledge.

Informations were refused on the first count, and they were fined 10s. each on the other charge, and bound to be of good behaviour.

SPEEDING CHARGE FAILS

(BEFORE MR. HANNAN.)

John Costello, Griffith avenue, was charged with having driven a motor car at a speed which was dangerous to the public, as a result of which a child named Boyle, eight years old, was knocked down and had his leg fractured.

James Whelan, Lower Gardiner street, who witnessed the accident, said that the car was driven at about forty miles per hour. He believed that the defendant was a good and careful driver.

The child's father stated that as the child started to cross the road the car came upon him like a flash. The child was still under medical treatment.

Costello, the driver of the car, stated that his speed on the occasion did not exceed eighteen to twenty miles an hour.

The case was dismissed.

THE TATTOO

ONE-THIRD OF ARMY BUSY

The greatest pride in the success of the forthcoming Tattoo at Ballsbridge will be that of the officers of the Free State Army who supplied the funds required to launch the undertaking, and, consequently, ensured that the event would not suffer for lack of support; no public money can be expended in its preparation and presentation.

In its preparatory stages the Tattoo illustrates the adaptability of modern soldiers, who have been called upon during the last couple of months to adopt the rôles of business organisers, theatrical producers, publicity agents, scenario writers, scene painters, stage carpenters, electricians and property men. Approximately one-third of the regular Army and the officers have been transformed into a huge theatrical cast. Only in two items are civilians introduced into the cast—members of the Portobello Dramatic Club, consisting mainly of relatives and friends of soldiers in Portobello Barracks, portraying Dublin citizens in O'Connell street in the "Easter Dawn" episode, while I.R.A. officers in 1916, Cumann na mBan and Fianna will be represented by ex-members of these organisations. Miss E. Young, the well-known Irish stage and radio artiste, will take the part of "Eire" in the "Rally of the Nation."

All the proceeds of the Tattoo are to be devoted to military charities, and a notable feature of the advance bookings is the interest which is being taken by Six-County residents.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF

Malicious Injuries Claim.—A claim for damages for malicious injuries to windows in Albert street Presbyterian Church, Belfast, has been lodged. The windows were broken, it appears, between the evening of Friday and the morning of Saturday last. Thirty-seven panes and lead lights were smashed.

* * * * *

Connemara Pony Show.—A large gathering from all over Connemara attended the Connemara annual Pony Show, which was held at Carna yesterday. The entries exceeded by several hundreds those of last year. Irish was spoken throughout the day, except by the visitors.

* * * * *

Cork Sheep Sale—About a thousand animals were offered at Marsh's sheep sales, Cork, yesterday, and good prices were realised. The top price among shearling ewes went to P. McAuliffe, Whitechurch, whose ten Border Leicesters made £2 16s. each. Several lots averaged 46s., and others made 30s. to 42s. Mr. J. McGrath got the top price of 56s. for ewe lambs. Prices in this section generally ranged from 28s. to 38s. Wether lambs made from 22s. to 31s. Ram lambs will be sold to-day.

Presentation.—An enjoyable function was held in the Hall, Dunleer, Co. Louth, when a presentation was made to the Rev. Father Woods, who is shortly to depart for missionary work in China. The presentation was made by Mr. Michael J. Lynch, Dunleer, and an address, the work of Mr. Patrick Kiernan, Drumcar, was also presented to Father Woods. The speakers included Father O'Neill, Father Conlon, and Mr. T. Faulkener, Trean. Father Woods thanked the organisers, and said that he would carry the happiest remembrance of their generosity and good wishes. A musical programme then followed.

Land Valuation Protest.—A deputation, consisting of the Very Rev. Canon O'Leary, P.P.; Alderman J. Reidy, T.D., and Messrs. Bourke, T.D., and M. J. Keyes, T.D., waited on the Minister for Local Government at Limerick, in reference to excessive valuation of land for market gardening within the borough boundary. The deputation pointed out that that valuation was three times as great as that on land immediately outside the city, and, with a view to easing the rates burden on the occupiers, urged the Minister to introduce legislation to give these people the benefit of the agricultural grant. The Minister replied that the question was a difficult one. He had, however, no power to allocate any portion of the agricultural grant to these people, and he was not prepared to introduce legislation on the matter.

The Northern Tourist Traffic.—A meeting of the Council of Management of the Ulster Tourist Development Association, Ltd., was held yesterday. Sir Frederick Cleaver, who presided, welcomed Mr. George A. Locke, representing Armagh County Council, on his first attendance at a council meeting. The report of the advertising committee stated that a poster display had been arranged on escalator stairways at certain tube stations in London for next year. In connection with the circulation of literature for 1936, it has been decided to increase the issue of the Ulster Guide by 5,000 copies. In addition, it has been agreed to reissue 75,000 copies of the general map folder, and to secure the services of Mr. W. W. McLeod, A.M.I.A.E., in the provision of suitable material for the new brochure of itineraries for motorists, motor cyclists and others. It was reported that increased contributions had been voted by Armagh County Council and Downpatrick, Hillsborough, Irvinestown, Lisnaskea, and Newry Rural District Councils.

WATER SUPPLY RUNNING OUT

PRECAUTIONS IN DROGHEDA

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

DROGHEDA, Thursday.

Only an intermittent supply of water will be given in Drogheda to water consumers from Sunday evening next until further notice. This statement was made to our correspondent by one of the Corporation's officials this evening. At present the town is still being supplied by the Barnattin and Kilineer reservoirs. Barnattin was down this evening 15ft. 3ins. and Kilineer 6ft. 7ins. The supply is failing by an average of 12 inches per day. This time last year Barnattin was down 12ft., while Kilineer was down 6ft. 4ins. The supply was shut off from July 23 to October 29 last year.

The new water supply, which it is estimated will be unlimited, is not fully completed yet, and the waterworks officials are not inclined to take the risk of allowing the supply to run out, and have, therefore, decided to shut off the town supply from 6 o'clock each evening until 6 o'clock the following morning.

Consumers are requested to conserve the water as far as possible, and thus help in keeping a safe supply in the reservoirs. Defective fittings also should be repaired, and, if this is not carried out, notice will be served on the offenders, and then, if they are still left unrepaired, a prosecution will follow.

ALL-NIGHT DANCES

A CLAREMORRIS PROTEST

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CLAREMORRIS, Thursday.

Protests against all-night dances were made by Canon MacHugh, Claremorris, at the local Court to-day, when District Justice Hamilton had before him a number of applications for licences in respect of local dance halls.

"I have no objection to dances being held up to eleven o'clock," the Canon said, "but I have very strong objections to all-night dances, and it is well known throughout the length and breadth of Ireland that there are graves abuses at these all-night affairs." He was not a "kill-joy," but he wished to see the same rules and hours apply to all dance halls.

James Griffith, who applied on behalf of the Ballindine Town Hall, was granted a licence to hold dances on Sunday nights and holiday nights till eleven o'clock in winter and twelve during the summer.

Mr. T. Conway, St. Coleman's Hotel, applied for twelve all-night dances from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Superintendent Kelly—In view of Canon MacHugh's expressions, don't you think that twelve o'clock is sufficient?—No; I do not.

The applicant was allowed six all-night dances to 4 a.m., and the hours for the other dances to be the same as those allowed in the other case.

The Justice said that seven days' notice of all-night dances must be given to the Guards. No person of either sex under eighteen years of age would be admitted, nor anyone under the influence of drink.

ECHO OF THE RIOTS

BELFAST POLICE COURT CHARGES

In the Belfast Recorder's Court yesterday, Joseph McDonald, of Massereene street, Belfast, was found guilty of being in the illegal possession of firearms, with intent to endanger life and property.

Sentence was postponed.

It was alleged that McDonald discharged a revolver in Royal avenue on July 12, and that when arrested he said: "I fired one shot. There were three rounds in it, and I threw the revolver away. I suppose I did it to kill someone."

Thousands of ladies keep a box of Martin's Pills in the house. Those who use them recommend them; hence their enormous sale. Price 5s. Sold by all Chemists and Stores, or post free from proprietors, Martin, Chemist, Southampton. —(Advt.)

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

STOCKS FAIL TO HOLD

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Thursday.

The day's news of developments produced no radically different factors of influence on the Stock Exchange. The result was that profit-taking dominated the market, and the general list ended with losses touching 2 dollars, following a turnover of 1,880,000 shares. The volume of realising increased in the late dealings, and the close was easy.

Losses of anything to 2 dollars were recorded by the Industrial group, while declines of fractions to 1 dollar were shown by the Rail, Utility, Steel, Oil, Motor, Chemical and Merchandising sections. On the other hand the Mining and Farm Implement divisions rose fractions to 1.

Considerable interest was also aroused by a prediction that American farmers this year will enjoy a cash income of 6,700,000,000 dollars—the largest since 1929.

Call money remained at ¼ per cent., and the outside rate was unchanged at ¼ per cent. Prime paper was quoted at ¾ to 1 per cent. Open market discount rates were unaltered.

Sterling exchange opened ½ down at 4.93⅞, but improved during the morning to 4.94. The rate remained at this level in the afternoon, but finally closed ⅛ lower compared with the previous close at 4.93⅞.

Silver was unchanged at 65⅜.

ECHOES OF THE TOWN

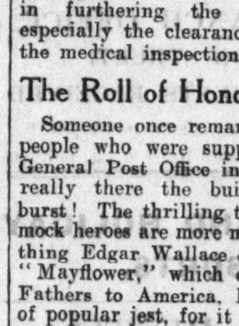
Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly : Woman Cabinet Minister : The House of Ormonde : Dublin Musicians on Tour

BY KITTY CLIVE.

MR. SEAN T. O'KELLY, the Minister for Local Government, who, in his capacity as Vice-President of the Executive Council, is responsible for the affairs of the Free State during the absence of President de Valera in Geneva, is the veteran of the Cabinet. With the exception of Mr. Sean Lemass, he is also the only Dubliner in the Government. Like the Lord Mayor, who has won the affectionate appellation of "Alfie," Mr. O'Kelly is always spoken of as "Sean T." by his friends, and is a close rival for popularity with Alderman Byrne, for he possesses an affable manner which has won him a host of friends.

Travelled the Road

There are few who know Dublin better than "Sean T.," who has travelled the long road in national affairs since, as a combatant in 1916, he took part in the "Rising." He began his political career in the old Corporation, and has been closely identified with the various national movements. He was General Secretary of the Gaelic League, and later Secretary of Sinn Fein. When Arthur Griffith decided to contest the Parliamentary elections against the old Nationalist Party in 1918 Mr. O'Kelly was the successful candidate for the College Green Division of Dublin, and since that time has been a representative of his native city. He was also a colleague of Griffith on the various newspapers edited by him. During the Anglo-Irish struggle Mr. O'Kelly acted as representative for the Republican Party in Rome, Paris, and the United States. As Minister for Local Government and Public Health, Mr. O'Kelly is extremely popular with the staffs of all his departments. He has been very active in furthering the housing question, especially the clearance of the slums and the medical inspection of schools.



MR. O'KELLY.

The Roll of Honour

Someone once remarked that if all the people who were supposed to be in the General Post Office in Easter Week were really there the building should have burst! The thrilling tales one hears from mock heroes are more marvellous than anything Edgar Wallace ever invented. The "Mayflower," which carried the Pilgrim Fathers to America, has become a topic of popular jest, for it gave more ancestors to the United States than the immigrants could possibly be held responsible for. And so with the old G.P.O. in Dublin, which bids fair, also, to become a myth. However, the warriors of the "Rising" have determined to assist the future historian and have opened their roll of honour. These veterans are organised, and during the past week started their campaign of sifting the bogus heroes from the genuine claimants to military distinction. I am told that there was no easy passing the custodians of this roll of honour, and many sad hearts have been found on that account

Woman Cabinet Minister.

Last week President Roosevelt signed the Public Security Bill, the most revolutionary measure ever passed in the United States. To a large extent this was due to the Secretary of Labour, Miss Frances Perkins, the first woman Cabinet Minister in the United States. When Mr. Roosevelt appointed Miss Perkins to this arduous and important position in the Government it was no political gesture or compliment to women, but was a well-merited tribute to ability and achievement. As head of the New York State Department of Labour she proved her efficiency, good sense and intelligence, not merely to Mr. Roosevelt, as Governor, but to the people of the State and the country at large. The millions of wage-earning workers found in Miss Perkins one who fully understood and protected their interests.

MISS F. PERKINS.

Authority on Fires

I met Miss Perkins when she was seriously concerning herself with the prevention of fires in New York. The terror of them was vividly impressed on her, she said, in 1911, as she watched 146 girls burn to death in a high loft workshop. This fire was a terrible episode in the history of the city. An exit door which should have been opened was locked, and a terrible holocaust was the result. Since that time Miss Perkins has devoted her energies to factory construction, and she worked with architects, insurance men, contractors and employers. To-day, owing largely to her activity, fire drills, safety devices, and the most adequate protection against fire is established in the big city. Last week she saw the momentous Social Security Bill ready for operation, which deals with the scheme of insurance against unemployment, which, it is believed, will not alone relieve the workless, but also protect the country from the danger of future depressions. The measure has been acclaimed and condemned by the various parties, the chief opposition coming from those who regard it as the beginning of State Socialism. In private life Frances Perkins is Mrs. Wilson, a charming, sympathetic woman with, at the same time, a marvellous reserve of energy. Her great philosophy of life is that people should be happy in their work and not consider it only as a means for earning money. She spent some time in England studying insurance before undertaking her work on the many bills before the Legislature.

Lord Thurles

The young Lord Thurles, whose recent motor accident in England caused such anxiety to his parents, has now fully recovered, and is now at his home in Kilkenny. The only son of Lord and Lady Ossory, he is the direct heir to his grandfather, the Marquis of Ormonde. He will not come of age for another two years. A keen motorist and fine tennis player, he had just taken up a post in a motoring concern in London prior to his accident. The title Thurles is a courtesy title of the Earl of Ossory's eldest son. It was first granted to the ninth Earl of Ormonde. The tenth Earl, who was known as the "Black Earl," owing to his dark complexion, was appointed by Queen Elizabeth as Lord Treasurer of Ireland.

LORD THURLES.

Kilkenny Castle

Kilkenny Castle, seat of the Marquis of Ormonde, was purchased by the third Earl in 1391, and, as the residence of the family, has been closely interwoven with the history of Ireland. The first Earl, known in English history as the Great Earl, established the Royal Hospital after the dissolution of the Knights Templars. The second Earl, the great friend of Swift, was "attainted" with Bolingbroke, and exiled by George I., although during the preceding reigns he had a brilliant military career. Indeed, Swift, in his letters, tells how the Earl secured for him the Deanery of St. Patrick's, and how he was obliged to plead with him for the promotion of Dr. Sterne, his predecessor, to the bishopric. The Earl disliked Dr. Sterne, and Swift's friends were amused when, in order to secure his post, he was the means of creating a bishop. No doubt, Anne preferred to give the mitre to Dr. Sterne than to Swift, whose "Tale of a Tub" shocked her religious principles. The House of Ormonde dates back to 1177, when Theobald Fitzwalter, who accompanied Henry II. into Ireland, was created Chief Butler. His successor assumed the title "Le Botiler," which grew into the family name of Butler, and a descendant married a grand-daughter of King Edward I., and, on becoming allied with Royalty, was created an Earl. Another distinguished ancestor under Edward I. was stated to have been "master of all the languages of Europe." The present Earl rarely visits Ireland, but Lord and Lady Ossory have made their home in Kilkenny. As well as their heir, they have one daughter, Lady Moyra Butler.

Irish Musicians' Tour

Miss Annie Lord, our brilliant musician, and two friends—Miss Irene Haugh and Mrs. Ball—have just returned from a seven-weeks' tour of the European musical centres. They spent seven weeks on the Continent, travelling with the Anglo-Hungarian Society, which made Budapest its headquarters. They made special pilgrimages to the shrines of the great musicians Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms, Strauss and Mozart, and were everywhere accorded civic receptions, the various musical societies giving them a warm welcome. They were five days on St. Margaret's Island, where they heard real gipsy music, and met many people who talked of Dr. Walter Starkie and his book "Raggle Taggle."

MISS IRENE HAUGH.

After a fortnight in the Bavarian Alps, the party went into Salsburg for the opera season, where they heard Mozart's Requiem performed in the Cathedral. Down the Danube and up the Rhine they sought the inspiration of the music of the land, and everywhere found hospitality, dinners, musical gatherings and native song awaiting them. These clever artists have come home wonderfully stimulated and full of enthusiasm to renew their work.

Miss Annie Lord

Miss Annie Lord, always a great traveller, has sought opportunities of hearing the best music at English and Continental festivals. The admirers of Miss Lord regret that she is not better known outside her own country. Had she travelled as a concert artist she might have gained an international reputation. But then Dublin would have missed a great teacher, and Miss Lord has given her best to her native city and the Royal Irish Academy. The standard of the piano is high among our young musicians. Miss Lord is always in advance with her work, and was the first to perform the Tschaikowsky B Flat Concerto, with orchestra, under Dr. Esposito at the R.D.S. When the famous pianist, Dohnanyi, disappointed, Miss Lord gave, at only a week's notice, the first of her recitals at the R.D.S. It is her fine playing which has inspired many poems of Miss Irene Haugh, who has reversed the idea of writing songs for music, her best work having been inspired by Miss Lord's interpretation of the great composers.

The Ravages of Autumn and Winter

CARE OF CLOTHES AND COMPLEXION

THE wear and tear of clothes in autumn and winter is much heavier than in summer seasons. Rain, mist, mud, crowded trams and 'buses, all do their best to rob us of the trim look we so desire. Suits and coats quickly acquire a shiny look, collars show a greasy line, skirts sag, stockings will not stay immaculate.

But a little "home valeting" every week-end will work wonders, especially for the wardrobe of the business woman who must look smart, but cannot afford big cleaner's bills.

To remove the shiny look from a cloth suit or frock first give it a thorough brushing. Then to a pint of warm water add a large tablespoonful of turpentine. With a clean, coarse cloth wrung out of this cleaning mixture, sponge over the faded areas of your garment and you will find dust, shine and greasiness vanish, leaving no mark behind.

For the unsightly soiled line on the collar, however, you may need a rather stronger solution of turpentine and water.

UNSIGHTLY

While grooming coats and skirts in this fashion look out for the smallest rip in the hem—heavy materials are apt to come unstitched, and a ripped hem is not only unsightly, but a source of danger when stepping in or out of vehicles. Then press the garments on the wrong side under a slightly damp cloth, but be careful not to press too heavily over seams and facings, or a shiny streak will appear on the right side.

Furs, too, need attention. If you have sent them to a furrier's for cold storage, remember you have to give a few days' notice before you can wrap their comfort about you, the reason being that they must be "thawed" gradually, otherwise they will attract moisture. But if you have stored your furs at home, sprinkled with a moth preventive, take them out now and give them a good shaking, holding them in such a way that the fur is lying in a downward direction. A light beating with a cane will improve their appearance.

DRYING FURS

It is important to remember that furs should always be shaken from the "top" before putting them on and before putting them away. And they should be hung up in the dark, not thrown into a drawer or over a chair-back.

When fur has got wet it must be dried with care; shake it from the top, and hang it away from the fire where the air can circulate—preferably near an open window. Leave it to dry in its own time, and then shake and comb it out carefully.

A fur collar should be treated to an occasional turpentine and water rub; but be sure the solution is weak enough not to spoil the gloss of the fur, and wring the cloth out very thoroughly.

Dark-coloured felt and velour hats will acquire a new, fresh bloom if they are very carefully treated with a cleaning solution of a dessertspoonful of liquid ammonia to a pint of warm water.

Lighter felts respond better to warmed flour or bran rubbed well in with a piece of clean flannel; any flattened pile should first be rubbed up gently with sandpaper.

STOCKINGS

As for silk stockings! The only thing is to wash them every second day. This treatment, fortunately, prolongs their life. But the washing must be done carefully.

Dissolve some shredded soap in a little very hot water and stir thoroughly to make sure that no particles remain undissolved to make shiny spots. Then add cold water till the lather is just lukewarm, and gently squeeze the stockings—avoid all rubbing unless there are mud-stains or marks from the shoe lining.

Rinse the stockings twice in tepid water, squeeze out as much moisture as possible without wringing — which strains the fibres—and hang them to dry in a cool room. It is best of all to dry them by rolling them loosely in a towel. And when you buy new silk stockings be sure to rinse them before wearing, as this prolongs their life as well as improving their appearance.

COMPLEXION

The complexion, too, needs some extra attention at this time of year. Summer's legacy of healthy tan fades all too soon to a sickly sallow hue and the skin begins to look lined and dry. The sun has, in fact, dried out the natural oils from the surface of the skin, and the first thing to do is to correct this with a daily massage of sweet almond oil.

The oil should be left on the face for half-an-hour. Most of it will be absorbed, the surplus must be wiped off gently with an absorbent cloth or a pad of cotton wool. This treatment also helps to banish fine wrinkles.

When the skin has recovered from the dry condition bleaching must be tackled. It is a little troublesome, but well worth the bother, to give yourself an almond meal mask every second day for a fortnight.

THE METHOD

First cleanse the skin thoroughly. Then prepare an almond meal mask—it must be done freshly each time. Mix a cupful of almond meal with enough peroxide to make a thick paste. Thin out the paste with rose water till it is of a creamy consistency.

Now make a mask of gauze, cutting holes for nostrils, eyes and mouth, and spread the paste evenly over this. Place a second gauze over the paste. Then pat the mask into position on the face, wring a towel out of hot water and lay it over the mask. As soon as the cloth cools replace it with a fresh hot one.

Continue this for fifteen minutes, then remove the mask and rinse the face with clean water. Dry the skin thoroughly, massage with a light nourishing cream, which should be left on for five minutes. Then finish off with a dash of cold water.

You may, if you wish, dispense with the hot towels. But in that case the mask should remain on for an hour, and the treatment will take six weeks instead of two.

AILEEN.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

DUBLIN UNCERTAIN

GUINNESS LOWER

TOBACCOS DULL

Quiet conditions again prevailed on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and leading Industrials were generally lower, but locally a fairly steady tone was in evidence.

The Second National Loan relapsed to 113½ and Land Bonds declined, while War Loan marked a sharp fall of 10s.

Banks were neglected, apart from Nationals, which eased to 47s. 3d.

There was some selling of Guinness units, and they closed 1s. down on the day. Power Deb. improved to 18s.

B. and I. Steam Pref. advanced to 23s. 4½d. and Grand Canal Pref. gained 2s.

Home Rails showed small, irregular changes.

Burke Deb., Denny Pref., May Roberts (Ireland) Ord. and Stephen's Green Cinema Ord. all showed a harder appearance.

Textiles were about steady, but Tobaccos were dull. B.A.T. Ord. fell 1s. and Imperials relapsed to 137s. Imperial Chemicals held 34s. 6d., but Shell Transport and Vickers Ord. eased slightly.

LONDON FLAT

FRESH FALLS IN GILT-EDGED

Conditions on the London Stock Markets yesterday were if anything even quieter than those prevailing on the preceding day, as operators were again acting cautiously, in accordance with the advice of brokers, pending further developments in the international political situation. It was not surprising, therefore, that prices in most sections continued to sag, though in the absence of any pronounced selling pressure movements generally were of little importance.

Little interest was manifest in gilt-edged securities, and, as on recent days, a small amount of liquidation had an exaggerated effect on prices. Old Consols were notably weak, losing ⅜ to 82⅞, while Local Loans dropped to 93, and a fall of ½ to 108 occurred in I.F.S. Land Bonds. Among India Stocks the 3½ per cent. added ½, but the Threes shed a similar amount.

The outstanding feature among Foreign Bonds was a renewal of interest in Brazilians, and as a result that losses which have occurred during the past few days were partially recovered. Far Easterns quietened down and showed little alteration, but Germans were on the dull side, particularly the Potash Loan, which lost 3 to 63.

Apart from losses in a few junior stocks, British Rails were hardly changed. The steadier tendency was attributed to the possibility of improved receipts during the next few months and a favourable decision regarding rating. Interest in Foreign Rails continued to diminish, and the few movements were again unfavourable. Among Colonials, the gain registered by "Can-pacs" on Wednesday was not held, the price drooping to 10⅝. American Rails came in for quiet support, and where changed were a point to the good.

Trading in Industrials was limited to some extent by the fact that the settlement was in progress and in the absence of support prices continued to move adversely. Trans-Atlantics again attracted attention, however, and in early dealings prices showed a further small improvement upon the higher levels reached in the street overnight. Subsequently a little profit-taking caused quotations to ease. A minor feature of activity was provided by Canadian Marconi, which rose on renewed rumours that the shares are likely to be quoted in Montreal shortly. Aircraft shares attracted a few buyers, but Motors, Breweries and Iron and Steels were inactive and closed on the dull side. Rayon and Textile issues presented an uncertain appearance, while Tobaccos were mostly lower.

Owing to the continued uncertainty regarding the political situation business in the Mining Markets was reduced to a minimum. Kaffirs were again affected by a little offering of shares from the Cape, while West Africans, under the lead of Kwahu, also dropped back. Elsewhere an easier tendency was witnessed among Australians, but San Francisco, in the Miscellaneous group, continued active on the strength of the latest developments which, it is understood, were of a favourable nature. Excepting a burst of activity in Attock, following news of good results from the company's test well at Dhulian, business in Oil shares was at a low ebb, but the undertone was fairly firm and the few movements, though unfavourable, were small.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

MOST MOVEMENTS ADVERSE

With few exceptions, the Industrial market yesterday continued under the influence of the international political situation. Consequently prices generally trended towards lower levels, though here and there a rally occurred in the late dealings.

Although the trans-Atlantic counters showed some irregularity at one time, they finished with a fairly steady appearance in response to further support from Wall street. "Emmies" were subject to profit-taking, and the price reacted to 26s. 9d. Cable and Wireless stocks reflected the general tendency. On the other hand, Globe Telegraph Ordinary, Ericssons and the Marconi issues improved.

NAPIERS FEATURING.

A bright feature was provided among Aviation and kindred descriptions by Napiers. Handley Page Participating Preferences also displayed firmness following the news that the company had obtained an important contract from the Air Ministry, but Rolls-Royce receded.

Motors generally remained on the dull side, although the selling of Leylands was checked, and the shares closed better. Standards, Austins and Fords fell away.

Despite the satisfactory output figures for August Iron and Steel shares again had an easier tendency. In the Coal group prices gave way all round.

ELECTRIC SHARES DULL.

Dullness in Electric Supply shares became pronounced. Despite the announcement of a first interim dividend, British Power and Light fell, and most others showed losses. Electric Equipments also had a dull tendency, but British Insulated were steady on the maintenance of the interim dividend. Textiles were easier.

In the Rayon section American Celanese further improved, and support was again forthcoming for Canadian Celanese, but Courtaulds receded.

The Stores group did not maintain the firm tone of the preceding day, and several falls occurred. Provision and Catering issues also had a dull appearance.

Breweries were subject to further scattered realisations. Declines of 1s. were recorded by Courage and Guinness.

In the Alcohol sections, Distillers and Booths lost ground.

TOBACCOS ON DOWN-GRADE.

The Tobacco leaders continued on the down-grade.

In the Newspaper group movements were all adverse.

Bank shares had an uncertain appearance. Standard of South African were enquired for, but some of the home issues came on offer.

Insurance descriptions, in the absence of fresh support, finished easier.

In the Shipping section, P. and O. Def. received quiet support.

The Miscellaneous section again made a rather poor showing, although losses in most cases were of modest dimensions. Building shares again lost ground throughout the list. Imperial Chemicals were not greatly altered, but Triplex Glass reacted to 3⅝, and Dunlops were again dull. The Swedish issues lost ground, while British Aluminium and British Match also followed the general trend.

OILS GENERALLY IDLE

Conditions in the Oil Share Market underwent no improvement yesterday. Not only was there very little doing on behalf of the general public, but dealers were disinclined to open fresh positions while the news in regard to both the political situation and the oil position in the United States remains so uncertain. The firmness displayed by Attocks provided a strong contrast. News came to hand that the company had bought in a well at considerable depth, and this led to a keen demand for the shares, and the price rose to 9s. 6d.

RUBBERS EASIER

The persistent uncertainty in other departments and a fall in the commodity price combined yesterday to disperse the cheerfulness which has characterised the Rubber Share market for the past few days. Buyers were almost entirely lacking, with the result that many issues failed to maintain recent advances. At the finish the sole favourable movement was a gain of 6d. to 24s. in Tandjong Malim. Highlands and Malacca were those which showed the largest losses. Dull conditions prevailed in the commodity section, and spot rubber was sold down to 5 7/16d. per lb.

MOTORS AND TEXTILES

BIRMINGHAM

LONDON MINING MARKET

KAFFIRS AGAIN DECLINE

Interest in the Mining market yesterday showed no signs of expansion; rather the reverse, and there is no doubt that the political situation is responsible for the apathetic conditions. As regards Kaffirs, the excitement aroused by the appointment of the Departmental Commission to deal with taxation proved short-lived. There was again little selling pressure observable, but dealers marked down quotations as a precautionary measure.

The depression was even more pronounced in the Rhodesian Department; for, although Chartered were maintained, other movements were downward, the Copper shares sharing in the general set-back.

In the West African department buyers were conspicuous by their absence, and a little offering on an unwilling market caused values to decline.

Australians were dull, and not a single improvement was noted.

San Francisco were subject to profit-taking following the recent advance. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

Synthetic Rubber

Herr Hitler's proclamation announces the establishment of the first plant for the production of synthetic rubber, saying that this problem is now completely solved.

Air Ministry Order for Handley Page

An important contract for bombers has been placed with Handley Page by the Air Ministry. Details and number of the aircraft are not available, but the machines are not expected to be delivered for some months. The contract is not connected with the formation of five new heavy bombing squadrons. The machines for these squadrons will be required immediately.

German Printing and Publishing

Difficult trading and financial conditions in the German printing and publishing trade were disclosed at a recent meeting of the German Printers' Association. It was shown that the total turnover of both printers and publishers amounted to approximately £104,416,000 in 1934, as compared with about £109,250,000 in 1933, £117,333,000 in 1932, and £176,166,000 in 1931. Losses in turnover since 1931 were, consequently, heavy, and the industry has been unable to recover the losses incurred during the years of the crisis. Heavy losses, amounting to about Rm.100,000,000 (£8,333,000), were incurred recently by the amalgamation or discontinuation of a number of newspapers and journals. It is believed that book production has now touched its lowest point and is slowly improving—in 1934 receipts from this branch showed a 5 per cent. increase.

Federal Loan for Alberta

A loan of $2,250,000 was negotiated with the Canadian Federal Government on Wednesday by Mr. Aberhart, the new Social Credit Premier of Alberta, reports Reuter from Ottawa. It was announced last week that Mr. Aberhart was endeavouring to secure a credit to meet the internal payments due on provincial loans this month. It was then reported that $12,000,000 would be needed to meet 1935 commitments in full. Mr. Bennett, the Canadian Premier, has promised (if re-elected next month) to buttress the admittedly weak structure of Canada's provincial debts.

Good Output of Iron and Steel

The production of iron and steel in Britain in August was well maintained, only small decreases, wholly seasonal, being shown in both cases. Total steel production for the month, at 759,900 tons, was actually 43,400 tons below the July figure, but the daily average was very little lower at 29,230 tons for the twenty-six working days, due to the August holiday, compared with 29,750 tons for the twenty-seven working days in July. Last year a decline of over 51,000 tons was shown in the August production compared with July, and the daily average for August this year is well above last year's August daily average of 25,650 tons.

Bank of England Return

Yesterday's Bank return discloses a distinct reversal from the position shown a week ago. Government resources are substantially higher, and those of the market are correspondingly lower. There has been a marked contraction in the active note circulation, which is duly reflected in a recovery in the reserve. Public deposits show an increase of £10,175,685 at £16,035,710, which is offset to the extent of a rise in Government securities of £1,135,000 at £84,549,999. The shrinkage in other deposits to £9,830,103 at £128,876,880, but other securities have been reduced by £2,270,553 to £24,650,948. The total gold stock has further risen by £112,018 to £194,227,096, and the reduction in the active note circulation amounts to £1,365,885 at £400,256,282. Consequently the reserve as compared with a week shows an increase of £1,477,903 at £53,970,814, while the proportion of reserve to liabilities is 0.94 per cent. better at 37.24 per cent. The bankers clearing house return for the week ended 11th inst. amounted to £586,781,000, as compared with £536,566,000 in the corresponding week of last year—an increase of £50,215,000.

OIL REPORT

Attock Oil.—Cable states—"Dhulian test well, good show of heavy oil struck at 7,448ft. No free gas. Preparing to cement immediately above."

IRISH FAIR

CARRICKMACROSS.—Very large cattle fair, composed chiefly of prime beef and forward stores. Large attendance of buyers, and nearly all classes of cattle readily bought up at improved prices, particularly for choice sorts. Trade good for best springing heifers. Many English buyers in market. Prices:—Beef 20/- to 22/- per cwt., second class 17/- to 20/- (common run); store cattle, six to 12 months, 1st class £2 to £3 10/-, 2nd class £1 10/- to £2 10/-; 12 to 15 months, 1st class £3 10/- to £5 5/-, 2nd £2 10/- to £4 10/-, 15 months to two years £5 10/- to £7; 2nd class £5 to £6 10/-; three years and over fat cattle £9 to £10 10/-; springer cows and heifers £10 10/- to £13; milch cows (down calved) £10 to £14, 2nd class £9 to £11. Fat lambs 30/- to £2, fat sheep 35/- to 50/-. Pigs—Large sucker fair and a brisk trade demand for killing for export; choice 25/- to 30/- each, small suckers 15/- to 20/-. Old horses £8 to £10; ponies £6 to £12.

Yesterday morning the remains of the woman who was found drowned on Saturday evening at Clontarf, County Dublin, were buried at Glasnevin, by the authorities as "unknown," no person having turned up to identify the remains.

THE MONEY MARKET

RISE IN GOLD AND SILVER

Gold improved 1½d. further yesterday to 140s. 11d. per fine ounce. This price included a premium of 2d. over the dollar at 4.93⅞, and 8d. over the franc at 74 15/16. Only £56,000 was disposed of in the market.

Money continued in plentiful supply, and short loans were offering at ½ per cent. Bill rates remained unchanged, 9/16 to ⅝ per cent. being quoted for fine commercial paper, and 11/16 to 9/16 per cent. for the new Treasuries.

Silver further improved 1/16d. to 29⅜d. per ounce for both spot and forward delivery on Indian buying and small offerings. China was inclined to sell, but America did not support the market.

No important developments occurred in the London Foreign Exchange Market yesterday. Although the European political position has become even more gloomy during the past few days, there were no signs of alarm in market dealings yesterday. Movements in rates were, in fact, within narrower limits than for some time, the total range of the sterling-dollar exchange being no more than ½c. At the same time business was on a small scale throughout, little official activity being necessary in view of the generally steady tone. The market tended to become less favourable to London at the outset, but the movement was checked almost immediately, possibly as a result of dollar sales by the U.S. Treasury, and the principal rates thereafter remained steady to the close.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Army and Navy Stores.—Interim dividend of 4⅓ per cent., less tax. (Same.)

Associated Newspapers.—Second quarterly interim dividend on the Deferred Shares of 4d. per share. (Same.)

Betts and Co.—Second quarterly payment of 1½ per cent. (Same.)

Blake and Richards Estates.—The accounts for the period from April 5, 1934, the date of incorporation, to June 24, 1935, have now been issued. It is stated that a period of nearly three months of necessity intervened between incorporation and completion of purchase of properties, so that the accounts include only one year's income, but more than a year's expenses. Profit for the period was £9,597, which, less the Debenture sinking fund allocation and taxation, leaves a balance of £6,378. A final dividend of 3 per cent. makes a total of 5 per cent. actual for the period; £789 forward.

Beechams Pills.—Interim dividend on the Deferred Shares of 12½ per cent. (actual), less tax (against 7½ per cent.).

British Insulated Cables.—Interim Ordinary 5 per cent. actual, less tax, for half-year ended June 30th. (Same.)

Conway Stewart.—Interim dividend of 3 per cent.

Chenderiang Tin Dredging.—Final payment of 5 per cent., making 7½ per cent. for year. (Previous payment 7½ per cent. in 1928.)

Daniell and Son's Breweries.—Interim dividend of 3¾ per cent. (against 3 1-3 per cent.).

Eagle Star and British Dominions Insurance.—Third quarterly interim of 5⅝ per cent. (Same.)

Gaumont-British Picture Corporation.—Net profit for year ended 31st March, 1935, amounts to £720,483, an increase of £28,268. The balance brought forward brings the total to £855,358 (against £821,669). After deducting interest on Debenture Stock reserves and Preference dividend there remains £360,265 (against £344,875). Final dividend of 4 per cent. actual, less tax, on the two classes of Ordinary Shares, making 7 per cent. for year (the same as last year); £150,265 forward (against £134,875 brought in).

Herrburger Brooks.—Net trading profit for the year ended 30th June, 1935, is £28,500, plus an additional profit of £13,682 on the sale of investments, making a total profit of £42,182. Final dividend of 7 per cent., making 10 per cent., less tax, for the year. It is proposed to take the necessary steps for the reduction of the issued capital by a repayment of five shillings in respect of each share.

International Automatic Telephone.—Interim Ordinary dividend of 3 per cent. actual, less tax (Same.)

Ketton Portland Cement.—For the year to June 30 last trading profit expanded from £34,898 to £53,566, and the net profit, after depreciation, etc., is £11,291 higher at £34,249, which is the best since the company was registered in 1928. The Ordinary share dividend is raised (as already announced) by 2½ per cent. to 7½ per cent. for the year, and a further £5,568 is written off preliminary expenses, which will reduce that item to £8,000.

Lochgelly Iron and Coal.—Improvements in profits, after depreciation, of over £10,000 to £45,000. As already announced, a dividend of 4 per cent. is to be paid on the Ordinary shares, the first since 2½ per cent. was distributed for 1926-27. After paying the Preference dividend for the year and placing £10,000 to reserve, £11,620 is to be carried forward.

Maidstone and District Motor Services.—Interim dividend maintained at 5 per cent.

Montague Burton.—Half-year's dividend on the 6 per cent. "A" and 7 per cent. Cumulative Preference Shares of the company for the six months ending 30th September, 1935.

Pilmoor Rubber.—No payment in respect of year to December 31, 1935. (Last year interim was 2 1-12 per cent., and final 4½ per cent.)

Samuel Webster and Sons.—Interim dividend of 2½ per cent. (Same.)

Singleton and Cole.—Interim dividend maintained at 6 per cent.

Scottish Ceylon Tea.—Interim Ordinary dividend of 5 per cent. (actual). (Same.)

Youanmi Gold Mines.—The directors announce that, as working operations have not yet commenced, no profits have accrued, and, therefore, the Participating Preference dividend will not be paid on October 18 this year.

NATIONAL GARDEN GUILD

THE LORD MAYOR ON BRIGHTER DUBLIN

The Lord Mayor of Dublin presented the prizes at the annual general meeting of the Irish National Garden Guild, held last night in South William street. He congratulated not only the prize-winners in the various competitions conducted by the Association, but all the competitors and all who were associated with the activities of the Guild, who had done so much to brighten the City of Dublin. The members, he said, even if they had not won prizes, could rest satisfied in the knowledge that they had done something to improve the appearance of the city.

Visitors from all parts of the world who had called recently at the Mansion House, and who had subsequently toured the city, had referred in most complimentary terms to the improvements in housing conditions recently effected in Dublin, and had referred particularly to the beauty of the gardens attached to the houses. One of those visitors, a Melbourne journalist, had stated that nowhere else had he seen gardens so beautifully kept, so carefully tended, as in Dublin. That was a great tribute to the Guild, whose members concentrated on improving their gardens and on brightening the appearance of the city generally. On behalf of the municipality, he wished to thank the members of the Guild for their valuable activities in enhancing the amenities of the city.

Captain J. C. de Lacy, Chairman of the Executive Council of the Guild, presided at the meeting.

The principal prize-winners were:—Andrew Behan, 1 Oak road, Donnycarney; Mrs. T. Bergin, 3 Oak road; T. Keegan, 18 St. Stephen's road, Inchicore; Mrs. C. Milner, 112 Abbeyfield, Killester; P. O'Reilly, 170 Quarry road, Cabra; W. Halpin, 49 Abbeyfield, Killester; H. Guest, 42 Derrynane Gardens, Sandymount; W. Mulcahy, 47 Newgrange road, Cabra.

The Rowan Cup, for the branch having the highest proportion of well-kept front gardens in relation to the number of Guild members, was won by Donnycarney.

The Lord Mayor was re-appointed President of the Guild, on the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. W. Whelan.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

A Visiting Pigeon : Abyssinia's Religion : A Strange Ambition : The Royal Irish : London's Gaelic League

The 18th Royal Irish

So rapid are the changing conditions in Ireland that I sometimes fear we miss, or are inclined to forget, incidents in the world's history in which Irishmen, living and dead, played a great part. How many Irish citizens to-day, for instance, could tell you how an Irish regiment, serving in Flanders more than two and a-half centuries ago, made a breach in the walls at Namur, and so, in addition to changing the history of Europe, achieved for the first time in the annals of the British Army the right to wear a cap-badge all of their own?

How many more could tell of how an Irish regiment, its ranks filled with stalwart boys from Tipperary, Wexford, Kilkenny and Waterford, went to the relief of Gordon when he was besieged by the Mahdi of Khartoum; and how, having set out on that journey, they recked not of bleeding and blistered hands as they rowed two thousand miles up the Nile beneath a thirst-maddening sun, until they had outdistanced by days all the other units of the relieving force?

And how many, or how few, have ever heard of how the same corps, the King's Royal Regiment of Ireland in the service of the King of England, met on the field of battle the King's Royal Regiment of Ireland in the service of the King of France?

A Good Company

I am reminded of all these things because to-morrow night in Dublin the fourth annual dinner of the Old Comrades' Association of the 18th Royal Irish Regiment takes place in Wynn's Hotel.

Old members from every part of the country, North and South, will be there; and there will be contingents from the London and English Midland areas as well.

And, as an instance of the friendship that exists between members of "The Old Corps," I think it is worthy of mention that at least half-a-dozen ex-members who know they will be unavoidably absent have sent to the Secretary, Mr. T. Croke, their dinner subscription, with the request that he allocate it to the entertainment of some ex-Royal Irishman, who, perhaps, in these days is not so well circumstanced as them selves.

Among the visitors will be General Sir John Shea, famous to many ex-soldiers as the Commander of "Shea's Force," which played no small part in Palestine in defeating the Turks in the Great War. Colonel G. M. Grogan will preside, his Vice-Chairman being Colonel Alec Gordon, M.P. for Northern Ireland; and among the guests will be General Sir William Hickie, General Sir Guy Beauchamp, and General Beauchamp Doran, as well as James Farrelly, the regiment's oldest soldier (he joined the 18th in 1867 and is now 86), and "Bill" Connolly, aged 81.

Abyssinia's Religion

There is a widely-spread, but erroneous, belief current that, if the efforts of the League of Nations to avert war in Abyssinia fail, the result will be a contest between a Christian and a heathen nation. Such, however, would not be the case, for the Abyssinians are mostly adherents of the Coptic Church, although their religion retains many traces of older faiths.

Christianity was firmly planted in Abyssinia during the middle of the fourth century by Saint Frumentius, who was tutor to the Emperor's sons, but the non-Christian element remained very powerful, and in the seventh century all communication between the Abyssinian Christians and Rome was interrupted, but the Coptic sect was tolerated.

During the thirteenth century some missionaries of the Dominican Order went from Rome to Abyssinia and were martyred. For a century there was no further missionary activity; then, as a result of the enthusiasm aroused by the Crusades, the Emperor Zera-Jacob, in the year 1452, sent an Embassy to Rome to discuss re-union with the Catholic Church. Nothing came of the matter, for the messengers, passing though Egypt on their way home, were intercepted and put to death by Coptic fanatics.

In 1557 the Jesuit Father Oviedo entered Abyssinia and paved the way for his successor, Father Paez, who converted the Emperor Socinios to Catholicism. Reunion with Rome followed in 1624, but eight years later, when the Negus Basilides ascended the throne, many of the Catholic priests were put to death and the remainder expelled.

An energetic group of missionaries entered the country in 1702 and converted several princes, the Negus professing submission to the Pope in all spiritual matters. A sudden revolution, however, instituted a period of persecution that terminated only with the accession of Menelik in 1889.

London Gaelic League

Energetic efforts are being made by the committee of the Gaelic League in London to ensure that the language classes to be held during the coming winter session will be conducted in the most modern up-to-date manner. In previous years there was a dearth of proficient teachers who possessed the perfect "blas," but that difficulty has now been overcome; for, by special arrangement with the Linguaphone Institute, classes for prospective teachers have been inaugurated and the volunteer instructors in this way afforded an opportunity of learning the proper pronounciation direct (or, rather, indirectly) from native speakers. The "mechanical voice" will also be used in some of the ordinary classes. This year the principal speaker at the public meeting with which the session opens will be Risteard O Foghladha, better known by his nom-de-plume, Fiacra Eilgeach. It is hoped that Mr. Art O'Brien, late President of the League in London and now Irish Minister in Paris, will attend.

A Pigeon Visitor

During the heat wave a friend of mine while lying ill had her bed placed under the window for coolness, with the result that one day a carrier pigeon flew in and fell exhausted on the bed. It lay nestled up to my friend, and made no movement while she examined its ring and then turned over books and papers beside it. After a while, thinking it might need refreshment, she called her maid to bring water. Meanwhile the pigeon, having recovered somewhat, hopped off the bed and calmly strolled about exploring the bedrooms. My friend could hear it busily rustling about in the distance, and finally, to her amusement, it backed in, followed by the maid, on her hands and knees, offering it a cup of water. Each time the water was thrust under its beak it backed indignantly, "quite like a Christian," as the maid said. Finally, the cup being put down, it drank, and then strolled round again. Some cereals in a saucer were next put under its beak, and it again backed indignantly until the saucer, in its turn, being put down it fed; and then—rather ungratefully—it flew out of the window and away to a neighbouring window-sill!

Another Sire Leaving

Undoubtedly, if President de Valera does not soon settle the economic war we shall have nothing left in Ireland to sell in a few years time. I hear that another sire of note is now to be sent out of the country. This is Tolgus, who will, it appears, be sent to stand at Newmarket shortly. The Tolgus stock have all been fetching high prices at the sales, and have been winning races everywhere. The economic war is naturally the cause of this, as it seems owners do not intend to allow their foals to be born in Ireland while they are being mulcted with a 40 per cent. tax when they go to sell them in England. They do not regard the 20 per cent. bounty which the Free State Government allows them at the expense of the taxpayer a fair solution. Each day one hears of some new form of injustice to people through this insane Governmental quarrel. For example, three splendid Blandford yearlings bred at the Midleton Stud have been shipped to America to race instead of to England. These animals were valued at 4,000 guineas each for entry into England, and the duty chargeable would have been something like 3,000 guineas. Naturally their owner—who is Mr. Woodward, I believe—took them to America instead.

A Sportsman's Ambition

The other day I met an old friend, a keen sportsman, who, in a moment of expansion, confessed to me that he had one great ambition in life. "I hope," he said, "to shoot every year, for thirty years, a thousand snipe. I have done it for four years already. I know its a tremendous undertaking these days, but, if I live, I expect to do it." A thousand snipe is a very big thing, even for one year, when one considers the difficulty of shooting the quick-moving little birds. Now this friend is a superb snipe shot, an art which he has carefully cultivated. He has studied the flight of these birds so closely that he almost always knows just the right time to fire as the snipe straightens out for a moment in its jerky aerial journey. Also, he has devoted much time to watching the birds in their natural bogs, so that he can instinctively tell the right place to find them. I shall watch his sporting career with interest for the next twenty-six years.

GAME PROTECTION

THE OPEN SEASON FOR PHEASANTS

A meeting of the Committee of the Irish Game Protection Association was held at the offices, 110 Grafton street, Dublin, yesterday. The Right Hon. the Earl of Granard, K.P., Chairman, presided, and there were also present:—Major-General Sir George McK. Franks, K.C.B., Vice-Chairman; Captain Arthur Coddington, Colonel Guinness, Mr. William S. Hayes, Mr. A. Loftus Bryan, Captain R. S. P. MacIvor, Mr. R. W. Hall-Dare, D.L.; Major T. Crosbie Goff, D.S.O.; Colonel the Hon. E. Corbally Stourton, Mr. John Garvey, O.B.E., D.L.; Mr. Raymond Meredith, Mr. Claud J. Bourchier, F.S.I., and the Secretary, Mr. B. J. Newcombe.

Correspondence with the Minister for Justice on the subject of the new orders governing the open season for partridge and pheasants, 1935, was read, and the orders submitted, which are to the effect that the open season for pheasants in the Free State commences on the 1st November, 1935, and ends on 31st January, 1936. The Minister, in a second order, has continued the Partridge Prohibition Order, with an open season for the month of October—from 1st to 31st October—both days inclusive.

A letter was read from the Commissioner of the Garda Siochana in reply to the Committee's request that a Garda should be appointed in each barrack of the Saorstat for the enforcement of the Game Preservation Act, 1930, in which it was stated it was not possible to allocate the enforcement of this Act to any one Garda, but instructions had been issued to the Guards to give the matter every attention.

Correspondence was also read with several Superintendents of the Garda throughout the country, where, at the request of the Association, special patrols had been sent out in connection with the opening season for grouse last month, and assistance had been rendered.

The results of recent prosecutions by the Association for offences against the game laws were submitted and reported offences dealt with.

Lord Granard, Chairman, was specially thanked by the Committee for his recently issued appeal to sportsmen for support in aid of the work of the Association.

Mr. William S. Hayes was co-opted a member of the Finance Committee in the room of the late Captain Anthony F. Maude.

Correspondence was read regarding the manufacture and supply of special bore cartridges in the Free State, and also a letter on the subject from the Irish Metal Industries Ltd., Galway. Lord Granard stated that he had used the sporting cartridges manufactured at Galway and had found them to be satisfactory.

Two of the bulls set aside to be slaughtered for the Ethiopian Emperor's New Year's Day banquet to 45,000 peasants yesterday morning ran amok in the Palace yard and gored a man.

FUTURE RELATIONS OF CELTIC PEOPLES

THE BOND OF THEIR UNITY

A FREE STATE SCHEME

KNITTING THE NATIONS MORE CLOSELY

FROM OUR REPORTER.

CARDIFF, Thursday.

DYNAMITING in Britanny is characteristic of the livelier Celticism brought to the notice of the Celtic Congress here to-day. The delegates were given copies of pamphlets by members of the Breton delegation. These dealt at length with the revival of national sentiment among the Breton Celts, whose ancestors emigrated from Wales to France in the sixth century, and were until the fifteenth century an independent nation.

In 1932, says the pamphlet, the secret organisation, "Gwenn Ha Du," made itself known by the dynamiting of the monument commemorating the union of Britanny with France, and by the attempt on President Herriot's special train. The effect of these demonstrations has been very gratifying. In one year the Nationalist Party doubled the number of its members. The revival is widespread, and "Breiz Atao" has become for everyone the symbol of protest against foreign domination.

FUTURE RELATIONS

Speaking to a paper on "Future Relations Among Celtic Peoples," a young Breton later made a warm appeal for his country to be aided in escaping from French influence and control.

Professor J. E. Daniels, of Bangor (Wales) University, who read the paper, had striking things to say of Celtic consciousness. "Everyone who is reconciled to cultural domination by an alien civilisation is not a Celt."

The congress clapped and cheered when he spoke of restoring the consciousness of their celticism by an Inter-University Union of Wales, Scotland, Ireland and Brittany, and, by radio exchanges of national music, literature, etc.

This idea was cordially approved by other delegates.

Professor Daniels said that essentially the Celts must co-operate to restore the Celtic type of life to which Ireland had remained faithfully—a life of wedded to the soil.

LOOKING TO IRELAND

The one thing that made such co-operation not merely visionary was, he said, that there was now one independent Celtic nation—Ireland.

"We, who are fighting the battle of our Celtic civilisation against an imperial power greater than Rome, must now look for inspiration to Ireland."

Professor Agnes O'Farrelly said that the Free State Government subsidy promised by Mr. de Valera last year for a suitable Celtic study scheme would aid to knit the Celtic nations more closely together.

The Rev. John MacKechnie said that the present Scottish Gaelic societies were wasting their time, but he had faith in a new movement among University students.

THE MAIN TROUBLE

Professor Daniel's paper this morning dealt with the fundamental conditions under which ideal co-operative relations between the Celtic peoples could be made possible. He said that the main trouble with the Celtic peoples of to-day was that they tended only to have a past. He did not believe they were bound by any racial element nor were they bound by language. It was irony that the only linguistic bond between the Celtic peoples was the non-Celtic English, and they were not bound by religion.

What is it that welds us into some sort of unity at this Celtic Congress? The bond of our unity is a common fear, a common sense of being on the defensive. The pressure in Brittany is of French civilisation, and in the other Celtic countries it is the power of English civilisation. Whatever Celtic consciousness we have is the direct result of political imperialism.

"I define the Celt as being one who always has his back to the wall; wherever acquiescence takes place, Celticism ceases to be, so my definition of Celt is psychological and based on this common need of defence against danger. This Congress may find itself sooner or later nothing better than an archæological institution if the Celtic peoples neglect that primary duty.

CELTIC CONSCIOUSNESS

"Outside this Congress the Celtic consciousness hardly exists at all. It is a dream, perhaps, but I should like to see the Celtic peoples form some kind of university union. I should like to see it possible for a Welsh student to take part of his degree course in Dublin, part in Edinburgh and part in Rennes. The various wireless authorities should bring the radio programmes of the Celtic countries into much closer touch with each other. I should like to see the authorities coming together and mapping out some sort of programme for exchanging their resources of music, literature and intellect with one another.

"Much could be done along these lines to produce a Pan-Celtic consciousness and make it into a real thing, but to isolate Celtic consciousness to purely cultural relationships is to do a great wrong and attempt the impossible. You cannot isolate culture. It does not exist by itself, it is a flower on a stalk with roots. You cannot have Celtic culture without the roots of the Celtic life.

WEDDED TO THE SOIL

"There is no room for the Welsh language in the modern industrialism England has given us. What we need to cooperate for is to re-establish the type of life that Ireland has remained faithful to—a life wedded to the soil. That is the tragedy of my subject to-day. The co-operation for such a fundamental end as this is only possible between equals, between peoples or nations who are fully responsible, and fully prepared to take their own destiny into their hands. The one thing that has made the hope of such co-operation, however, not merely Utopian and visionary, is, that to-day there is one Celtic nation. Ireland succeeded in realising its desires to become responsible for its own destiny.

"Just as when Imperial Rome was attacking Gaul and the Gauls got reinforcements from their rear in Britain, so we, who are fighting the battle of our Celtic civilisation against Imperial power greater than Rome, must now look for inspiration to Ireland. To be a Celt to-day is to keep before one's eyes always the vision of that one Celtic people that has succeeded in safeguarding its Celtic civilisation against every possible attack, and in whose hands it is safe so far as we can see for ever. We have been told by the President of the Congress that 'the Celts have taught the world.' It is now time to realise that Ireland must teach the Celts.

AN IRISH SCHEME

UNITING CELTIC NATIONS

Professor Agnes O'Farrelly, who was Chairman at the session, said she thought Professor Daniels had succeeded in throwing a spanner into the thought of the assembly, but the Celtic Congress would not develop into an archæological institute. They hoped at the end of the present Congress to present a scheme, as they had been invited to present by Mr. de Valera last year, and provide a programme which would knit Celtic nations more closely together for the purposes of national culture. They also hoped to publish an annual report and their own magazine.

The Rev. John Mackechnie said that Professor Daniels was the one man who had the courage to put into words what they knew to be the truth of the Celtic situation. Industrialism had killed Scotland, which was now more and more dependent on her rich relative, England. Scottish Gaelic societies were doing nothing. He had confidence, however, in the new Gaelic organisation started by Scottish university students. He suggested a common wireless station and common newspaper for Celtic countries.

THE CASE OF BRITTANY

Mons. Ordrel, Brittany, said it was unfair that any Pan-Celtic problem should be considered without taking into consideration the Continental Celts of Brittany. These had to release themselves from the alien civilisation of the French. He asked for the aid of other Celtic nations in the achievement of Bretagne's national liberty, and said that his country had much to contribute to Celtic culture.

He referred to the necessity in his country of a "Gaelic League" and of the political independence enjoyed by the Free State.

Professor Farrelly said that the proper place for the Breton delegates to discuss their national problems was on their own soil. No Breton had, she said, attended the Celtic Congress at Dinard to discuss these problems.

A paper on "Deirdre and the Sons of Uisneach" was read by the Rev. John MacKechnie.

Professor O Maille, Galway, speaking to this, said that the cleavage between Scottish Gaelic and Irish Gaelic occurred before the ninth century.

The chairman at this session was Mr. M. J. Lennon, Dublin.

Miss Augusta Lamont, M.A., read a paper on "Historical Links between Scotland and Bretagne," and Mr. J. J. Kneen, a Manxman, spoke on "Welsh and Manx Linguistics."

Mr. Kneen, who has compiled a Manx dictionary, said that of the population of over fifty thousand persons on the Isle of Man, about one hundred spoke Manx; how many spoke it constantly he could not say.

THE BANQUET

WALES'S GIFT TO IRELAND

To-night a banquet was held at the Park Hotel in honour of the Congress. Subsequently delegates from each Celtic country were invited to speak in their own language and in English, and part of the proceedings were broadcast.

The toast of "The Congress" was responded to by the President, the Rev. G. Hartwell Jones. In the course of his speech, he said:—"The Irish delegates will feel at home in Cardiff. The ties between Wales and Ireland date from the earliest epochs. Welshmen marched under the Norman Geraldine banner to attack Ireland. Outnumbered, out-manœuvred, but never outshone, the Irish succumbed, but wreaked characteristic revenge. They attracted, absorbed, assimilated their Welsh captors, and made them more Irish than themselves. The chief service, however, that Wales rendered to Ireland was the gift of St. Patrick, who was proved by an Irish professor to have been born in Glamorganshire.

"I do not grudge the Irish the possession of Patrick. They needed him badly, and Wales had saints to spare. The Apostle showed insight and penetration in linking himself with Ireland. He foresaw that Ireland would always be in the limelight, and he took the additional precaution of writing his autobiography."

LEINSTER COLLEGE OF IRISH

PUBLIC'S ATTITUDE TO THE LANGUAGE

Judge George Moonan, K.C., presided at the thirtieth annual meeting of the governors and students of the Leinster College of Irish last evening at 39 Parnell square, Dublin.

The report of the twenty-ninth session, which was submitted by Mr. Seamus Campbell (secretary) showed that 534 students were registered in the oral classes and 874 in the correspondence classes.

In proposing the adoption of the report, Mr. B. Fitzpatrick, head of the college, paid a tribute to the co-operation of the staff and students in making the college the success that it is. He referred particularly to the Gaelic tone which had always been a marked feature of the college.

The report was seconded by Dr. Sean McCann, and adopted.

A paper on "Gaedhealachas" was read by Mr. Michael Hayes, Lecturer in Irish in University College, Dublin, in the course of which he emphasised the need for bringing the Irish language into accord with present-day activities. He regretted that a great many Gaelic enthusiasts abhorred a set of quadrilles in a Gaeltacht district, but had no objection to golf. To revive Irish, he said, they must not only put the language in its rightful place, but they must also practise Irish dancing, games, wear Irish costumes, etc. It was no use asking sixteenth century language to suit the needs of the present day. The general public, he said, never took any real interest in the language revival, as they did in political movements. Subsequent to Easter, 1916, itself the work of the Volunteers—political propaganda generally—was carried on without the use of the national language. The burning question to-day, he said, was: "Are we desirous to give no place whatever to the English language in our affairs, or are we content to retain its use for the present?"

Mr. T. Morrissey, M.A.; Alderman Cormac Breathnach, LL.D.; Mr. G. O Murchadha, M.A.; Mr. D. McGrianna, and Dr. S. O Searcaigh, M.A., also spoke.

On the motion of Mr. Fitzpatrick, seconded by Mr. Campbell, the thanks of the meeting were conveyed to Mr. Hayes.

A silver medal was presented to Miss C. Waldron for having secured the highest marks in the examination.

The proceedings were conducted in Irish.

PARISH OF HOWTH

INCUMBENT INSTITUTED

In the presence of a very large congregation, the Rev. Henry Joseph Livingstone Armstrong, B.D., M.Sc., was instituted Incumbent of the Parish of Howth at the Parish Church, Howth, last night, by the Archbishop of Dublin, the Most Rev. Dr. Gregg. There were also present the Archdeacon of Dublin, Canon Crozier; Canon Powell, Canon Drury, Canon Sullivan, the Rev. Robert Cecil Armstrong, the Rev. H. C. Cave, the Rev. J. G. Pyper, the Rev. G. F. Hamilton, the Rev. Dr. Emerson, the Rev. W. Bell, and the Diocesan Registrar, Mr. W. H. Robinson.

After the institution the Archbishop preached the sermon, in which he said that they were assisting at a very important event in the history of that church, an event which marked the close of a ministry lasting twenty-three years and the beginning of a new ministry. Looking around them they saw many evidences of their former minister's interest in and affection for his congregation and church. They should pray to God that rich blessings might rest upon his successor, their new incumbent, and through him on that parish and congregation.

The Archbishop quoted from St. Paul's first Epistle to the Corinthians, and urged people to think less of the peculiarities, the particular gifts or shortcomings of the clergy, but to remember that they were the chosen ministers of God and measurers out and dispensers of the mysteries of God.

THE BISHOP OF MENEVIA

The enthronement of the Rev. Father Micheal McGrath, of Bangor, North Wales, as Bishop of Menevia, is to take place at the Pro-Cathedral at Wrexham on Tuesday, September 24. The Diocese of Menevia was formed in 1598 to take the place of the Vicariate of Wales. Father McGrath is the successor of Bishop Francis Vaughan, who died last March.

The death has occurred, in Sydney, of Mr. Alfred William Green, President of the New South Wales Cricket Association. Mr. Green had been connected with the administrative side of cricket for more than 50 years. For the past 54 years Mr. Green had been Assistant Secretary to the British Medical Association in New South Wales.

IRISH WEDDINGS

MR. R. P. WILSON AND MISS F. FITZGERALD

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Thursday.

THE marriage took place to-day in the Lady Chapel of Westminster Cathedral of Mr. Ronald Paterson Wilson, Chief Constable of West Sussex, and Miss Frances Fitzgerald, daughter of the late Inspector-General Michael Fitzgerald, R.N., of Roughan, County Clare, and of Mrs. Fitzgerald, of Queen Alexandra Court, London, S.W.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Cowan Wilson, of Blantyre, Lanarkshire, and Mr. Duncan Stewart acted as his best man.

The Rev. J. Geraerts, of the Cathedral, celebrated the Nuptial Mass and performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, wearing a dress and short coat of wine-red lace and georgette, with a hat to match, accompanied her daughter to the Cathedral, where they were met by Commander E. F. Fitzgerald, R.N. (retired), of Roughan, who gave his sister away.

The bride wore a slim-fitting gown of soft ivory satin, made in perfectly simple style. The bodice had a high neckline and long tight-fitting sleeves. The train of her dress was trimmed with a handsome old shawl of Limerick lace, worn by generations of brides in her mother's family, and her veil of ivory tulle was held by a halo of orange buds and pearls. She held a sheaf of Madonna lilies, into which was tucked a sprig of white heather.

Master Michael Bruce, nephew of the bride, who bore the train, wore a kilt of the Gordon tartan with a white silk blouse. Behind him walked two little girls—Miss Bridget Bruce, niece of the bride, and Miss Mary Grayson, a cousin. Their dresses, of primrose-yellow sprigged organdie, were long to their ankles, and were made with little puffed sleeves. Each wore a wreath of buttercups and carried a Victoria posy of mixed flowers.

Captain and Mrs. Tristram Grayson lent their house, at 21 Markham square, S., for the reception which followed the ceremony.

The honeymoon will be spent in Scotland.

MR. G. S. CHILDS AND MISS E. J. TUTTY

Yesterday, at St. James's Church, Crinken, Bray, Mr. George Stuart Childs, son of Mr. Levi Childs, of 3 Milton terrace, Bray, was married to Miss Ethel Jane Tutty, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Tutty, of Ardvarna, Shankill, County Dublin.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. F. E. Bland, M.A., assisted by the Rev. Chancellor G. D. Scott, M.A. The church had been tastefully decorated with flowers.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a classically-cut gown of parchment-tinted ring velvet, the skirt terminating in a train edged with pleated net to tone, and the girdle was of pearls and golden beads. Her veil, of parchment tulle, was arranged over a lace cap, with a bandeau of orange blossom, and her ornaments included a gold horse-shoe brooch, set with pearls, the gift of the bridegroom's father. She carried a sheaf bouquet of apricot gladioli and myrtle, the gift of the bridegroom.

The bridesmaids—Miss Victoria O'Grady and Miss Olive Caldwell—wore oyster-pink satin gowns, cut on Grecian lines, head-dresses of golden leaves, and gold shoes, and they carried shower bouquets of pale pink gladioli. The bridegroom's gifts to the bridesmaids were pink evening bags.

The bride's pages were Miss Zoë Caldwell and Miss Helen Stuart. They wore pale blue satin and net, and carried Victorian posies. The bridegroom's gifts to the pages were silver bangles.

Mr. George H. Burrows acted as best man, and the groomsmen in the church were Messrs. W. T. Tutty, brother of the bride, and S. A. J. Kilbey, brother-in-law of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the International Hotel, Bray, by the bride's mother, who wore a rust-coloured gown of moracain, a large black hat, and stone marten furs.

In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. G. Stuart Childs left for Vienna and Budapest, Mrs. Childs wearing a beige armure cloth frock, a beige coat trimmed with fox fur, and a brown hat.

The gowns were designed and executed by Mai Geldof, Wicklow street, Dublin.

Many of the bridegroom's Scouting friends and colleagues were present at the ceremony, at the conclusion of which the bridal car was towed by Scouts in uniform from the church to the International Hotel, Bray.

MR. P. W. PRENDERGAST AND MISS K. M. GREALY

On the 10th inst., at the Pro-Cathedral, Dublin, Mr. Peter W. Prendergast, of the National Bank, Castlerea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Prendergast, Ballyhitt, Kilrane, Co. Wexford, was married to Miss Kathleen Mona (Mona) Grealy, third daughter of Mrs. and the late Mr. T. J. Grealy, The Hotel, Roscommon.

The ceremony, with Nuptial Mass, was performed by the Right Rev. Monsignor Cummins, P.P., V.G., assisted by the Rev. William Prendergast, S.J., Milltown, cousin of the bridegroom; the Rev. M. J. O'Reilly, Roscommon, and the Rev. J. Gallagher, Roscommon.

Miss Irene Grealy, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. T. McDonnell, National Bank, Ballina, acted as best man.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Michael Grealy, Mullingar.

A reception was held in the Gresham Hotel, after which the bride and bridegroom left for their honeymoon in North Wales.

VOCATIONAL TEACHING

APPOINTMENTS AT DUN LAOGHAIRE

At a meeting of the Borough of Dun Laoghaire Vocational Education Committee, at which the Rev. L. L. Potter, C.C., Chairman, presided, the following appointments were made:—

Domestic Science Instructress—Miss E. M. Ingram, St. Kevin's Park, Dublin (unanimously).

Teacher of artcraft, leather work and embroidery—Miss P. McKenna was appointed by a majority from among eight applicants.

Teacher of commerce and business methods—F. Gillooly, B.Comm., Clarinda Park, Dun Laoghaire, was unanimously appointed from among sixteen applicants.

Mr. F. F. McCarthy, Chief Executive Officer, reported to the Committee that employers had commented favourably on the training given to girls for the hosiery factory and others in the Blackrock Technical Institute.

The new headmaster in Blackrock, Mr. Gormley had done his work efficiently.

The Committee expressed satisfaction with the progress made.

With regard to lighting, they considered that the charges made by the E.S.B. were excessive. The charges were 7½d. per unit, as against 4d. in the city.

On the motion of the Rev. J. S. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. E. J. Mallins, a resolution was passed asking the E.S.B. to reduce the charge per unit to the same rate as in Pembroke—3½d per unit.

THE GATE THEATRE

NO AMALGAMATION WITH ABBEY

The Board of the Gate Theatre issued yesterday a definite denial of the rumour that there is to be an amalgamation of the Gate Theatre with the Abbey Theatre. "Certain members of the Board of the Dublin Gate Theatre," the statement runs, "have been approached with a view to the amalgamation of the Abbey and the Gate Theatres. Upon consideration of the proposals the Gate Theatre did not consider that it was to their advantage to accept."

The theatre's immediate programme has now been decided upon, and the opening production will be "The Marriage of St. Francis" on October 8th. This play, by Henri Ghéon, has been translated by Father Martindale, S.J., and will be performed to specially composed music. The settings and costumes, by Micheal MacLiammoir, will be after the style of Giotto.

"Master of the Revels," a satire on Henry VIII., by Don Marquis, will follow, and the next two plays will be an adaptation of Dostoievsky's novel, "Crime and Punishment," and a new play by Elmer Rice, "Not for Children." All these plays are being performed in Ireland for the first time.

Daily Programme Review

DUBLIN: Relay from Roberts's Café, 3.30.

NORTHERN IRELAND: Roland Powell's Quintet, 7.15.

B.B.C. NATIONAL: Promenade Concert (Beethoven), 8.

REGIONAL: "Friday, the Thirteenth." Radio version, 8.

SCOTTISH: Excerpts from Harry Kemp's "Jubilee," 8.

VIENNA: Symphony Concert. Béla Bartok (pianoforte), 8.30.

RADIO-PARIS: Relay from Vichy, 8.30.

THE programme of music to be relayed from Roberts's Café, Dublin, from 3.30 to 5.30 this afternoon, consists of selections from "The Mousme" (Monkton), "A Waltz Dream" (O. Strauss), "Glamorous Night" (Novello), an arrangement of music from "Samson and Delilah" and "The Pirates of Penzance," two popular waltzes and two groups of short pieces. Michael O'Higgins, who is assisting in the broadcast, will sing. He will first be heard in a group of German songs, and later in Stanford's "When She Answered Me," "The Fairy Lough," "Johneen" and "Back to Ireland."

Items of special interest to Irish listeners are the following:—F. R. Higgins in a talk, "Irish Poetry for the last Thirty Years," at 7.40, and a lecture and song recital at 8.40 by Sean O Ciosain. The illustrations consist of Irish love songs, national songs, a battle song and a drinking song.

In the Beethoven programme for to-night's Promenade Concert such well-known works as the Overture, "Leonora" No. 1 and the "Eroica" Symphony will be played. Eileen Joyce is the soloist in the Pianoforte Concerto No. 2 in B flat.

The Gershom Parkington Quintet have arranged a good programme for to-night, in which Eleanor Kaufman (mezzo-soprano) is singing songs by Poldowski and Schubert.

Miriam Ferris, a pioneer broadcaster of the B.B.C., will attempt to-night to recapture for herself, as well as for listeners, some of the happy memories of the early days at Savoy Hill. In this attempt she will reconstruct one of the Savoy Hill Saturday night shows of some ten years ago, then a popular weekly feature of the B.B.C. programmes. For this purpose a band of old colleagues have gathered together, and, between them, will endeavour to present past successes in an up to date manner. Entitled, "Who Remembers?" the programme should contain many items still fresh in the minds of listeners, while the list of artists includes many that are still going strong and have become popular broadcasters. "Who Remembers?" will be heard on all Regional wave-lengths at 9.10. Northern Ireland listeners will get this, and also "Friday, the Thirteenth," at 8.

A programme of waltzes and marches made popular by John Philip Sousa, the American bandmaster, who caused a sensation as conductor wherever he performed during the late 'nineties, will be played by the B.B.C. Northern Orchestra at 7.20 in the Northern programme.

"The Summer Revellers," in a light entertainment, will be relayed from the Pavilion, Teignmouth, at 8 in the Western programme. Excerpts from Harry Kemp's "Jubilee" in the Scottish programme will be relayed from the Barrfields Pavilion, Largs, and Northern Ireland will take a relay from the Slieve Donard Hotel, Newcastle, Co. Down, where Roland Powell's Quintet is playing a selection of popular musical items, commencing at 7.15. Harry Roy and his Band supply the late dance music in all B.B.C. programmes to-night.

WICKLOW GOLD MINE LEASE

PROCEDURE CRITICISED

MR. MCGILLIGAN'S VIEWS

MR. P. McGILLIGAN, T.D., yesterday continued his evidence before a resumed sitting of the Select Committee of the Dail, which is enquiring into the demise of certain mining rights in County Wicklow. On the previous day Mr. McGilligan had given his direct testimony, and had been cross-examined by Mr. Geoghegan, K.C.

Mr. W. Norton, T.D., again presided, and the other members present were:—Messrs. Hugo Flinn, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Finance; Mr. J. Geoghegan, K.C., T.D.; Mr. T. P. Dowdall, T.D.; Mr. Oscar Traynor, T.D.; Mr. J. Moore, T.D.; Mr. FitzGerald-Kenney, K.C., T.D.; Mr. J. Coburn, T.D., and Mr. John Good, T.D.

Mr. Hugo Flinn, continuing his cross-examination of the witness, referred to the letter to the Minister that had been written by Mr. Briscoe and Senator Comyn. He asked was not the whole purport of it to warn the Minister that some action on his part was necessary to warn the Irish national of his danger in subscribing to it.

Mr. McGilligan, replying, quoted the last paragraph of the letter, which, he said, was the "red light." Why did they say to the Minister: "Watch. If any Irish national puts money into this thing, which we warn you is bad, there is going to be a political row, and you will suffer?"

Mr. Flinn—The only thing that comes into your mind is that they were concerned with political reaction?—A political reaction to the Minister, while they were safeguarding themselves.

Mr. Flinn—You do not conceive the possibility that they were trying to keep Irish nationals out of what you call "a dud company," because they did not want Irish nationals involved?

Mr. McGilligan—I do not see a great deal of difference. The Minister got a warning of this sort, and he simply let it alone. He did not bother. He did not even write back.

Mr. Flinn—I suggest you are always taking the view that the thing was somewhat dishonest.

Mr. McGilligan said that the plain tenor of the letter was that there was a great chance of someone being exploited instead of resources being worked, and they asked the Minister to see that Irish nationals did not invest.

RAN UP DEBTS

Mr. Flinn—You said that these people ran up debts without investing money themselves?

Mr. McGilligan said he would not like too much to be read into that. He said that they did not pay the five pounds rent for a considerable time, and that the State Solicitor had to write for it. He knew that in regard to the only boring done in the area there was a small sum of £13 and there were two firms of solicitors engaged. Young Norman's claim was beaten down, and it took a solicitor's letter to get that.

Mr. Flinn said that mere hearsay was insufficient to enable witness to say that these debts were owed.

Mr. McGilligan said he made a statement, which he thought was correct, that people were known to him to have received money from these two people after a solicitor's letter was written.

Mr. Flinn—I put it to you that two reputable public men put forward the best obtainable proposition to competent civil servants, who, entirely independent of the Minister, dealt in normal procedure with that proposition, believing same to be a good bargain for the State. I put it to you that that is the evidence that has been sworn?

Mr. McGilligan—I criticise every phrase of that.

Mr. Flinn—But that is what has been sworn to?

Mr. McGilligan—May I put it another way, that is your view of what has been sworn?

Mr. Flinn (to Mr. McGilligan)—Do you accept that Mr. Ferguson swore that the best obtainable or available proposition in relation to this matter was put forward by these gentlemen?

Mr. McGilligan—Which of the two words do you use—obtainable or available?

Mr. Flinn—Best available.

Mr. McGilligan—Mr. Ferguson, as far as I recollect, swore that it was the best proposition available—there was no other offer, and that anything was better than nothing. He was asked to detail what advantages, if any, would come out of it, and he mentioned employment for four able-bodied men. His sole attention was focussed on employment. It emerged further that the Department did not see whether the men were employed or not. With these criticisms I accept Mr. Ferguson's statement.

NORMAL PROCEDURE

Mr. Flinn said that Mr. Ferguson had sworn that the matter was dealt with without consultation with the Minister, and absolutely in a normal manner by the Department.

Mr. McGilligan said that if Mr. Ferguson set out the procedure followed as the standard of normal procedure, then he had to accept his view, but he thought it highly improper.

Mr. Flinn—Mr. Ferguson also swore that they had obtained the best bargain for the State?

Mr. McGilligan—He may believe that.

Mr. Flinn—What actually do you allege?

Mr. McGilligan—I allege that this whole thing is simply chock full of politics. I say that is specially and clearly evidenced by the fact that, when the Minister found that these people who got a concession had made an agreement in which they were to get considerable benefits in property that did not belong to them, he did not take steps to warn them that this could not be proceeded with, more particularly when he got an intimation from them that, in their opinion, it was so highly speculative that no Irish capital should be allowed to go into it. I say that that was the special point that made this whole matter obnoxious.

I allege that prudent men, on receipt of that letter, would have written back warning these people.

Mr. Flinn—You say that the only possible explanation of this thing was a conspiracy between the civil servants to give to political associates of the Government, because they were political associates, State property for an inadequate consideration.

Mr. McGilligan—That is very fine language, but it is not mine. Why go out of the way to get phrases and ask me to accept them when I have perfectly good phrases of my own?

Mr. Flinn—I am trying to understand them.

Mr. McGilligan—You will not understand them when you are putting a paraphrase of your own on them.

LESS SEARCHING INQUIRY

Mr. McGilligan said that he did not think he went further than to say that there would be less searching inquiries into a proposition put up by members of the Oireachtas, and members of the Government party, than in regard to anybody else.

In reply to further questions, he said that when he was Minister he was sure that everyone in his Department sensed his views and attitude towards the giving of employment to ex-Army men, even before he had circulated a memorandum on the matter. "If it were merely the granting of a lease I would not say a word about it, but there had been trafficking with the concession later," he said, in reply to a further question.

Mr. Flinn—When you say that there was trafficking in the property of the State you are referring to the lease?—My phrase included the valuable property in Wicklow. I do not know how you can separate the property from the lease.

SENATOR COMYN ACTIVE

Mr. McGilligan was examined by Mr. FitzGerald-Kenney, who asked was his objection that a member of the Dail and a member of the Senate had received a concession which they were to sell to their advantage.

Witness—Yes.

Mr. McGilligan said that while he was in office Senator Comyn had made approaches to his Department, but at no time had there been anything irregular in these approaches. These approaches, however, had not indicated that Senator Comyn himself had been very ready to spend a great deal of his own capital in development. "He was very keen on development. He certainly had been very interested in it, and he was trying to get Government aid—to have experts sent down to investigate. Anything he did was done in the most regular fashion. Indeed, it would have been all right now if Senator Comyn had been, as he was in the past, in the best company possible—namely, his own."

Mr. FitzGerald-Kenney—A rather strange proposition was put to you yesterday—that it was not part of a Minister's duties to turn down any suggestion put to him by permanent officials; and would you consider that the Minister should be the head of a Department, or a mere rubber stamp?

Mr. McGilligan—I have read a book written in England on the growth of bureaucracy, but I never in my life heard the cream and essence of bureaucracy until Mr. Geoghegan questioned me yesterday. He seemed to be astonished that I actively on occasions arrogated to myself the power to disobey my civil servants. I did so frequently, and they were not astonished. I cannot see myself carrying out my duties unless I am to act on my own.

In reply to a further question he said: If I got the information conveyed in the letter of April 25th I would have sent for these two people at once, and I would have asked them what the last sentence in the letter meant. I would say to them: "Are you trying to get me to help to put up a bad proposition to foreigners?" I would ask them if they really intended to work the mine, or to get outside help and skim the cream.

WOULD NOT QUIBBLE

Mr. McGilligan, in reply to Mr. Moore, said that he did not wish to leave any impression that might cause suspicion that members of the Committee met Mr. Harrison, a London solicitor, and intrigued against the success of the Committee. He would not quibble about it.

In reply to the Chairman, Mr. McGilligan said that the officials of the Department may have been under the atmosphere that members of the Oireachtas should not be put through the same paces as an ordinary person. He asked why were the officials so lax in the investigation that should properly have followed the questionaire. He reluctantly accepted the statement that the procedure prior to granting the lease was normal.

Chairman—If the Minister embarked on a wrong course could the mere radiation of this atmosphere coerce the officials into acquiescing in this course? That would not occur. From my nine years' experience of the officials I had not the slightest hint of corruption. Civil servants try to deal with matters in the most impartial way. "In this case I think that the lease had been granted much more easily to these people than it would have been to outsiders. The precautions taken, I think, were not sufficient."

"NORMAL PROCEDURE"

Re-examined by Mr. Flinn, Mr. McGilligan said it was hardly credible to him that the Minister would not have known about the granting of the lease. He could have read about it in the daily papers. The letter of the 25th April should have been sent to the Minister by the civil servants in his Department, and even a cursory glance at it should have caused the Minister to call for all the papers. The Minister should have known all about it if he knew his job. He did not think that the mere sending of the letter to the Minister would discharge the civil servants of their responsibility in connection with the matter. In his time as Minister he would have expected more from the civil servants of his Department.

In reply to a question by Mr. Coburn as to whether he agreed with the evidence of Mr. Ferguson and other civil servants that the preliminaries in the granting of the lease were carried out in the normal way, Mr. McGilligan said that he did not think anybody could describe that as the normal procedure in his time. He noticed that Mr. MacElligott, who, naturally, was speaking for the Minister for Finance, said that this lease had been dealt with in the same way as similar leases in the time of the present Minister's predecessor. The only leases dealt with in his time were leases under the State Lands Act, and these had all to be laid on the table of the Oireachtas. If the letter sent by Mr. Briscoe and Senator Comyn was not brought before the Minister there would have been laxity on the part of these officials. The international reputation of the country would be put in the gutter if English people were encouraged to subscribe to a company when Irish people were warned not to.

When the examination of Mr. McGilligan had concluded Mr. Geoghegan referred to a matter on which he had asked for a direction of the Chairman. He said that he requested the Chairman to direct Mr. McGilligan to state the name of the person from whom he had heard that he (speaker) had been in conference or in touch with a Mr. Harrison, of Messrs. Harrison and Co., solicitors, letters from whom had been circulated and were now on the file. He (Mr. Geoghegan) had asked, in the first instance, that the Chairman direct Mr. McGilligan to inform the Committee of the person who told him.

"SLANDER"

That might necessitate further inquiry as to who was the author of the slander.

Chairman—I think that the question you put to Mr. McGilligan was a question you were fairly entitled to put, but the question of my powers, or the powers of the Committee, to take action in the event of witnesses declining to answer is a matter on which I am not clear. I have already had some consultations, and I am continuing these consultations with a view to seeing what are my powers as Chairman of the Committee. I think that the matter should be raised at a later stage.

Mr. Geoghegan said that he would defer any further observation until the appropriate later stage, it being understood that he was reserving the matter in its entirety.

Mr. Dowdall—May I suggest that, if Mr. McGilligan has any scruples as to giving the name of his informant, perhaps, he would ask the permission of that person to have his name mentioned?

Mr. McGilligan—If this was a matter in which I found that I had been misled, no matter what pledge I have given, I should consider it my duty to tell the Committee the name. If I approached that individual, I think he could say to me legitimately: "I passed a casual statement to you. You have made use of it, and that is your responsibility." It is my responsibility. If every observation that is made to me means that the people who make them are going to be brought before the Committee I will be sent to Coventry, and I do not want that to happen. If there has been any mistake made about that it is my responsibility.

EXPERT EVIDENCE

Mr. Lyburn, Geologist of the Department of Industry and Commerce, stated that he was responsible for fixing the royalty under this lease. He did not think two years a long period for a prospecting lease in this country. The insertion of the condition in the lease that four men should be given employment in the prospecting, and eight men in the working of the mine proper, did not necessarily mean that that number of men should be employed. It was inserted to enforce the man getting the lease to do something.

In reply to Mr. FitzGerald-Kenney, he said that he knew this particular area in County Wicklow. He had prospected in that area, and he claimed to have discovered the mother lode thirty-five or forty years ago.

The mother lode was not necessarily the most valuable. As he claimed to have found it, it was about eight inches thick, and was only carrying about four pennyweights of gold to the ton. The Gold Mines River came down from where the mother lode was, and shed her children, so to speak, in the valley below in the form of "placer" mines. His view was that these placer mines could be as successfully worked by a man of little or no experience as by a man of highly technical knowledge. If they went back to the days of the early South African goldfields they would hear of what was called a grub staker—the man who had nothing at all behind him except that he went prospecting in an area with a few tins of bully beef.

Witness said that he was of opinion that £200 was sufficient capital to enable the men who got this lease to carry out prospecting operations.

Of course, they would need to have a much larger amount of capital for the working of the mine itself.

At this stage the Committee adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning.

INDIGESTION IS A DANGER SIGN!

Prevent Serious Stomach Trouble NOW

Did your dinner "settle" properly yesterday? Or did you feel a little uncomfortable after it? Perhaps you had heartburn, or flatulence, perhaps you felt too full. Be warned. These are danger signs. Take action now, before the terrible agony of serious stomach trouble gets you in its grip.

Your stomach is acid. And this acid condition causes trouble which even an operation may not properly cure. You must neutralise the acid. You must prevent its biting effects on the delicate lining of the stomach. Take Maclean Brand Stomach Powder at once. Stomach sufferers all over the country write to thank Macleans for its marvellous benefit. Many had operations without permanent relief. Many were actually saved from operations.

Isn't this at once a warning and an encouragement? Go to your chemist without delay, and tell him you want a bottle of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder—"the one with the signature." This will protect you from imitations which may be worthless, as other sufferers have proved to their cost.

This signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" appears only on the original and genuine Maclean Brand, which is never sold loose. Powder or tablets in bottles in cartons, 1/6, 2/3 and 5/3.

GREATER DUBLIN TRIBUNAL

CITY BOUNDARY EXTENSION

EFFECT OF LAST ADDITIONS

IN evidence on behalf of the Dublin Corporation, to the Greater Dublin Tribunal, in the Hall of the Incorporated Law Society, the Four Courts, Dublin, yesterday, Mr. Ignatius J. Rice, who is at present Dublin Deputy City Manager, referred to the increasing burthens that, he said, had been imposed on the old city under the terms of the Local Government (Dublin) Act, 1930, and stated that the old city ratepayers had had to pay for the improvement of essential public maintenance services in the added areas, and also to contribute during the past five years about £260,000, the cost of certain special improvements and repair works in these areas.

Mr. George Gavan Duffy, K.C., the Chairman of the Tribunal, presided; and Mr. T. C. Courtney, M.E., Chief Engineering Adviser of the Department of Local Government and Public Health, and Mr. R. J. Baker, Inspector of Audits of that Department, the other members of the Tribunal, were also present, with the Secretary, Mr. J. Garvin.

The Tribunal has been set up to consider what alterations are necessary or desirable in the civic boundaries: whether there should be any re-adjustment of the financial relations of the city, county, and local administrative areas; and whether some scheme for joint local government or public health services should be established.

Mr. Albert E. Wood, K.C., Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., and Mr. T. Gerard Burke (instructed by Mr. Ignatius J. Rice, Law Agent), appeared for the Dublin Corporation; Mr. E. J. Kelly, K.C. and Mr. Frank Monks (instructed by Mr. E. J. Kenny), for the Dun Laoghaire Borough Council; Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. W. G. Fallon (instructed by Mr. T. Early), for the Dublin County Council; and Mr. W. Hunter, solicitor (Messrs. Hunter and Burland), for Howth Urban Council.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. Ignatius J. Rice, called by Mr. Vincent Rice, said that, in considering the terms of reference in pursuance of which the Tribunal had been appointed regard must first be had to the fact that the city boundaries had been extended little less than five years ago, and that the extension was of such a magnitude as to increase the city area from 8,172 acres to 18,670 acres—that was by 128 per cent.

The population of Dublin City before the extension of 1930 was 320,700, and now it was 428,800, representing an increase of 33.7 per cent. Before the extension the valuation of Dublin was £1,333,443, and the valuation of Rathmines, Pembroke and the added rural areas was £424,369, making a total of £1,757,812. The valuation of Dublin now was £1,508,584, and of Rathmines, Pembroke and the added rural areas £484,432, giving a total of £1,993,016. It had been found that the public services generally in the areas to be added were considerably below the standard of those of the old city, and the Corporation had received almost daily requests from residents and organisations in the added areas for the immediate provision of services and facilities of the standard established in the old city.

"PUBLIC SCANDALS"

In cases where there had been little or no public lighting the Corporation had been called upon to provide at once a full service. Similarly, for example, where domestic cleansing arrangements were either at a minimum or did not exist at all, the Corporation were required to provide full city facilities. The lack became a "public scandal," although such demands had not been made on the former controlling authorities.

In this connection it was particularly important to remember that the ratepayers in the added areas from the time of their inclusion in the city were enjoying substantial preferential rating. The significance of this fact would be realised from the figures showing the rates, which were, in the old city area, 16s. in the £ in the year 1930-31 and 16s. 7d. in 1931-32; in Rathmines and Rathgar Urban District, 14s. 11d. in 1930-31 and 13s. 10½d. in 1931-32, and in Pembroke 14s. 2d. in 1930-31 and 13s. 8½d. in 1931-32.

As far as possible steps were immediately taken to remedy deficiencies, and generally the services were gradually brought up to the old city level notwithstanding the fact that the cost of such improvements fell on the old city ratepayers.

Apart from increased expenditure by the Corporation on the maintenance of ordinary public services, a sum of over £260,000 had been expended by the Corporation in special major improvement works in those areas since 1930. There had been little less than a revolution in the condition of roads taken over on the south side of the city, and virtually half the sum spent on road construction and resurfacing of roads in Greater Dublin had been expended on the added areas.

LOSSES

A sum of close on £10,000, said the witness, had been expended by the Corporation on the Bohernabreena Waterworks and about £30,000 on the works at Glenasmole and the River Dodder, while new mains in Northumberland road and Haddington road had cost £860. A sum of over £36,000 had been expended on sewer improvement works in the added areas, and close on £40,000 on special public lighting. A complete overhaul of the domestic refuse service had been effected, and improvements had been made in the street-cleaning services and public conveniences. A contract for the erection of 1,143 houses in Crumlin was almost complete. On the housing estates in the added areas extensive painting and other necessary renovation works had cost £8,000 up to date, and it was considered that further expenditure was required to put all the property into a sound state of repair.

The provision of further library accommodation, the revision of public health services, the amalgamation of the Dublin, Rathmines and Pembroke Fire Brigade Stations, and staff adjustments, were referred to by the witness who said that the effect of the limitation of the municipal rate for a preferential period to the 31st March, 1936, in Rathmines and Pembroke, and the added rural areas, as provided for by Section 68 of the Local Government (Dublin) Act, 1930, had been a loss in revenue to the 31st March, 1935, to the Corporation of £45,422 for the year 1931-1932; £34,009 for 1932-1933; £26,623 for 1933-1934, and £20,194 for 1934-1935.

HALF-MILLION FOR WATER

Alluding to the commitments of the Corporation, the witness said that notwithstanding the fact that on the completion of the current year's building programme a total of over 15,000 dwellings would have been provided by the Corporation, there still remained over 13,000 to be erected to complete the Corporation's programme in solution of the city's existing housing problem. The Corporation's next immediate liability was the provision of an additional water supply for the city. In this connection negotiations were already well in hand, and it was estimated that a sum of about £500,000 would be required for this project. Essential drainage works to be constructed would, it was estimated, cost about £120,000. The requirements of the Cleansing Department had become so augmented that it was now necessary to consider the installation of a new destructor for the city, which would probably cost something in the neighbourhood of £25,000. The Corporation was committed to the provision of baths in Rathmines, which would probably cost not less than £50,000.

One of the reasons against any considerable extension of the existing city boundaries was the fact that the City Engineer reported that there still remained some 1,500 acres of undeveloped land inside the boundary, which, if intensively developed, would take another ten years to complete at a cost to the city rates of approximately £200,000.

After the application of the Act of 1930, continued the witness, financial and civic adjustments between the Corporation, the County Council and the Board of Health were put in train, and a scheme that had been submitted had been confirmed by the Minister on the 31st March, 1931.

COST OF WATER

Speaking of water supplied by the Corporation to areas adjoining the existing city, the witness said that the Corporation supplied to, but did not distribute water in, Dun Laoghaire Borough Township, the County Dublin Board of Health districts at Tillystown, Ballyboden, Kimmage, and west to Redcow, Clondalkin, Finglas, Coolock, Ashtown and Howth. The Corporation's charge for the supply of water to the Borough of Dun Laoghaire at present was less than half the estimated cost price of Vartry water supplied. Following negotiations which took place early this year, the Dun Laoghaire Corporation agreed to an increased charge, but since had declined to complete the agreement, although the Dublin Corporation had completed its consideration. The price of water supplied to Dun Laoghaire was regulated by a private Act of 1897, and the Dublin Corporation submitted that that price seriously affected the city ratepayers, and should be rectified at the earliest possible moment. As the water was produced by the Dublin Corporation at a price well over sixpence per thousand gallons, a price not less than sixpence per thousand gallons should be paid by Dun Laoghaire. Dun Laoghaire was paying 2.88 pence per thousand gallons, while the cost of production was 6.127 pence per thousand gallons, but the Dublin Corporation, in order to come to an amicable arrangement with Dun Laoghaire, offered to supply that body with water at sixpence per thousand gallons, the price to be subject to revision in ten years.

The witness said that he had been instructed that if the Dublin Corporation had not given this extra supply of water to Dun Laoghaire there would have been more water going into the reservoir at Stillorgan. This water had been diverted from Stillorgan, and consequently the necessity for making arrangements about a Liffey supply had been forced on the Corporation sooner than otherwise it would have been.

The Dublin Corporation was satisfied, said the witness, that the establishment of joint local government or public health services for the common benefit of the city and the county and the several administrative areas within the county, and the joint control of such services was undesirable, so far as Dublin was concerned.

The Tribunal adjourned until 11 o'clock to-day.

HOW THEY BECOME STAMMERERS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Injudiciously directed efforts to make left-handed children use their right hand may induce stammering. This was revealed by Dr. Harvey Sutton, of Sydney University, in an address on "The Child Guidance Clinic," to members of the British Medical Association at their annual meeting at Melbourne.

It had been calculated, Dr. Sutton said, that out of 1,000 children there were thirty-one stammerers, and, of these, four, out of a total of twenty-five, were left-handed. Evidence showed that the left-handed who stammered were those with whom an attempt had been made under pressure or penalty to change to the use of the right hand. Left-handed children whose left-handedness had been accepted apparently got on as well as the right-handed.

This was one of innumerable examples of the need for child guidance during pre-school years, which in their effects were the most powerful of all. More and more, adult fears and phobias were found to arise in this garden of childhood, of which, though it was the most important of all, the teacher had little experience. It was during these years of the formation and blossoming of personality that the doctor must stalk down his patients like shy young animals.

IRISH PILGRIMS AT LOURDES

SERMON IN GAELIC

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LOURDES, Thursday.

In torrential rain, members of the Irish pilgrimage here stoically climbed the way of the Cross to-day, slipping on the wet rocks, wading through pools, half-blinded by the downpour. They also attended Mass at the Basilica, where a sermon was delivered in Irish.

Yesterday afternoon they took part in the impressive procession of the Holy Sacrament, at which an unusually large number of the sick were lined up in invalid carriages.

ROYAL HOSPITAL FOR INCURABLES.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of Management of the Royal Hospital for Incurables was held at the hospital on Thursday, 12th inst., at 9.30 a.m.

Mr. Patrick J. Brady (Vice-Chairman) presided. Also present:—Mr. A. G. Hollinshead (Hon. Treasurer), Mr. F. Lambert Barrett, Sir Joseph Glynn, LL.D.; Senator Patrick Lynch, Alderman J. Hubbard Clark, Councillor T. Byrne, Mr. Edwin N. Edwards, Mr. T. Bradford, Mr. J. Walker, Mr. H. J. Monahan, B.L.

Read and signed proceedings of last meeting of 15th August, 1935. Apologies were received from the Chairman (Right Rev. Monsignor Molony, P.P.), Mr. Arthur H. S. Orpen, Mr. W. H. Fry, Mr. P. M. Rath, Major Wheweil, Mr. A. T. Collins.

The proceedings of Visiting and Finance Committees were read, confirmed, and signed. On the recommendation of the Finance Committee, cheques amounting to £517 15s. 8d. were signed in settlement of monthly accounts, leaving the large sum of

BALBRIGGAN HARBOUR

WHO WILL PAY FOR DREDGING?

At a meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board yesterday—Mr. W. Baird presiding—Mr. P. Belton, T.D., said that there was urgent need for dredging Balbriggan harbour. The difficulty in getting the harbour dredged caused many people to believe that there were forces at work aiming at closing the harbour by proposing that the cost of dredging should be provided at the expense of the harbour, which would be more than the finances of the harbour could endure if the harbour expected to get trade. The County Council objected very strongly to any attempt to close down the harbour. He urged that an application should be made to the Board of Works for the dredger on the same conditions as heretofore—the Board of Works paying half the cost.

The Chairman said that the Board of Works were not prepared to provide funds to assist the dredging, and they suggested that the rates of charges at the harbour should be increased, so that the harbour should be kept in proper condition. The whole question was in the hands of the Balbriggan Harbour Committee, and it would be better to await the result of their deliberations.

This was agreed to.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND

Mr. P. McGilligan, T.D., continued his evidence before the Select Committee appointed by the Dail to inquire into the demise of mining rights in Wicklow.—(Page 5.)

The progress of the Irish Dunlop Company's factory in Cork was stressed at a luncheon there yesterday.—(Page 8.)

At Gorey Show yesterday the entries totalled 1,400, an increase over any previous year. The quality of the exhibits was good.—(Page 11.)

Boyle (Co. Roscommon) Show, held yesterday, attracted 800 entries in all classes, an increase of 300. Cattle were exceptionally good.—(Page 8.)

GREAT BRITAIN

Cardinal Seredi, as the Pope's special representative yesterday consecrated Downside Abbey Church. The special altar erected in honour of the Blessed Oliver Plunkett was consecrated by Cardinal MacRory.—(Page 7.)

In a speech which he delivered in Plymouth yesterday, Mr. Lloyd George described Signor Mussolini as a formidable transgressor.—(Page 7.)

Co-operation between the Celtic nations was urged by Professor J. E. Daniel when he addressed the Celtic Congress at Cardiff yesterday on the future relations among Celtic people.—(Page 4.)

As the result of an explosion which occurred yesterday in the North Gawber Colliery, near Barnsley, sixteen men are dead and eight others are in hospital in a very serious condition.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD

The chances of a settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute are not any worse than they were a few days ago. This was the summing up of the situation given by Sir Samuel Hoare in a broadcast from Geneva last night.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING

At Powerstown Park yesterday D.M.S. won the Wilderness Plate, Roi Rita the Rathronan Plate, Brighter Cottage the Woodroff Plate, Knight Commander the Marlfield Plate, Flying Hermes the Fox hunters' Plate, and Ruby Mac the Barony Plate.—(Page 10.)

At Doncaster yesterday Shalfleet won the Portland Stakes.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL

Towards Decision

However cynical one may be concerning the good faith of modern politicians, the most sceptical observer of the international situation to-day must admit that Sir Samuel Hoare's great speech at Geneva on Wednesday has lifted the whole Italo-Abyssinian dispute to a new plane of high mortality. Overnight, indeed, Britain has assumed the moral leadership of the civilised world, and, whatever may be the outcome of the unhappy controversy, her prestige among the nations will have risen enormously. Since President Wilson made his historic speech inaugurating the Covenant of the League of Nations in the Clock Room of the Quai d'Orsay sixteen years ago, no speaker at an international congress has aroused such world-wide interest as the British Foreign Secretary on Wednesday. His speech, in the words of Mr. Lloyd George, was "outspoken, lucid, straightforward, and adroit." The ex-Premier might have added that it was patently sincere: for Sir Samuel Hoare spoke in a manner that left no doubt on this score. Speaking on behalf not only of the British Government, but of the whole British democracy, he reaffirmed his people's adherence to the principles of the League of Nations, took the part of the weak against the strong, and told the other nations proudly that, come what might, Britain would be true, in the future as in the past, to her plighted word. She would uphold the Covenant of the League in every particular, but naturally would expect the other members of the League also to shoulder their responsibilities. Britain, he was careful to insist, would not act alone. There was no hint of bitterness against Italy, with whose legitimate aspirations the Foreign Secretary expressed Britain's warm sympathy; and in his broadcast statement last night he stressed once again the fact that Britain was acting as Italy's real friend. Finally, in an effort to make a constructive contribution to a settlement of the dispute, he offered on behalf of his Government to pool the raw materials controlled by the British Empire in order that countries such as Italy—and, presumably, also Germany—should be able to get their fair share of the world's natural wealth.

By far the most important result of Sir Samuel Hoare's speech, which has been received with enthusiasm in most parts of the world, is the effect that it has had already on French opinion. Since the dispute with Signor Mussolini began France has been in a most awkward predicament. She has been more than anxious to keep on good terms with the Italians in order to relieve her mind of anxiety regarding her South-Eastern frontier and the Mediterranean in the event of future trouble with the Germans, while, at the same time, she has been doing everything in her power to avoid the least breach with Great Britain—her major ally. Torn between two loyalties, as it were, M. Laval and his colleagues have found themselves in a most unenviable position, and public opinion in France has been dreading the ultimate choice between London and Rome. Sir Samuel Hoare's speech seems to have settled the matter. Yesterday there was a most noticeable swing round towards Great Britain in the Paris newspapers. Almost without exception, they welcomed with joy Sir Samuel Hoare's solemn pledge of British support for the Covenant of the League of Nations, and for the general principle of "collective security" in Europe. Here and there were notes of criticism, on the ground that much trouble might have been saved if the British Government had taken such a firm stand on previous occasions—notably, when Germany tore up the Treaty of Versailles some months ago; but, on the whole, pro-British feeling has reasserted itself all over France. Whether or not this popular movement will reflect itself in the future attitude of M. Laval remains to be seen. There seems to be little doubt that M. Herriot, who commands the support of the Left parties in France, is bringing strong pressure to bear on the Premier to come out wholeheartedly on Sir Samuel Hoare's side when he makes his eagerly-awaited speech in Geneva to-day; but the official attitude of the Quai d'Orsay is still uncertain. Britain's policy, however, is crystal-clear. She is opposed to the rape of Abyssinia, and is prepared, in co-operation with the other members of the League, to fulfil all her obligations under the Covenant in order to prevent it.

The League of Nations must stand or fall by the events of the next few days. It is quite clear, as Mr. Lloyd George pointed out in a trenchant speech at Plymouth yesterday, that "sanctions" will not be of the slightest avail unless they are effective; in other words, all the member-States at Geneva must combine before there can be any hope of an impression on Signor Mussolini. To do the Italian leader justice, he has been the only statesman in Europe hitherto who has been entirely honest. He never has tried to deceive anybody as to his intentions, and from start to finish has been brutally direct in his statements of policy. He will attack—and probably conquer—Abyssinia unless the rest of the civilised world joins hands to prevent him. We admit freely that a League of Nations without the United States, Japan and Germany lacks the moral force of an organisation to which all the civilised States should belong; but, even as it stands to-day, the League has enormous power. All that it needs is unanimity of purpose. Will that unanimity be forthcoming? We must await events. If the French support the British thesis, we believe that all the other Powers at Geneva will rally around them—in which event Signor Mussolini will find himself face to face with the combined opposition of the greatest union of forces that the world ever has known. In such circumstances we doubt that even he would proceed with his plans of unprovoked aggression until every possible means of compromise should have been exhausted. On the other hand, if the French fail to stand by Sir Samuel Hoare the Duce's path will be clear. He will snap his fingers in the face of the League of Nations, and will let slip his dogs of war so soon as his generals are ready. M. Laval's speech to-day, therefore, probably will be decisive. He has been trying to speak to Signor Mussolini on the telephone during the last few days, in order to make certain proposals to Italy; but nobody seems to be sure whether or not the Duce has deigned to answer him. Possibly, a last-minute compromise will be arranged between Paris and Rome, whereby bloodshed will be avoided; but it would be foolish to pretend that the outlook at the moment is not bleak.

The Information Bureau

Legend has it that there are two telephones in the office of the Government Information Bureau. One of these, it is said, is connected with the Departments of State and is used for receiving no information, while the other, the public telephone, is used for distributing no information. Whatever truth there may be in the story, there certainly is some excuse for thinking that the title "Information Bureau" was rather unhappily chosen. The Bureau was set up by Mr. de Valera in pursuit of an end which would be welcomed by every Irish journal—the dissemination of correct news. It was understood that the Government had become seriously concerned at some of the items which were appearing in newspapers both here and across the Channel. It had noticed that mis-statements of fact were being published which were due to insufficient or inaccurate knowledge, and it had decided to remove these stumbling blocks. Accordingly, the Government Information Bureau was established. Its aims were to give the public, through the Press, the real news—and, in addition, to correct the mistakes into which even the most conscientious journalist may fall now and then, to remove misapprehensions, and to counteract false propaganda. The aims were admirable, but the contrast between promise and performance is somewhat ludicrous. Actually, the Government Information Bureau has divided most of its time between issuing no information at all, and denying information which already has found its way into the newspapers. Little criticism could be made against the second of these functions if it were not that on more than one occasion the statements officially denied were found afterwards to have been perfectly correct. Moreover, although the Bureau should be in a better position than any newspaper to verify the facts with which it deals, some of its pronouncements have been very wide of the mark. On Wednesday evening, to quote only one example, it issued a notice stating definitely that Mr. de Valera's broadcast from Geneva to the United States would take place on the following night. As it happened, the broadcast took place a few hours after the official notice was issued. The situation is most unsatisfactory, as is pointed out in a statement issued by the Institute of Journalists. We do not intend now to discuss the Bureau's action in asking provincial newspapers for the names of their Dublin correspondents—though we may say that it was, at the least, a breach of journalistic etiquette. We can associate ourselves, however, with the complaint of the Institute that the Government Information Bureau is a hindrance to journalists, not a help, and that "in practice, the Bureau has hampered rather than facilitated the journalist in his quest for information to which the public is entitled."

Lively Law

In an age in which the rawest of red-nosed comedians still can send a theatre audience into ecstasies of delight by a simple reference to his own—or, indeed, to any—landlady, it is refreshing to note that an American court has shown its appreciation of the difficulties that, from time to time, beset owners of "digs." Thus we learn that to Police-Judge John Nicholson the other day came Mrs. Mary Blackburn, proprietress of a rooming-house, in dire distress. It may be mentioned, in passing, that Mrs. Blackburn some hours previously had called out the local constabulary; that to them she had explained that something was wrong at her rooming establishment, and that, in fact, each and every one of her seventeen lodgers had complained that they could not sleep. As an example to Irish legal protagonists we commend her brief evidence (if not her grammar) at the subsequent court. "Judge," she said, "John Farley is a fine man. He pays his rent regular, but he's a sleep-walker and a sleep-talker. None of us can't stand it no longer." In America, as is well known, they do things quickly. Accordingly, the learned judge, who apparently knew not only his law, but human nature as well, dispensed with the evidence of the seventeen witnesses. "Sleep-walking and sleep-talking are neither misdemeanours nor felonies," he said. "They're just acts of God." Having thus established the legal right of somnambulists to somnambulate, Judge Nicholson sent Mrs. Blackburn and her platoon of boarders about their business; but he also took measures to protect them from sleepless nights in future. "Sleep-walker and sleep-talker," he said to the unwitting culprit, "I sentence you to bicycle out nine miles from this burg and bicycle nine miles back again each night before you go to bed." And, having arranged for the local patrol men to see the sentence carried out, he called for the next case. This incident we commend to the guardians of our laws in this island, not so much for the Solomon-like wisdom of the decision as for the celerity in which the case was concluded. In Ireland the very mention of a case which provided seventeen witnesses would be sufficient to occupy a court for a whole week.

Manners in the Theatre

The ethics of behaviour in the theatre have undergone a curious change within the past twenty or thirty years. Plays to-day, however bad they may be, seldom are hissed into limbo, and the running fire of criticism and jocular advice from the audience to the actors is a thing of the past. To many actors it may appear that the change results less from a growth in tolerance among theatre-goers than from an improvement in the standard of performance, but the valuable comments on the matter of Miss Marie Ney on Wednesday last are enough to show that this view is not shared by all the leaders of the profession. In Miss Ney's eyes, both audiences and critics to-day are too tolerant, and she looks backward with some regret to the less polite era when "people shouted and threw things." The attitude is a sturdy one, and the theatre should thank her for it. When applause is granted too readily it becomes a commonplace and ceases to have any real meaning for the company on the stage. In time, too, the consciousness that the public will applaud almost anything must leave its mark upon the work both of actor and author. On neither side of the footlights will there be any wish for a return to the kind of criticism that expressed itself in a hail of eggs and vegetables, but there are occasions when a hearty outburst of hisses and jeers might do much good to both parties in the entertainment. At one time Dublin, in particular, was famous for its freedom of appreciation in this respect. To-day, while disapproval may be expressed on rare occasions, it is directed but seldom at the dramatic shortcomings of the piece or at the actors, and it is difficult to escape the impression that much of the applause which is offered so freely springs from a belief that to applaud is almost a social obligation. An audience which is genuinely critical and appreciative ought to be moved as easily to hiss as to clap the hands.

LATE SIR ROBERT MEYER

TRIBUTE OF BELFAST CORPORATION

A special meeting of the Belfast Corporation was held yesterday to express its sense of the loss sustained by the city in the death of Sir Robert Meyer, who since 1909 has filled the office of Town Clerk. There was a large attendance of councillors, and during the progress of the meeting news was received of the death of Councillor Robert Johnston, who had represented Duncairn Ward since 1931.

The Lord Mayor (Sir Crawford McCullagh), who is at Gleneagles, Pertshire, sent a letter to Mr. M'Kinstry, Assistant Town Clerk, in the course of which he said that he had learned with profound regret of the death of Sir Robert Meyer, and he wished to join most heartily in the tributes which the Corporation at their meeting would pay to him. He personally regretted Sir Robert's passing and would miss his valued guidance. In conclusion he asked the Assistant Town Clerk to apologise for his absence from the meeting.

Sir William Turner, Deputy Lord Mayor, who presided, moved a resolution recording the Council's deep regret at the death of Sir Robert Meyer (Town Clerk) and tendering to his relatives an expression of sincere sympathy in their bereavement. "Sir Robert Meyer's life," the resolution added, "was devoted to the city of his adoption, and he leaves behind an illustrious record of duty well and truly done."

The motion, seconded by Alderman Black, High Sheriff, and supported by representatives of all parties in the Council, as well as by Mr. John Archer, Town Solicitor, on behalf of the principal officers and employés, was passed in silence.

A COUNCILLOR'S DEATH

Mr. Robert Johnston, of whose death that morning his fellow-councillors learned at the meeting, had been a member of the Council since 1931. He had made a very good impression on the Corporation. He was deeply interested in the welfare of the blind, and was a member of the Blind Persons Act Committee. Mr. Johnston was managing director of a motor coach and saddlery business, and was a member of the Royal Ulster Agricultural Society.

Sir William Turner (Deputy Lord Mayor) moved that a resolution of sympathy be sent to Mr. Johnston's widow and family, and it was passed in silence.

ORDER TO ITALIAN PRESS

Last night the Italian Press was ordered to cease all attacks on Great Britain forthwith.

An important statement was made by a French official spokesman at Geneva, when he declared that there is no disagreement between the British and French delegations regarding the "conception"—general lines—along which the dispute may be settled pacifically.

In the 121 county boroughs and great towns of England and Wales the births registered last week numbered 6,496, corresponding to an annual rate of 16.2 per 1,000 living. Deaths numbered 3,534—18 more than in the preceding week—corresponding to a death rate of 8.8 per 1,000.

THE KING AND QUEEN

RETURNING TO LONDON IN OCTOBER

Arrangeemnts are being made, it is understood, for the King and Queen to return to London from Balmoral Castle at the beginning of October. They are expected to reach Buckingham Palace on October 1, making the night journey from Scotland by Royal special train.

Next week the Duke of Gloucester and his fiancée, Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas-Scott, are expected to be the guests of the King and Queen at Balmoral.

COUNTESS TOERRING'S FIRST FLIGHT

The Duke of Kent took his sister-in-law, the Countess Toerring, for her first aeroplane flight yesterday. The Countess Toerring, who is staying with the Duke and Duchess at Adsdean, the house near Chichester which Lord Louis Mountbatten has lent to them, flew with the Duke to Lympne. They travelled in a 'plane belonging to Sir Philip Sassoon, with whom they lunched, before flying back to Adsdean.

A man and woman are dead as the result of an incident in a Sheffield cutlery works yesterday. Gladys Wales (39), of Wolseley road, Highfield, Sheffield, was found crouching near the doorpost of the etching shop bleeding from a wound in her breast. She died shortly afterwards. Arthur Robinson, of Barnsley road, Firth Park, Sheffield, who was on the same floor, also had a wound in the body and died in hospital. A bowie knife was found near the scene.

LONDON LETTER

FRANCE AND BRITAIN

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
THURSDAY NIGHT.

SIR SAMUEL HOARE'S speech at Geneva yesterday has been received favourably throughout the world, and to-day diplomats are wondering what will happen to-morrow when M. Laval must reveal the position of France. He is placed in a situation which compels him to choose between the League and Great Britain supported by nearly all the other Powers, or an alliance with Italy alone. M. Laval's position is the more difficult since he promised Signor Mussolini early in the year, when territorial discussions relative to Africa were taking place between them, that subject to the vested interests of France there, Italy could have a free hand in Abyssinia. Much satisfaction is felt in Paris that Sir Samuel Hoare did not introduce the word "sanctions" into his speech, and the general view is that, while further and united efforts to prevent war must be taken, there should be no action which might hinder tactful mediation at any later stage.

German Views on Geneva

Germany is virtually outside the orbit of the League of Nations, but the speech of Sir Samuel Hoare, and in particular his reference to a possible new policy for trade and economic enterprise throughout Colonial Empires, has made a most favourable impression in the Reich. It is recalled that some ten years ago Dr. Schacht put forward a somewhat similar proposal which would have given German chartered companies the right to work in undeveloped regions under a foreign flag or the flag of the League of Nations, but it did not come to fruition. In response to inquiries about the attitude of Germany if the League of Nations should decide to apply sanctions, it was stated in official circles in Berlin to-day that such a far-reaching question could be decided only by Herr Hitler himself. Moreover, the question of whether Japan or the United States would take part in such sanctions would have to be considered.

M. Laval Asks Questions

M. Laval must have been one of the busiest men in Geneva to-day. Much of his time was spent at the telephone in communication with Signor Mussolini or with London. It is understood that he has made a personal appeal to the Duce to hold his hand in regard to Abyssinia, and at the same time he is anxious to ascertain what exactly is meant by Sir Samuel Hoare's declaration that this country stands for steady and collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression. Many inquirers ask whether it can be assumed that the declaration would govern British policy in Europe in the future, especially in the event of an act of aggression against a small Power. In diplomatic quarters to-day there is a belief that France will not agree to the application of sanctions because it is feared that should such a step be threatened Italy would withdraw at once from the League.

Germany's New Anti-Semitic Campaign

Herr Hitler's proclamation at Nuremburg yesterday reveals that it is the intention of the Nazi Government to persecute the Jewish race in Germany to an even greater extent than hitherto. Drastic laws are to be passed by decree which will bear very heavily on the Jewish race. They are inspired by the "Anti-Semitic International" promoted by the Nazis, which has its headquarters in Erfurt. The aim of this movement is to co-ordinate the anti-Semitic movement in all countries, and to this end it will issue literature in various languages, including an "Anti-Semitic Encyclopædia." This body makes no secret of its intention, and its work is fully recognised by the authorities. Herr Hitler gave Nuremberg a surprise to day; for he has summoned a meeting of the Reichstag to be held there on Sunday afternoon. In official circles in Berlin it is stated that it is the intention of Herr Hitler to dissolve the Reichstag, on the ground that it is merely a registering machine.

Discoveries in the Arctic

It is reported to-day that the first passage of the Arctic sea route around the north coast of Siberia, which opens up a new means of communication between Western Russia and China, Japan and the Pacific, has been achieved. The steamer Agadir has arrived at Murmansk, after covering 11,500 miles from Vladisvostok in 76 days. Another Russian marine discovery is that an Arctic expedition on the Sadko has found three new islands. Following on a study of blank spaces on the map, the Sadko crossed the 91st meridian on September 7th, when the look-out observed a narrow belt of land ahead in the fog. Cautious approach was made to the mysterious belt when the mist dissipated, and a second island was seen behind the first, separated from it by a narrow strait. No islands at this spot were marked on the map, and a party was sent out to make a landing. The islands were found to be small, long and very flat, and a third small island was seen to be lying between the two others.

West Indian Trade

Some definite and important moves have been made recently in connection with the trade interests of the West Indies. The Government has decided to revise the arrangements for trade reputation, and to bring Jamaica, the Bermudas and the Bahamas under one independent department. These trade interests in the past have been looked after in Trinidad. The Board of Trade now has undertaken a definite policy by placing Trade Commissioners in various spots of the British overseas possessions, and this has proved quite successful. A feature of the movement is that the Commissioners are brought home periodically to give their experiences to the traders, who are thus able to profit by first-hand knowledge of local requirements.

Caution in the City

In the City of London a flood of new issues of capital is held up by the Italian-Abyssinian dispute. Companies in many different industries all over the country are desirous of expansion so that they may cope with the steadily increasing demand for their products, but these companies are compelled to wait for the necessary funds. The issuing houses report, almost without exception, that they are negotiating for, or have ready on their books, new issues which in all total many millions of pounds. Conditions at home are favourable to new flotations, as large sums of money are awaiting investment, but, nevertheless, underwriters refuse to handle business until the international political situation clears. Really this means that nothing will be done until it is certain that this country will not itself be involved in war. Once the position becomes settled it is probable that the new issue activity will reach the high levels of June and July.

HIGH COMMISSIONER IN DUBLIN

Mr. J. Dulanty, Free State High Commissioner in London, who has been on a visit for the last week, left Dublin yesterday.

Miss Slade, Gandhi's English disciple, who has been suffering from typhoid, was better yesterday.

"WORDS OF A FRIEND" TO ITALY

SIR SAMUEL HOARE'S BROADCAST MESSAGE

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF BRITAIN

DETERMINATION TO STAND BY COVENANT

"LET the air carry to-night to Italy these words—that whatever bitter things may be said, they are the words of a real friend."

This passage occurred in a speech by Sir Samuel Hoare, the British Foreign Secretary, broadcast last night from Geneva.

"You will," said Sir Samuel to his British listeners, "want, in particular, to know whether we think the chances of a settlement between Italy and Abyssinia are better or worse than they were a few days ago. I wish we could give you an answer that they were better. We cannot; but I think we can also say that they are not any worse.

"We certainly can say that, so far as we are concerned, we have done our very utmost to make them better. Mr. Eden has been working away in the Committee of Five, and I have been doing what I could in the Assembly and in constant talks with many eminent statesmen gathered together in Geneva."

"OUR WAR ALLY"

"I have," said Sir Samuel, "done my best to express to them what I believe to be the feelings of the great majority of my fellow-countrymen. I have tried to put to them the typical British point of view, and in particular to express to them, first of all, our universal desire to live and let live in peace, and, secondly, determination to keep our word that we have solemnly given in the Covenant of the League of Nations. I hope that in striving for those two objectives, and in doing justice to Abyssinia, we shall still be able to remain friends with our Italian ally in the Great War.

"More than most people. I hate the idea of differences between Great Britain and Italy. I myself served a year and a half in Italy during the war, and I still have a great admiration for Italy, Italians and the progress they have made in recent years. Let them believe me when I say that I am as anxious as anyone in Europe to find a settlement that will do justice alike to Abyssinia's national rights and Italy's claims for expansion.

"The respect in which our country is held means a heavy responsibility for all of us. It means a heavy responsibility to help the cause of peace in Europe. This is why I made it clear in my speech that we stand firm in our support of collective resistance to all unprovoked aggression.

"Ruling as a great Empire we must remember the responsibility of great possessions. We must never be tempted to use our advantages in a churlish or selfish manner. This is why I spoke of our readiness to consider the question of making a better use of the world's economic resources and the freer distribution of Colonial raw materials.

"As your representative at the great assembly of the nations I tried to say what was in your mind. If I failed it was not through want of trying. If I succeeded I shall feel that I have not come to Geneva in vain."

GENEVA SPEECH REACTION

ITALY AND AUSTRIA ALONE DISAPPROVE

The world is still talking about Sir Samuel Hoare's speech before the League of Nations Assembly on Wednesday. Apart from Italy and Austria, the comment from all countries is one of approval.

Mr. Cordell Hull, United States Secretary of State, termed Sir Samuel Hoare's speech "a very interesting, able and timely appeal for peace." Otherwise he declined to comment. There are obvious indications that the speech has been received at Washington with considerable sympathy.

Frenchmen of all shades of opinion fully realise that the policy of the friends of Britain and of Mussolini is near the parting of the ways. In French eyes a swift development of the "drama of Geneva" has been precipitated by Sir Samuel Hoare's speech. The sequence of events is seen as follows:—

Sir Samuel Hoare will see Laval again and urge him to support Britain's defence of the Covenant boldly in his speech to the Assembly. Laval, who is being urged by M. Herriot to back the British, will reply by asking for assurances that British determination to defend the Covenant will apply also to threats of war in Europe. Meanwhile the Committee of Five will be making a final compromise offer to Mussolini, and on his reply M. Laval will draw up his speech to the Assembly.

PRO-BRITISH SWING

A powerful pro-British swing of a large body of French opinion became evident later yesterday. The Temps says: "One can only rejoice from the general point of view at seeing the British Government rally with so much frankness to the doctrine of collective security and admit the collective obligation of defending peace against whoever threatens it. It is very regrettable that this fine language was not used by a British spokesman in other circumstances"—this is a reference to German rearmament.

The Journal des Debats says: "The situation is extremely delicate, largely because Britain, now, as before, has taken up a position late in the day. Why did not Britain proclaim this doctrine earlier?"

The Intransigeant says: "Sir Samuel Hoare has stated that the League is only as strong as the nations which support it. But is Britain strong? The direct consequence of the speech will be for Britain to proceed to effective rearmament."

"APOLOGY FOR PEACE"

The Vienna Press continues to reflect the Italian viewpoint in its comments. The Government organ, Reichspost says: "The British Government, through its Foreign Secretary, made an apology for peace. It would be absurd if the effect of the British attitude was that the League should decide on measures calculated to create far greater complications than the Abyssinian dispute."

The speech is received with warm appreciation by the Hungarian Press. All the papers point out in special leaders the exceptional importance of this announcement of Great Britain's foreign policy.

The Magyar Hirlap emphasises the unadorned simplicity, quiet dignity and seriousness of the speech, expressing astonishment that nobody has pronounced these truths before.

The Pester Lloyd says that Sir Samuel Hoare's interpretation of the application of Clause 19 of the League Covenant is completely identical with the Hungarian point of view. The British Foreign Minister declared himself unreservedly in favour of peaceful evolution. We welcome with great satisfaction this attitude of Great Britain, but cannot help thinking that Europe and the whole world would be much better off if these truths had been recognised earlier.

There is general approval throughout the Union of South Africa. The Cape Times says that neither Sir Samuel nor the British Government can be accused of anti-Italian prejudice Sir Samuel, the paper declares, stated the simple truths of the Covenant to which Italy herself is a signatory. It points out that South Africa as a signatory State of the League has clearly defined her resolve to adhere to her obligations.

LOOKING TO FRANCE

What will France do? That is the question on everyone's lips in Rome. There is anxious speculation as to whether M. Laval's speech will show that France will continue to maintain a neutral attitude or will yield to British "blackmail" and throw over her recent agreement with Italy.

Sir Samuel's speech continues to be sharply criticised in the Press under headlines which describe it as "fantastic," "hypocritical," and "long and vague." Sir Samuel's insistence on British sincerity is received with scepticism.

Signor Virginio Gayda, in the Giornale d'Italia, details cases in which he professes to show that Great Britain has not shown such zeal in defence of League principles as she is doing now. He instances the Japanese invasion of China, the war in the Gran Chaco, and the German violations of the Treaty of Versailles.

He concludes: "The tendency of British policy is to strike at Italy as being a new force which is casting its shade over British Imperialism and over anti-Fascism, with which British Imperialism seems to have associated itself in the illusion that it can sweep from its path the troublesome rights of young and strong nations."

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE RESPONSE

The Times remarks in an editorial article to-day: The general response yesterday to Sir Samuel Hoare's speech has shown that he spoke the mind, not only of his own country, but of the whole League of Nations. With rare exceptions, the newspapers, both in London and in the provinces, have applauded his clear and firm, but entirely unprovocative declaration of British policy. How completely the country is united in support of the Government was forcibly illustrated by the proceedings at Plymouth, where Mr. Lloyd George and other members of the council of action for peace and reconstruction, all of them hitherto severe critics of the Government, were gathered together to further their movement.

All those who spoke at that meeting, and notably Mr. Lloyd George himself, joined in approval of Sir Samuel Hoare's main contentions and emphasised that the British Foreign Secretary had spoken the mind of a united country. Almost the only qualification was their expression of regret that the speech had not been made weeks ago, though the delay has been far from procrastination. In Geneva the representatives of other Governments who spoke in the Assembly yesterday were equally unanimous in their support. It was an effort to preserve and to make effective the existing machinery for maintaining peace made at a moment when peace appears to be in imminent danger. But there are passages in it which will remain important when the present crisis is over. In the British view the League is not, and must not, be allowed to become a device for stereotyping existing conditions. Sir Samuel Hoare pointed out that elasticity, where elasticity is required, also is a part of security. It is not enough to insist collectively that war shall not occur, or, if it occurs, must be brought to an end. Something must also be done to remove the causes which give rise to war, and to adjust the natural play of international forces. The world, he reminded the Assembly, is not static, and changes will have to be made from time to time, although they must be made by consent, and not by unilateral action by peaceful means, and not by war, or by the threat of war.

YESTERDAY AT GENEVA

SUPPORT FOR BRITAIN

ATTITUDE OF THE SMALL NATIONS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GENEVA, Thursday.

GENEVA to-day may be said to be "marking time" in anticipation of M. Laval's speech to-morrow. To-day was the day of the small States, which joined forces in unmistakable fashion in support of Great Britain.

Holland, Sweden, Norway and Belgium swung into line following the strong lead given by Sir Samuel Hoare yesterday. The delegations of the Scandinavian countries are of the opinion that their countries should use all their efforts to obtain the full application of the Covenant.

M. Koht, of Norway, said: "What we desire is not purely and simply the prevention of a war at the present moment, but a preparation by a just commission of enduring peace and a genuine progress in civilisation. Should war really break out it would involve consequences of immense gravity for all of us, owing to the obligations which the Covenant imposes on all its signatories."

This recognition by the delegates of smaller countries of the responsibilities which the Covenant imposes on all members of the League was echoed by the Dutch Foreign Minister, Jonkheer de Graeff, who repeated the profound attachment of his Government to the League of Nations and its firm resolve to discharge in their entirety obligations which the Covenant imposed on members of the League.

A DIFFERENT DISPUTE

COUNCIL HINDERED BY ADJOURNMENT

The same theme was taken up by M. Sandler, the Swedish Foreign Minister, who began by criticising to some extent the fact that the Council had not been in a position at an earlier stage in the Italo-Abyssinian conflict to exert its influence over the development of events.

"I am not convinced," he said, "that the method of adjournment has been a good method. . . The solution of this Wal Wal dispute no longer appears as of any real importance in the dispute between the two parties. The Council is faced with an entirely different dispute, the character and real extent of which was explained to the Council only during its present session.

"A fundamental change has occurred since the Italian delegate made a statement in January, 1935, to the Council, according to which the dispute was not such as to affect peaceful relations between the parties. Between that date and the present time the Italian Government has allowed it to be understood that it demands a complete revision of the relations between the two countries, reserving to itself the liberty to effect that revision if it should appear necessary by military action.

"In a memorandum just submitted by the Italian Government various accusations with regard to Ethiopia are advanced, but it does not appear from this memorandum that Ethiopia has been responsible since January for anything which in itself would explain the change which has occurred.

"For my part, I fully understand that the vast movements of troops carried out during the negotiations on the frontier incident have singularly aggravated the situation."

M. van Zeeland, Premier of Belgium, said: "The Belgians have had faith in the League of Nations from the outset. My country has brought to the League unreserved support and will continue to do so."

APPEAL BY U.S.

A new appeal to Italy and Ethiopia not to go to war was made by Mr. Cordell Hull, U.S. Secretary of State, last night. His statement emphasised the peaceful ideals of the United States, and called upon all the signatories of the Kellogg Pact to observe their pledge to maintain world peace. An official of the State Department hastened to emphasise that Mr. Hull was not invoking the Kellogg Pact, but merely calling upon all parties concerned to make a further effort to avert bloodshed.

UNITED STATES MOVE

BRIAND-KELLOGG PACT SCHEME

Senator Pope, of Idaho, has telegraphed to the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, suggesting the summoning of an international conference of signatories of the Briand-Kellogg Pact with a view to preventing war in Abyssinia.

Senator Pope declared yesterday that he believed the time had come to utilise the Kellogg Pact to prevent further aggressive warfare. Although the Kellogg Pact provides no machinery for the enforcement of its obligations, he says, there can be no legal objections to a concert of signatory Powers to outlaw any Government resorting to unprovoked aggressive warfare.

He points out that more nations are signatory to the Kellogg Pact than are members of the League, and action under the Pact would be conducive to wider co-operation and might even have the effect of speeding action by the League in declaring the Kellogg Pact to be the guiding principle of its Covenant.

U.S. HITS BACK AT GERMANY

ALLEGED "FLAGRANT DISCRIMINATION"

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, Thursday.

It is learned officially to-day that on October 15th Germany will be deprived of all tariff reductions granted by the United States in its reciprocal trade pacts, owing to "persistent and flagrant discrimination" against American imports.

Formal directions from President Roosevelt to the Treasury to withhold from Germany the rate of lower duties on nearly a hundred articles covered by the Swedish, Belgian and Haitian trade pacts are expected to be announced before September 15th.

The date of the imposition of the higher rates on German goods will coincide with the abrogation of the German-American Commercial Treaty, the first unconditional "most favoured nation" pact contracted by the U.S.A., which is being terminated on October 15th at Germany's request.

It is learned in authoritative quarters that Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, has notified Dr. Luther, the German Ambassador, that after October 15th German imports must pay the highest prevailing duties.

AN OUTRAGE ON RIGHTEOUSNESS

MR. LLOYD GEORGE AND ITALY

SHAMELESS RAPINE CONTEMPLATED

"IT is quite clear now that Signor Mussolini, the Italian Dictator, is not open to any argument or to any appeal," declared Mr. Lloyd George, addressing the Devon and Cornwall Convention of the Council of Action for Peace and Reconstruction at Plymouth yesterday.

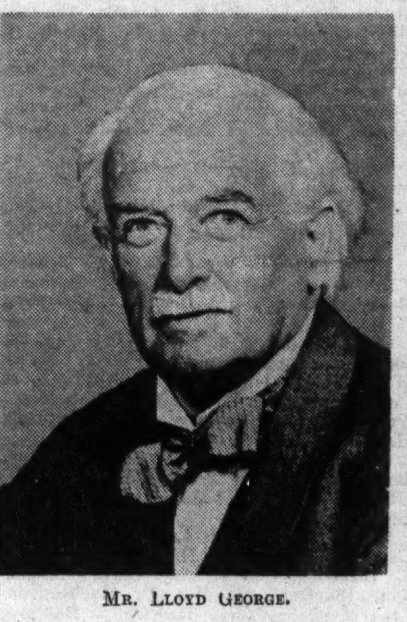
"A week ago," said Mr. Lloyd George, "we still had some hopes that concessions might conciliate. I am sorry to say that unfortunately what has happened in the course of the last couple of days has made it clear that those hopes are, if not vague, at any rate exceedingly slender, and I think the interests of this country and the interests of humanity would be better served if each of us spoke his mind quite frankly upon the whole position.

NO ONE DECEIVED

"Signor Mussolini is not open even to offers of reasonable concession—economic concession—which might meet the legitimate requirements of his country.

"I am sorry to say I never had any doubt at all as to what he meant. He never concealed his intentions, and I think it is fair to say so.

"He has not deceived anybody. He has been perfectly outspoken, he has talked in thoroughly unequivocal language, and his unequivocal declarations of policy were backed by tremendous preparations, which meant that he was not in the least attempting a mere bluff, and that he meant to achieve his purpose, if necessary, by the exercise of the power and the might of his country.



MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

"The League, therefore, has now to determine not only upon its attitude, but upon its action in the face of this act of shameless rapine which is being contemplated, and I am confident that the country as a whole—without any distinction of party, and whatever the attitude may be towards the Government of the country for the time being—that the country as a whole will support the Government in any decision they may arrive at to implement the Covenant of the League, provided that action is effected."

FOREIGN SECRETARY'S SPEECH

Referring to Sir Samuel Hoare's "notable" speech, delivered at Geneva on Wednesday, Mr. Lloyd George said that it was outspoken, it was lucid, it was straightforward, and it was adroit.

But, oh! why was it not delivered months ago? Mr. Lloyd George asked.

He said that there were three points in the Foreign Secretary's speech which seemed to him to be outstanding. The first is, that Britain is willing to join hands with the other members of the League of Nations in all the measures which are necessary to vindicate the Covenant, he said.

"The second is, as I understand it, that there will be no commitments by Britain in reference to future acts of aggression by any other country, that there are no such commitments to be entered into at this stage as a condition of our co-operation in dealing with the present situation. Now that is very vital.

THE COVENANT

Mr. Lloyd George said that Sir Samuel Hoare had declared emphatically that Britain stood by the Covenant.

"Britain stands by the Covenant of the League in all its implications, and other countries must accept the word of honour of Britain, which has never been broken.

"I earnestly trust that, whatever the pressure may be, or whatever the inducement may be when war is imminent, to make promises that will help you to avert it—that whatever the inducement, whatever the pressure, I earnestly trust that Sir Samuel Hoare will stand firmly by that declaration. Otherwise, we may get out of this quarrel, serious one as it is, but we may be involved in a much greater quarrel in the future, where neither the honour, the word, nor the conscience of this country are concerned.

PRIMARY MATERIALS

"The next point to which I wish to call attention is, that he expressed the readiness of this country to pool our luck in the matter of primary materials we control in the vast territories we administer throughout the world in the interests of countries that do not possess the same opportunities as we do. That is a very vital matter when you come to deal with a country like Germany, which has been stripped of her colonies, or a country like Italy, which at the present moment has not got colonies, and has not got some of the materials necessary for manufacturing essential commodities, and does not possess colonies abroad which will supply that deficiency.

THE PLEDGE

"Sir Samuel Hoare has given a pledge, and the value of it depends upon what the Government have in their minds. I am perfectly certain that, as far as the bulk of the people of this country are concerned, if it is a condition of restoring peace to the world, they will be quite prepared to make sacrifices of a considerable character. They will be smaller than the sacrifice of a million lives. If the Government mean that, then, for my part, I shall consider no party, no prejudice, but shall give them my whole-hearted support.

"This great speech has been delivered, and I want to ask what are the practical steps to be taken to give effect to it? First comes the question of the enforcement of sanctions, and in order to deter so formidable a transgressor as Signor Mussolini sanctions must be effective.

"I agree with Sir Samuel Hoare that we cannot act alone. Any sort of action must be collective. It must be more than that the sanctions must be effective. Anything less will bring ridicule on the League, and the League cannot afford to face any more derision.

THE UNIFORMS BILL

RE-INTRODUCTION NEXT SESSION

LAW AFTER SIXTY DAYS

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

THE resurrection of the Wearing of Uniforms (Restriction) Bill, which was passed by the Dail, but rejected by the Senate over eighteen months ago, probably will be one of the first undertakings of the Government when the House re-assembles next month.

The measure was adopted by the Dail after a stormy passage, but the Senate threw it out. Under Article 38 (a) of the Constitution a bill that has not been accepted by the Senate is "delayed" for a period of eighteen months. At the expiration of this period, however, the Dail, if it so desires, by a resolution expressly passed under the same article, can send the bill back to the Senate. If the members of the Senate do not then agree to the bill within sixty days, without, or with, amendments agreed to by the Dail, it becomes law automatically.

A PRECAUTION

As the Dail will not re-assemble until late in October the bill cannot come into operation before Christmas at the earliest, and, while there does not seem to be any anxiety now on the part of the Government to have the measure passed, it is probable that they will proceed with it so that it may be on the Statute Book if needed

It will be recalled that the bill was introduced when the Government, apparently, had become nervous at the growing popularity of the Blue Shirt movement, and it was believed generally that the action of the Senate in failing to acquiesce in its passing into law was one of the factors that sustained President de Valera's decision to get rid of the Senate.

The bill abolishing the Senate itself will be ready for re-introduction towards the end of the year, but so far there has not been any suggestion that the Government intends to replace the Senate with any other body.

The Senate will meet next month, as usual, to consider measures sent down by the Dail.

MEMEL PROTEST BY HITLER?

REICHSTAG TO MEET IN NUREMBERG

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NUREMBERG, Thursday.

Well-informed circles here stated to Reuter to-night that the main subject of the proclamation which the Reichstag will hear when it assembles at Nuremberg on Sunday night is likely to be the Memel question.

The statement, it was added, is being prepared by Herr Hitler himself. He made a strong speech in East Prussia last Sunday, urging the Powers to intervene in the election of the Memel Diet on September 29th, on the ground that the methods employed by the Lithuanian Government in this election constitute a violation of the Memel statute, to which Britain, France, Italy and Japan are signatories.

The impressive marches and counter-marches of the Storm Troopers, which are a feature of the Party Congress, sink into the background with the announcement that a Reichstag meeting is to be held here.

SECTARIANISM IN EDINBURGH

SCHOOLCHILDREN MAY STRIKE

There are possibilities of a school-children's strike in Edinburgh. When the schools under the Education Committee opened on Monday last trouble arose because Roman Catholic children had been accommodated in an annexe of Lochend Road (Protestant) School.

Councillor Cormack, of the Protestant Action Society, has stated that parents have threatened to bring their children out on strike if the Roman Catholic pupils are not housed in their own schools.

Yesterday the Education Committee visited the school, and at a meeting afterwards it was decided to adhere to the present arrangement. The authorities claim that the annexe used by Roman Catholic children is not now needed by Lochend Road School, and that it has a separate playground and entrances.

Councillor Cormack, at a committee meeting, said that if the matter was not settled as his supporters desired they were going to call the children out on strike, and he expected that a very large number of children would be affected.

Unanimity in favour of a strike was indicated by 1,600 persons who attended a meeting held under the auspices of the Protestant Action Society, in Leith Town Hall, last night, to consider the resolve of the Edinburgh Education Committee to adhere to their decision to accommodate certain pupils of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic School in an annexe of Lochend Road School, Leith.

Mr. Andrew Todd, president of the Protestant Action Society, who presided, said that he was afraid that there was nothing left but to strike, and he hoped it would be a general strike.

When those in favour of a strike were asked to stand up all present rose to their feet

CAR CRASH IN DUBLIN

CLERGYMAN SERIOUSLY INJURED

A car crashed into a tram standard in St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, this morning at 3.15 o'clock, and the only occupant, a clergyman, was seriously injured.

A taxi driver who heard the crash while sitting in his vehicle some distance away, rushed to the place and took the injured man from the car, which was almost completely wrecked. He took the clergyman to Mercer's Hospital, where he was found to have severe head injuries. He was semi-conscious, and was unable to give his name.

It is believed from his attire that the injured clergyman is a Catholic.

ACTRESS FOUND SHOT

DOWNING TOWN, Thursday.

The discovery of a Broadway musical comedy actress, shot dead at a farm near here, has been followed by the arrest of Mr. Henry H. Rogers, jun., son of the well-known oil millionaire, Colonel Huddlestone Rogers, who died last July. The dead actress was the 25 years old Miss Evelyn Hoey, who appeared in London in the show, "Good News," some years ago.

Mr. Rogers was arrested on technical charges in connection with the discovery of the body, which was found fully dressed in a room at his farm at Coatesville. The girl had a .45 calibre pearl-handled pistol lying at her feet, and there was a blood-covered automatic on the bed and a sawn-off shot-gun lying in the corner.

SUNKEN CARGO OF COPPER

SHIP TORPEDOED DURING THE WAR

SEARCH OFF THE WATERFORD COAST

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Thursday.

THE salvage vessel, Artiglio No. 2, arrived in Waterford port to-day. With her auxiliary, the Rampino, she is operating off Dunmore Coast, County Waterford, endeavouring to locate the s.s. Lincolnshire, which was torpedoed during the War by a German submarine.

The Lincolnshire carried a valuable cargo of copper, which the Artiglio is now endeavouring to retrieve, and divers have been down day by day for the past seven days.

So far they have located a large vessel some three miles off Brownstown Head, off Tramore Bay. It is doubtful whether this vessel is the Lincolnshire, but a vessel, stated to be loaded with rubber, has been found.

DAILY SEARCH

The search goes on in all sorts of weather daily, and will be continued until the lost Lincolnshire has been discovered.

Artiglio No. 2 is a sister ship of Artiglio No. 1, which was accidentally blown to bits in the Straits of Belle Isle some years ago.

Much interest is taken in the salvaging operations by the residents along the Dunmore Coast of County Waterford, many of whom witnessed the sinking of the Lincolnshire after she had been torpedoed.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

CONSECRATION OF DOWNSIDE ABBEY

CARDINAL SEREDI, Prince Primate of Hungary, and Archbishop of Esztergon, the Pope's direct representative, in consecrating Downside Abbey Church yesterday performed the most noteworthy ceremony witnessed in the West of England since the Reformation. Among those who witnessed the Consecration ceremony were Cardinal MacRory, Primate of all Ireland; five other archbishops, nine bishops, three abbots, and the Lord Mayor of London (Sir Stephen Killick), together with a large assembly of laity. There were a thousand people present, and of these the clergy numbered five hundred. Their rich vestments gave a glow of colour to the scene.

It was yet early morning when Cardinal Seredi entered the church for the commencement of the ceremony. Twelve candles below the consecration crosses on the walls were lighted at his order, the crosses indicating that the whole church structure, fashioned at a cost of some £250,000, was free from debt. He wore a towering white mitre, and a cloak of cloth of gold, emblazoned with the Papal Arms, and lined with silk of shimmering blue. Acolytes, with lighted candles, accompanied him in the three circuits of the building, during which he sprinkled Holy Water on the walls, and these were followed by the Benedictine Monks of Downside, with their cowls withdrawn.

In the course of the long ceremony within the Abbey, Psalms were sung, and it was noted that one Psalm contained a verse that seemed to have a special bearing on the present time. "Scatter the nations that delight in war," it ran: "Ambassadors will come out of Egypt, Ethiopia will eagerly stretch forth her hands to God."

The special altar erected in honour of the Blessed Oliver Plunket, the martyred Archbishop of Armagh, whose body is enshrined within the church, was consecrated by Cardinal MacRory. It was at first the high altar in Downside. In the tabernacle is an important relic of the Holy Cross, which almost certainly was removed from the Chapel of Queen Mary Tudor on her death, in 1558.

Among Irishmen present at the consecration were the Most Rev. Dr. Downey, Archbishop of Liverpool; the Most Rev. Dr. Williams, Bishop of Birmingham; the Most Rev. Dr. Lee, Bishop of Clifton; the Most Rev. Dr. Barratt, Bishop of Plymouth; Monsignor Howlett, Adm., Westminster Cathedral (a native of Kilkenny); Monsignor Lyons (Drogheda). Monsignor Ryan (Armagh), and the Rev. Sir John O'Connell, the Earl of Fingall, Major R. Martin, Mr. J. P. McNamara and Mr. H. H. Maxwell, of Dublin, and Mr. Harry Crown, of York, Old Downside Boys.

CARDINALS WELCOMED

Speaking at a luncheon yesterday evening following the ceremony, the Most Rev. Dr. Lee, Bishop of the diocese (a native of Mitchelstown, County Cork), welcomed Cardinals Seredi and MacRory to his diocese. Cardinal MacRory, he said, had come from a See that had never failed since the days of St Patrick If one hundred years ago the Benedictines of Downside sowed in poverty, to-day they reaped in joy, as guardians of a Minor Basilica. In the days of the Faith in England Somerset had given the most famous Benedictine monastery in England — Glastonbury. They had here to-day in Downside, not many miles from Glastonbury, a new Glastonbury. He yielded to none in his admiration and affectionate regard for the monks of Downside Abbey. In missions and in education their activities were all embracing. They sent forth men ready to make every sacrifice in peace and war, and gave some of the greatest Prelates to God's Church. Behind the whole of the work at Downside was the guiding hand of Dom George Bruno Hicks, O.S.B., the Abbot of Downside.

The Most Rev. Dr. Hinsley, Archbishop of Westminster, said that they owed to Ireland in a great measure the religious freedom that they as English Catholics now enjoyed. They owed much to Daniel O'Connell and their great Irish friends across the sea.

"The ties which bind the Catholic Church in England and Ireland," he declared, "should be, and must grow, lighter and more secure. The Catholics in the North who had been wronged had their fullest sympathy, and were remembered in their prayers."

CARDINAL MACRORY'S TRIBUTE

Cardinal MacRory, who was cheered for several minutes, said that he was very proud and happy to be at Downside, and to have the opportunity of meeting practically the whole Hierarchy of England and Benedictines from near and far. The new Basilica was a really beautiful church, and a noble witness to the live faith and splendid generosity of the Catholics of England. The body of one of the most illustrious of his predecessors reposed in the new Abbey church. He owed it to the memory of Blessed Oliver to come to Downside, to consecrate the altar in his memory, and, in doing that, he was doing a thing most pleasing, not only to the priests and people of the Archdiocese of Armagh, but to the guests and people of all Ireland. He felt that he owed it to the great Benedictine Order, pioneers of civilisation in the Western world, because of the loving care with which they rescued, at first, and preserved for so long, the body of his predecessor. It was a great joy to join in these glorious celebrations. He congratulated the Benedictine Monks present on living to see this great day—the fulfilment of many hopes—and from his heart he congratulated the English people on their demonstration of Catholic faith and Catholic solidarity.

To-day at Downside, at ten-thirty, Cardinal MacRory will sing Solemn Pontifical Mass of Thanksgiving for his completing fifty years as a priest.

BURNING MINE IN ENGLAND

MEN CUT OFF BY WALL OF FIRE

SIXTEEN LIVES LOST

EIGHT INJURED MEN IN HOSPITAL

SIXTEEN men are dead and eight others are seriously injured as the result of an explosion and fire which occurred last night in the North Gawber Colliery, near Barnsley. The men were overwhelmed when working four hundred and fifty feet below ground level, and rescuers who fought ceaselessly throughout the evening found that some of the doomed men were cut off by a solid wall of fire.

It was not until after 10 p.m. that all the bodies were brought to the pit-head, and a check of the missing lamps provided silent evidence that no more men were left in the pit.

RESCUE WORK

There were 160 men working in the pit when the disaster occurred, and a roll call taken at the pit head showed that 38 were missing. Volunteers at once began the work of rescue, and slowly crippled and dazed miners, some of them with their clothing smouldering were brought to safety.

Men who escaped after the explosion described how they were flung to the ground by a rush of red hot air and how they crawled to safety through clouds of black dust along the low, narrow seam in which they were working.

One man told an epic story of how he and his comrades went back after reaching safety and dragged an injured man out of the danger area on a piece of matting.

MANY MEN CUT OFF

Throughout the evening the rescue parties struggled against the stone dust which constantly hampered their efforts, but by 9 p.m. twenty-six men had been brought alive to the surface and five bodies had been recovered. It was then found that a fierce fire extended for 200 yards, and that the remaining men were cut off. It was thought that they must have been killed by the flames.

Men who escaped from the colliery said that they were working on their knees in the low seam when a blast of hot air came through scattering dust and cobbles in all directions. The fact that the explosion occurred in a gallery less than three feet in height added to the difficulty of the rescue work. Men had to crawl along with stretchers in order to reach the injured men, and their return journey was even more arduous.

Wives and children gathered at the pit-head waiting for news of their men, and there were heart-rending scenes as the dead and injured were brought from the pit.

THE MISSING LAMPS

A check in the lamp-rook had shown that fifteen lamps were missing from their places, and gradually as the evening wore on bodies were brought to the surface until the number totalled fifteen.

The officials were then able to announce that no more men were in the pit, and the rescue party, worn out after their long struggle with the fire and dust, took their first rest.

The bodies were taken to a little room in the colliery yard, and miners' lamps were hung along the path so that relatives might come to identify the bodies.

One of the injured men had his leg and arm broken when he was blown over and knocked into a conveyer pan.

A miner, J. Nixon, of Barnsley, who escaped with cuts and shock, told a reporter how he was overwhelmed by a scorching blast.

"My electric lamp was blown out of my hand," he said, "and I was flung down in the darkness.

"Before long I was over-joyed to see a light approaching me. I crawled some distance and saw the lights of three men who were in the haulage road. I made towards them and was brought to safety."

HOSPITAL CASES

Nine men were taken to Barnsley Hospital, and the condition of all was stated to be very serious. One of them—George Betton (41), of Wright's terrace, Barnsley—who had a fractured right leg and left arm, and was suffering from shock and burns, died in hospital at midnight, bringing the death-roll to sixteen.

A member of the rescue team who came to the surface after a long ordeal told a reporter that at least six men who had been working on one face had been hopelessly trapped by the fire.

Donald Brook, of Staincross, said:—"I was working on the face just below where the explosion occurred, when suddenly there was a bump, and we were swept off our feet. A huge cloud of choking coal-dust came down the workings, and everything was blacked out.

"My mates and I searched for our lamps. They were still alight; but in the thick dust they were useless. We groped around and found a crawling man, and assisted him to the pit bottom. Then we went back into the danger area, and although the gas made breathing difficult we reached a number of other men, and succeeded in dragging one who was severely injured to safety. We placed him on a piece of matting, and in this way brought him along the corridor."

THE DEAD

The following revised list of dead was officially announced:—James Senior, of Woodlands, Darton; Albert Ibberson, of Allendale terrace, Mapplewell; Robert Brandt, of Four Lane Ends, Mapplewell; Albert Smith (20), of Southwell street, Barnsley; Thomas Poyser, of Spring Gardens, Mapplewell; Joseph Washington, of Lunn lane, Burton Grange; Thomas Roberts, of Willthorpe avenue, Barnsley; Leo Bunting, of Bloom House Green, Darton; Arthur Walley, of Hermit lane, Higham; Richard Hurrell, of Mapplewell; Clifford Walker, of New street, Staincross; Jacob Fallas, of Honeywell street, Barnsley; George Wroe, of Mexborough; John Williams, of New Lane, Smithies, Barnsley, and Thomas Smith, of High street, Barton lane.

LAP RECORD SMASHED

ONLY TWO BEAT HANDICAP

By Our Motoring Correspondent.

ONLY two drivers beat their handicaps in practising for the Irish Motor Racing Club's Two Hundred Miles Race in the Phœnix Park yesterday morning. They were G. F. A. Manly Colegrave, winner of the Junior Race in the Park last year, who, on his best practice lap, was exactly one mile per hour faster than he is handicapped to average in to-morrow's race, and M. H. Fleming, winner of this year's County Down Trophy Race, who was 1.5 m.p.h. faster than his handicap speed.

Speeds on the whole, however, were very high. That is indicated by the fact that more than half a minute was knocked off the 750 c.c. class lap record. R. E. Tongue, in a Monoposto M.G. Midget, raised the speed for his class from 72 m.p.h. to 85.2 m.p.h. The small car class record was beaten also by Stanley Woods and Charles Goodacre, in Austins, and by W. R. Baird and I. F. Connell in M.G. Midgets.

The practising was due to start at 6 a.m., but after a night of rain the sky was so dark that the practising had to be put back for half an hour. There were several wet patches on the back road, and it is likely that few of the competitors were as fast as they would have been under agreeable conditions.

NO THRILLS

There were no very thrilling incidents, although occasionally at the Mountjoy Corner some of the fast drivers tipped the grass with their off-side wheels.

Fastest lap of the morning was done by Austin Dobson, who in a three-litre Maserati averaged 93.5 m.p.h., which is very close to the speed he is handicapped to do in the race. Five competitors exceeded 85 m.p.h., the others being Luis Fontes, Alfa Romeo; E. K. Rayson, Bugatti; G. F. A. Manby Colegrave, M.G. Magnette, and R. E. Tongue, M.G. Midget. The next fastest was M. J. Hynes, who in the Statham-Ford-Special averaged 77.9 m.p.h., a speed which was also recorded by Stanley Woods in the Austin.

Thirty-three drivers took part in the practising, the only absentees being Norman Black and J. S. Barnes, whose Singers were damaged in the T.T. Race last Saturday, and D. C. MacLachlan, of Cork, who is, however, a probable starter.

THREE ATTEMPTS

Connell had a peculiar experience. He was unable to get his M.G. Midget to start, and borrowed Tongue's after the latter had done a number of practice laps. Half-way round the course this car ran out of petrol. Connell ran back to the starting place, and was able to secure Baird's car, and did one lap just before the roads were declared open. As he was only four seconds slower than Baird in his best lap, his performance was quite creditable. Apart from Fleming and Manby Colegrave, a driver who seems to have a very good chance in the race is W. J. Kavanagh, who is to drive a 1,752 c.c. Alfa-Romeo, which was rather slow in its previous owner's hands two years ago. Kavanagh, however, was making it move this morning.

The following were the fatest lap times:—

	M.P.H.
Over 2,000 c.c. Class.
Austin Dobson, Maserati	93.5
Luis Fontes, Alfa-Romeo	88.2
M. J. Hynes, Statham-Ford	77.9
T. O'Shaughnessy, Talbot	71.4
Over 1,500 c.c. Class.
E. K. Rayson, Bugatti	88.2
W. J. Kavanagh, Alfa-Romeo	77.9
Over 850 c.c. Class.
G. F. A. Manby Colegrave, M.G. Magnette	87.2
F. O'Boyle, Riley	69.1
W. B. Hislop, Lagonda	68.5
P. Donelly, Riley	68.5
H. W. Furey, M.G. Magnette	67.7
Up to 850 c.c. Class.
R. E. Tongue, M.G. Midget	85.2
S. Woods, Austin	77.9
Charles Goodacre, Austin	76.7
W. R. Baird, M.G. Midget	74.9
I. F. Connell, M.G. Midget	72.5

Five of the drivers failed to reach the practice speed demanded in the race regulations, but as they all are men of experience, whose cars were "sulky" yesterday, it is anticipated that the stewards of the meeting will permit them to start.

SENIOR MANX GRAND PRIX

WINNER WHO WAS THIRD IN JUNIOR

From Our Motor Cycling Correspondent.

After finishing second in the Senior Class of the Manx Grand Prix in two successive years, J. K. Swanston, a twenty-seven years old medical practitioner, of Kirkcaldy, yesterday achieved his ambition by winning the race, averaging over 79½ miles an hour for the 226 miles of the race, and doing one lap at almost 82 miles an hour.

Forty-three seconds behind him in second place was F. L. Frith, of Grimsby, who won the Junior Race on Tuesday, and who just missed adding his name to the select list of those who have won two Manx Grand Prix Races. In third place, but beaten by over two minutes, was Darbishire, the Cambridge University medical student, who was second to Frith in the Junior. Swanston was third in Tuesday's race, so that the first three places in both events were filled by the same men.

THE SAME SIX

In another respect the race yesterday resembled the Junior, in that the same six men filled the first six places for each of the six laps. All of them were mounted on Norton machines.

Swanston met with a little mechanical trouble on the first lap, and although he succeeded in overcoming it and getting into sixth place at the end of the first 37¾ miles, he was then almost two minutes in arrear to Frith. Once he got over his initial trouble Swanston commenced to cut down Frith's lead, and by the end of the fourth lap the Scotsman was within 31 seconds of his rival. He entered the final lap four seconds behind. He made a record lap, and finished a winner by 43 seconds.

PLACINGS AND SPEEDS

1—Swanston (Norton), 2 hrs. 50 mins. 36 secs. (79.62 m.p.h.).

2—Frith (Norton), 2 hrs. 51 mins. 21 secs. (79.29).

3—Darbishire, 2 hrs. 53 mins. 27 secs. (78.31).

4—Munks (Norton), 2 hrs. 57 mins. 18 secs. (76.33).

5—Harris (Norton), 2 hrs. 58 mins. 33 secs. (76.09).

6—Blythe (Norton), 3 hrs. 1 min. 32 secs. (74.84).

7—Rowell (Velocette), 73.96 m.p.h.

8—Cannell (Velocette), 73.12 m.p.h.

ABBEY THEATRE CONTROVERSY

FATHER GAFFNEY'S ATTACK

"FATAL ERROR OF STRATEGY"

"FOR nine years I lived in the Dublin slums, and I know enough about them to resent very bitterly Mr. O'Casey's lack of equipoise in his treatment of them," said the Rev. Father Gaffney, O.P., last night, when, in the course of an address at the Academy of Christian Art, Upper Mount street, Dublin, he dealt with the criticisms that followed his condemnation at Galway of the presentation at the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, of Sean O'Casey's "Silver Tassie."

Father Gaffney declared that if the dramatist had set himself to create contempt in Irish and foreign minds for the poor people in Dublin he had succeeded, but the Abbey Directorate deserved commendation for taking off the "Silver Tassie" at the end of the week following the first protest, despite the fact that the theatre had been booked out for its showing for three weeks.

Speaking of Dr. Starkie's point that the dramatist meant to defend faith in God, Father Gaffney declared that Dr. Starkie must think them poltroons of the first water if he expected them to accept this assertion. Imagination reeled at the vision of Mr. O'Casey defending a God who, he holds, does not exist. Compared with Mr. Speaight, another attacker of O'Casey's attackers, who was described as a foreign observer of Irish affairs and a Catholic critic, Mr. O'Casey was an archangel with a square nimbus about his head.

HOLDING THE MIRROR

Another line of defence, continued Father Gaffney, was adopted by Mr. Carney, who held that Mr. O'Casey was altruistically holding the mirror up to Dublin miseries in order to shock the people into their amelioration. But he would be inclined to believe Mr. Carney when there could be admitted the unselfish philanthropy of an Irish dramatist who, to improve the status of the poor people, made money out of the portrayal of their misery before English and American audiences. No more stupid line than this had been adopted in Mr. O'Casey's defence.

Referring to Mr. Sean O Faolain's suggestion of Mr. O'Casey's sincerity, Father Gaffney said that this critic mildly deprecated the Galway strictures, but he had not uttered a word of censure for the whirling blasphemy of Mr. O'Casey, "which has cut us all to the quick, and hurt deeply the most sacred sensibilities of every Protestant and Catholic in the land." No one but a man devoid of humour could possibly plead for pardon for Mr. O'Casey on the grounds that the dramatist was deeply and profoundly moved. The murderer also acted under stress of deep emotion, but his passion got him no quarter in the people's courts. Mr. O Faolain had also mentioned that it took all sorts of men to make a nation, but he should remember that for many of them private mental homes and even gaols had to be provided. His only comment upon Mr. O Faolain's quotation from Jacques Maritain by way of asserting that if an artist did not connive with the improper things of life in depicting them, then he was at liberty to depict them, would be that it was a grave under-statement of Maritain.

TRAGEDY

Father Gaffney repudiated the suggestion of a bourgeois fear of facing tragedy, even upon the stage. "No people," he said, "has looked so long and so bravely into the very eyes of death. Tragedy has not made us mean; tragedy has not made us sordid; tragedy has not made us blaspheme. We leave all that to the Abbey Theatre. In fact, this whole controversy brings us to the cataclysmic conclusion that the Abbey Theatre itself is the very shrine of the bourgeoisie, self-satisfied, pompous, limited: it has all the defects attributed to the bourgeois mind by Berdyaev. At last we see it for what it is. And this theatre is to be kept by a Government for which poor Pearse and his fellows died to bring into being. Have we gone stark, staring mad? The Abbey directors made a fatal error of strategy when they took cowardly shelter in an unchivalrous attack upon Mr. Macnamara, and the only honourable course for the directors was, and is, a frank apology to the people whose conscience they have so brutally outraged."

Count Plunkett, who presided, said that the Irish should be a race happy in their aims and outlook; studying with a clean mind to free their country from its existing evils, and to avoid the pitfalls that outside nations were digging for their own destruction.

Some noted books and plays, he said, showed a relapse into savagery on the part of their producers and approvers. It was their business as Irish people to keep their nation apart from evil-doers.

PROPOSAL TO REOPEN MILLS

DEPUTATION TO WAIT ON MINISTER

From Our Correspondent.
DROGHEDA, Thursday.

A public meeting was held in Oldcastle yesterday for the purpose of appointing a deputation to interview the Minister for Industry and Commerce with a view to obtaining a grant and Government sanction to take over the Millbrook mills. Mr. Eginton presided

Deputy O'Reilly stated that he would do everything possible to help the locals of Oldcastle. There was not as yet an industry in Oldcastle, and when the division of the land was completed it would mean that over 2,000 acres would be given to the farmers. As the cattle trade was at the lowest ebb they could not hope to make a living by it, and their only alternative was to grow wheat. Without a mill capable of milling wheat they could not make money, and it was for the purpose of installing sufficient machinery and taking over the Millbrook mills that the meeting was held.

Mr. Michael Reilly, owner of the mills, said that he was quite willing to give over the mill to the Government or the community at a nominal rent, or sell it.

It was decided to send Messrs. Patrick Corrigan, Bernard Reilly and Michael Reilly on the deputation to the Minister, and request that an engineer be sent down to inspect the machinery at present in use and specify the cost of modern improvements.

RETURN OF C.Y.M.S. PILGRIMS

The members of the Dublin Catholic Young Men's Society who have been on pilgrimage to Lourdes and Lisieux, numbering about 250, returned to Dublin yesterday morning. The spiritual director of the pilgrimage, the Rev. E. Doyle, C.C., Meath street, who was assisted by the Rev. Father Foley, C.C., St. Teresa's, Donore avenue, expressed satisfaction with the result of the society's visits to the famous French shrines.

SIX DAYS' TRIAL

News from Oberstdorf, the centre of the international six days' motor cycle trial, is usually a day late in reaching this country. It appears that up to the start of the fourth morning's run the Irish "A" team in the vase had lost four marks, Italy one, Germany and Holland none.

BOYLE AGRICULTURAL SHOW

BIG INCREASE IN EXHIBITS

EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD CATTLE

From Our Reporter.
BOYLE, Thursday.

THE work of the Boyle Agricultural, Horticultural and Industrial Society is making good progress, as was evidenced at their annual show at Abbey Park, Boyle, County Roscommon, to-day. Including all sections there were over 800 entries this year, or 300 more than at last year's show.

The horses were good, and the cattle exceptionally good in the younger classes. Notwithstanding that Roscommon is one of the greatest sheep counties of the country, the sheep classes were not well supported, but, though the exhibits in this section were small in number, they were undoubtedly good.

The produce and industrial sections of the show did great credit to the skill and efficiency of the exhibitors. A dog show run in connection with the show provided an interesting display of good dogs.

The Hon. Secretary, Mr. John Drury, and all the officials carried off the day's heavy tasks with good order and expedition, giving general satisfaction.

BISHOP OF KILLALOE

ATTAINMENT OF GOLDEN JUBILEE

From Our Correspondent.
ENNIS, Thursday.

To-morrow marks the golden jubilee of the Most Rev. Dr. Fogarty's ordination to the priesthood.

At the request of the Bishop, the anniversary of his consecration was not marked by any special ceremonies, and similarly no special ceremonies will be held to-morrow in connection with his golden jubilee. The special ceremonies will be held on September 29, the Feast Day of St. Michael.

At a meeting of the Ennis Urban Council, Senator T. V. Honan (chairman) said that he thought it fitting and proper that the Urban Council should join with the priests and laity of the diocese in extending sincere congratulations to his lordship, who was one of the most distinguished members of the Irish Hierarchy.

Mr. P. J. MacNamara (Lab.) seconded, and said that he hoped Dr. Fogarty would be long spared further to grace the exalted position he occupied.

Mr. J. Kennedy (Fianna Fail) expressed a desire to be personally associated with the resolution, as did Mr. M. J. Carmody, Town Clerk, on behalf of himself and the other officers of the Council.

THE NEW THEATRE ROYAL

One of the features of the opening night at the new Theatre Royal, Dublin, on Monday, September 23, will be an organ interlude by Mr. Alban Chambers, Theatre Royal organist, on the magnificent new Compton instrument which has just been installed. Capable of virtually every known musical effect, the console of the new organ is of the latest illuminated and decorated type, and it is fitted with a system of interior lighting which yields a remarkable range of colours at the control of the organist.

Mr. Chambers, who has a wide experience of all types of organs, both church and theatre, was appointed at the age of 11 years as organist to Leeds Cathedral. For the last three years he has been organist at the Paramount Astoria, London.

THE LEAGUE'S DEFECTS

RULE THAT MUST GO

VIEWS OF MR. DE VALERA

BROADCASTING from Geneva to America early yesterday morning, President de Valera said there was absent from the Assembly that which made all their representative national Parliaments an effective reality. Apart from the absence of representatives of the United States of America, Germany and Japan, there was also absent that essential thing, the power of making binding decisions, and of enforcing them; and that power was absent because the will to have it otherwise was absent. In that matter many Governments and statesmen were in advance of their peoples. The people and the nations, undoubtedly, desired to be free from the horrors of war, but they were not yet prepared to deny themselves the privilege of satisfying their selfish ambitions at the expense of their neighbours.

Theoretically, each member of the Assembly had given an assurance that the rule of law should be implemented without having to use force; but in practice each nation wanted to reserve to itself the right to interpret the law and be the judge of its own case.

The findings of the League could be ignored when a State was strong enough to ignore them. The failure of the various Disarmament Conferences gave evidence of how little the larger Powers could trust the League as a guarantee of security.

The theory that a State was above all law must be abandoned. A fundamental general Covenant was not enough, and the changing condition of international society and of mankind required a more flexible instrument to deal with them.

RULE OF UNANIMITY

The rule of unanimity must go, Mr. de Valera declared. In matters in which they were all agreed the machinery of a League was hardly required at all. It was when there was fierce conflict of interests, when rights, or imagined rights, of a State were impinged upon, that there was danger to the peace of the world, and that the League was really required. The rights of the "haves" and the "have-nots" needed to be adjusted from time to time in the case of States or individuals within a State, and when wrong cried out for redress there must be some means to provide it in time, without waiting for a threat of war to compel attention.

It was foolish to hope, and extremely dangerous to expect, that by any device such as the Covenant of the League one could keep static for ever any existing State system, irrespective of how it came into existence.

When the United States was considering the question of entering the League of Nations in 1919-20 he, as representative of Ireland, asked that the United State of America should not be a party to acknowledging Britain's claim to deny Ireland's independence, and only what was just had a right to last. There must be some tribunal by which the law should be interpreted and applied. There must be also some machinery by which the tribunal's judgments could be enforced against a State which thought it to its advantage to ignore them.

The League of Nations, however inadequate it might be, was a beginning, a real effort on the part of many to order international affairs by reason and justice, instead of by force. To destroy it now would be a crime against humanity. The fact that they might suspect the motive of some of its founders should not influence them too far. The alternative, so far as Europe was concerned, was to return to the law of the jungle.

MR. DE VALERA'S BROADCAST

The Director of the Government Information Bureau when asked why a notice was issued on Wednesday night definitely stating that President de Valera's broadcast from Geneva to America would take place at 15 minutes past midnight on Thursday, said: "I understood it would take place on Thursday night-Friday, and had arranged to listen in myself to-night. In our efforts to be extra explicit about the time of the broadcast we were misleading. I am sorry for being the innocent cause of this confusion."

The broadcast was originally announced for 12.15 a.m. on Thursday.

Japan has offered to remove her discriminatory duties against Canadian goods if Canada will rescind the surtax against Japanese exports, it was officially announced yesterday. The Japanese statement asks for the same treatment for her exports as is accorded in the United States.

CHARGES AGAINST PUBLICAN

POLICE EVIDENCE IN CLARE COURT

From Our Correspondent.
MILTOWN-MALBAY, Thursday.

In the Miltown-Malbay District Court charges of being guilty of conduct likely to provoke a breach of the peace, assaulting the Guards, unnecessarily blowing a motor horn, and refusing to admit Guards to his licensed premises were preferred against Mr. Martin Lynch, publican, of Main street, by Superintendent Keenan, of Ennistymon.

Mr. F. F. Cullinan, solicitor, Ennis, appeared for the defendant.

Superintendent Keenan said that, as it was the annual Licensing Sessions, the local publicans were applying for the renewal of their annual certificates. He had no objection to the renewal of certificates except that of the defendant.

Sergeant Murphy gave evidence that at 12.55 a.m. on July 29th he heard the horn of a stationary motor car outside the defendant's premises being sounded. Guard Currid remonstrated with the defendant, and the defendant replied that he would sound it again. The defendant knocked at his own door and got no reply. He then stepped into the motor car and again sounded the horn, after which he proceeded to drive the car to a garage a short distance away. After garaging the car he returned to his own premises, stood there for about ten minutes with his shoulder to the jamb of the door and, while smoking a cigarette, made some very objectionable remarks. Witness and Guard Currid kept the house under observation and, at 2 a.m., saw a light in defendant's bedroom window. Shortly afterwards they heard defendant calling: "Guards, Guards," so they immediately went to the front of his premises. When proceeding along the footpath in front of the door a shower of liquid came down on them from the defendant's bedroom window.

Mr. Cullinan said that he could not deny what had happened, but all he did say was that it had been due to intoxicating liquor.

The Justice said that the defendant was a totally unfit person to be in charge of licensed premises, and he would refuse to renew his licence.

Mr. Cullinan—But there has never been any charge for allowing any person on the premises during prohibited hours.

The Justice—But he has got no sense of responsibility, and when drunk is mad. His conduct on this occasion was absolutely intolerable.

Mr. Cullinan made a further appeal, but the Justice refused to accede to it. He would convict the defendant, he said, on all charges, sentence him to one month's imprisonment for the assault; fine him £2 for failing to admit the Guards to his licensed premises, with an endorsement on the licence; fine him ten shillings for unnecessarily blowing the motor horn, and bind him to the peace for twelve months, himself in £10, and two sureties of £5 each. In default of entering the necessary bonds the defendant would be sent to jail for another month.

Mr. Cullinan asked the Justice to adjourn his decision with reference to refusal of the licensing certificate in order to afford an opportunity of considering the transfer of the premises to some other person, such as his wife.

The Justice—I will adjourn my decision on that point so, in order to allow you an opportunity of transferring the licence to his wife's name; but I will not grant a renewal in his name under any circumstances.

Mr. Cullinan asked the Justice to fix the recognisances in the event of an appeal to the Circuit Court, and the Justice fixed them at £10 for the defendant and two sureties of £5 each.

"THE CHURCH OF IRELAND GAZETTE"

This week's issue of The Church of Ireland Gazette provides an interesting variety of reading matter. The discussion on reunion is continued by Canon Rudd and Precentor Drury. "In Quietness and Confidence" provides a meditation upon death. "A Diplomatic Move" deals with Italian rapprochements to Germany and possible repercussions. "Property" discusses the Church's attitude towards possessions. All the usual features are also in evidence.

A youth named Desmond Sarkey (15), of 160 Marlborough street, Dublin, who fell through a plate glass window at Marlborough street while playing with some companions, was removed to Jervis Street Hospital in the Ambulance last night. He is detained for treatment, suffering from numerous cuts.

It was announced at a meeting at Arundel Borough Council last night that the Duke of Norfolk had consented to be nominated as Mayor of Arundel for the coming municipal year.

IRISH DUNLOP COMPANY

PROGRESS OF CORK FACTORY

FURTHER ACTIVITIES AHEAD

From Our Correspondent.
CORK, Thursday.

THE Lord Mayor of Cork (Alderman S. French), members of the various public bodies, and other civic representatives, manufacturers, motor traders and leading business men in Cork to the number of over seventy, were to-day the guests of the Irish Dunlop Co., Ltd., when an inspection of the new Dunlop factory at Cork was made. The party was greatly interested in all the various processes at the factory. Later they were entertained to a luncheon at the Metropole Hotel, at which Mr. James C. Carroll, director of Messrs. Dunlops, who presided, gave an address on the progress of the factory to date, and indicated contemplated extensions in production.

The toast of "Eire" having been honoured, Mr. James C. Carroll, director of the Irish Dunlop Co., Ltd., proposing the toast of "Our Guests," congratulated Cork City on having acquired the Dunlop industry for itself. That occasion, which was more a friendly than a formal one, went to prove that the company had the goodwill and support of the people of the South. The directors and staff were very grateful for the kindness, facilities and general hospitality extended to them in Cork.

In October, 1934, the company had commenced the installation of the plant, and the first tyre was produced in April this year. Thanks to the advice and co-operation of the parent company they had a plant capable of supplying the entire needs of the Saorstat, and the quality would be true to Dunlop quality. Cork-made tyres had been sent to Fort Dunlop, and there had undergone a severe test, and had been reported on as Dunlop quality.

The next task was the installation of plant for the production of footwear, canvas and rubber, and this they hoped to have assembled next month, and to start production in December of this year. This department would produce the last word in footwear, while later the manufacture of "Dunlopillo" seating for vehicles, armchairs, theatre seats, and beds would also be undertaken, so that when the full Dunlop scheme was operating the Marina factory would be of even greater service and advantage to the people of Cork City.

THE FACTORY

They had been fortunate, he said, in securing from the Ford Company an up-to-date factory building, and after what they had seen that day no doubt they would agree that a very well-laid-out factory had resulted. The workpeople engaged there had been found intelligent, keen, capable and quick to learn. The harbour and shipping facilities were excellent, and train and transport facilities were everything to be desired; while, on account of the keen business acumen of Cork's authorities and citizens, their officials had the greatest courtesy and assistance in dealing with the questions that were bound to arise.

Continuing, he said that they had the greatest confidence in the future success of the Irish Dunlop Company. The policy of the Dunlop Companies elsewhere had been one of the highest possible quality at the lowest possible price, and this, he could assure them, was going to be the policy of the Irish Dunlop Company.

Referring to Irish products generally, he said that Irish products were now occupying a place of honour in "Quality street." The fact that a world-wide organisation like Dunlops had established a factory in Cork was evidence of the faith of the directors in the industrial capabilities of their people.

The toast having been honoured, the Lord Mayor (Alderman French) expressed the pleasure of the guests in being present. They were delighted to visit the Irish Dunlop Factory and see so many of their people employed in such healthy surroundings. He appreciated the recognition of the co-operation given by the community to the Dunlop industry, and he assured the directors of even more genial and more complete co-operation towards the company's future success.

Mr. John R. Horgan, solicitor, said that the main difference between a Dunlop tyre and some public men was that the hot air never escaped from a Dunlop tyre. He had been amazed at what had been accomplished in the factory in so short a time. The public bodies in Cork would leave nothing undone to make the factory completely successful.

The Lord Mayor proposed the toast of the directors and management of the company, and Mr. B. J. O'Donnell, works manager, praised the aptitude of the factory operatives.

TAKING HELP TO THE BACKBLOCKS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

The use of wireless and aeroplanes for summoning and sending medical aid to sufferers in the lonely Australian bush was described by Dr. Allan Vickers, Chief Medical Officer of the Australian Medical Aerial Services, to members of the British Medical Association at their annual meeting at Melbourne to-day.

Over an area larger than Western Europe, Dr. Vickers said, were scattered thousands of settlers, whose nearest neighbours were 100 miles away, and whose nearest hospital sometimes two hundred. Their means of communication were primitive, a ride on horseback sixty or seventy miles to the nearest telegraph office being quite common. Their only roads were mere bush tracks, which during heavy rains were quagmires.

Aeroplanes and wireless were rapidly meeting the difficulties of these lonely settlers. So far as aeroplanes were concerned, the problem was easily solved, but to design wireless sets so cheap as to be economically possible for the outback people, and so simple that they could maintain and operate them themselves, occupied years of experiment and cost thousands of pounds. Small sets had now been designed, for which the source of power was a small, high-tension generator driven by bicycle pedals. For distances up to 200 miles communication could be carried on by ordinary voice, and by Morse code it could be carried on for greater distances. There were now thirty-five out-stations set up in pastoral homesteads, in lonely police stations, and at mission stations of various creeds. The most distant was 700 miles from the aerial medical base, and the nearest 120 miles.

Although installed primarily for medical purposes, the sets were used by isolated folk for telegraphic purposes, and last year they handled a total of 185,000 words in telegrams. People who previously received a mail only at intervals of many weeks could now send a telegram to any part of Australia and have a reply the same day.

Ambulance aeroplanes carried transmitting and receiving wireless sets, so that the "flying doctor" was able to keep in continuous touch with his base. In one case Dr. Vickers mentioned, the ambulance plane flew a total of 2,500 miles from its base, transporting the patient for half that distance.

OVER COAT NAPPED

Black Devil May Beat Denvir II. for Doncaster Cup

M. MARCEL BOUSSAC, the well-known French owner, who likes to see his colours carried at the big meetings on this side of the Channel, has not had much luck in England since Asterus won the Royal Hunt Cup for him in 1927. To-day he will be trying to win another coveted trophy, the Doncaster Cup, with Denver II.

This colt will not have to be anything out of the ordinary to win. Tiberius, the best class entrant, having been withdrawn, the quality of the opposition is hardly worthy of such a prize. This will be Denver II.'s third race in this country this season. He ran twice at the Ascot meeting. On the first occasion he won the Churchill Stakes of two miles from Enfield and four others. The next day he was pulled out for the Gold Cup, in which he finished third. The French "wonder" horse, Brantome, was among those behind him.

Black Devil, trained by Captain Boyd-Rochfort, who won the race last year with Alcazar, will probably start favourite. A splendid stayer, he has made rapid progress since the start of the season. Last time out he won a fourteen furlongs race at Derby in a canter under 9st. 8lb. He has the beating of Cecil on Newmarket running in July, when he gave 8lb. to Cecil over twelve furlongs and defeated him by four lengths. Here the difference will be only 7lb.

His Reverence will be contesting his longest race. His trainer, R. C. Dawson, who prepared the 1929 winner, Athford, has probably satisfied himself that the Irish horse stays. Hoplite may have too much to do in this company. In any case he may not have recovered from his hard race in the Great Yorkshire Handicap on Tuesday. Caracol has not shown any good form for a long time. I shall expect to see prove too good for Denver II., though there may not be much in it at the finish.

Most of those left in the Prince of Wales's Nursery are due to face the starter. It is over a mile, and should take a lot of winning. Bellrue, Ipsden, Smike, Nekora and Menado are reported to have been well tried over the distance. I am satisfied to take sides with who was staying on when he won over six furlongs at Newcastle.

does not appear to have a very difficult task in the Park Hill Stakes. Milldoria has improved, but I shall be very surprised if she can give a stone and a beating to the Oaks runner up. The chief danger to Ankaret may be Fox Lair.

OVER COAT,

who missed the Portland Handicap for the Town Moor Handicap, is taken as the best bet of the day. He has never been in better form than at the present time.

BARRA SAHIB,

who has impressed my Newmarket correspondent in his recent work over six furlongs, should win the Doncaster Stakes.

SHALFLEET'S BRILLIANT SCORE

Portland Handicap Won Under Difficulties: A Bad Day for Favourites

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

DONCASTER, Thursday Night.

IT is doubtful whether there has ever been a bigger crowd here on a Thursday of Leger week than there was this afternoon. It was enormous out on the course, as well as everywhere else. The weather was again fine, and those who came had great value for their money, for there were troops of runners in every event, and no fewer than twenty-three of the best sprinters in training in the Portland Handicap. Indeed, the only notable sprinter absent was Bellacose, and he ran later for a mile race, which he won.

One of the extraordinary things about to-day's racing was that all the winners came from the side of the course nearest the stands. Among them was Shalfleet, who, after being drawn No. 17, won the Portland Handicap by half a length and a head from Greenore—the Nunthorpe Stakes over again—and Sandra II. third, with Flamenco, whom a great many people thought had won, fourth. Horses, however, that have been drawn on the far side, as Flamenco, who started from No. 6, have not been getting any decisions to-day.

When it was seen that Sunny Palm was drawn 19 Frank Hartigan's filly was made favourite, but she did little better than in the Stewards' Cup. March Tor, also favourably drawn, was second favourite, but he did not do as well as expected.

Sandra Makes Running

It was Sandra who jumped off in front, and she made the running well clear of everything, with Fugit in the middle of the course, and Nothing Daunted on the far side. At the distance Sandra was weakening, and Shalfleet was drawing up with Greenore.

Most of the others were beaten then, except Flamenco. His jockey had waited with him, and when he tried to come through another horse went across him, the result being that his jockey had to switch his course round to the outside. He must have lost a couple of lengths in doing so.

When he did get his run he went clear away from those on his side, and appeared to be an easy winner if one had not been closely watching those on the stand side. There Greenore was fighting it out with Shalfleet.

The jockey's effort on the latter seemed a little cramped—and no wonder, for his saddle had slipped round. Shalfleet is such a good colt, however, that he was able to win cleverly.

Tantalising Result

The result was tantalising personally, because at the week-end I had made up my mind that if the going were at all on the easy side Shalfleet would win, not only because this race so often goes to the good horse at the top of the handicap, but because I believe Shalfleet to be a sprinter well out of the common. But the ground was firm, and his trainer, Jack Leader, who won this race some years ago with his sire, Diomedes, was doubtful yesterday about the advisability of running him at all.

Still, Flamenco, who was the alternative to him, ran a great race. The light-weights were eclipsed, as they so often are, and no horse with less than 8st. finished in the first four. Sunny Palm was fifth.

Favourites had a hectic time through the day. There was one of Mr. Rank's, Windrush, who had been very well galloped for the Rous Plate, but she was drawn on the far side, and after she had been well clear she was caught and beaten a head by Kyles of Minard—drawn, of course, under the stands—with Silver Wings a short-head behind.

It was a very good performance on the part of the winner, who only cost 280 gns. as a yearling, and won twice earlier in the season as the colt by Bulger out of Kyleogue.

A Long Shot

The same tale has to be told of the Princess Mary Stakes, which a long shot, Greek Lily, owned by Mr. G. E. Cloke and drawn at No. 18, won easily by two lengths and a length and a half from Symphony—drawn No. 2—and Pendulum.

Mr. Barnett's filly, Wheatfield, started favourite, but did not run particularly well, but then the handicapper had not been kind to her.

Another winning outsider was Lord Sefton's Newmarket, a Tolgus colt, bred in Ireland, that went to France as a yearling, returned last year, was sold to Lady Bullough, and, after he had won her a selling race at Newmarket, was bought by Mr. Persse for his present owner at 700 guineas.

He was drawn second but one from the stands, and he found enough to come and beat the top-weight, Water Marten, by a short-head, with Charmian a neck away. Water Marten is well handicapped in the Cambridgeshire with 7st. 3lb.

On a Tight Rein

In spite of his not having won over a mile before, Bellacose had odds laid on him in the Scarborough Stakes, and, after Rufus Beasley had waited with him until the last furlong, he came away on a tight rein to win by a length and a half from Papyrette, who had acted as a pacemaker for him.

Lord Glanely had given the top price at the excellent yearling sales this morning—5,300 guineas—for a colt by Manna out of a sister to Portlaw from The Sledmere, and this good deed was repaid by another, for his gelding, Winastep, won him the Alexandra Handicap, and won it after making all the running, by a length and a half from Quillon, who has a knack of notching up seconds instead of firsts.

The remaining race, to which I have not referred, was the first, a selling plate, which a horse with no previous form, though well backed, Mr Ben Warner's Range of Arrow, drawn on the stand side, won by a neck from Itsaboy on the far rails.

Selections

To-morrow we conclude the meeting, when the Doncaster Cup will be run for. It is likely that His Reverence will be fancied for this race, though he has never run at the longer distance. Still, Velocity and Athford, who have won this race, were of his type. If it were a slow race he would have an excellent chance.

Black Devil, however, likes to pull his way to the front, and has run his best races in this fashion. I think he is the likely winner, though the French horse, Denver II., may run well. He put up a great show in two races at Ascot, but I think he likes the ground softer than it is. Hoplite, who finished so close up in the Great Yorkshire Handicap on Tuesday, will get the distance, but BLACK DEVIL is the selection.

The Park Hill Stakes looks to me a reasonably good thing for ANKARET, and, the last race of the meeting, the Doncaster Stakes, an equally good thing for BARRA SAHIB, to whom the danger may be CARIOCA.

The Town Moor Handicap and the Prince of Wales's Nursery are more difficult. It is suggested that GAY VENTURE has a chance in the former on his handicapping, and his sprint form, and that RUBIS TOPAZE may be the best in the latter.

DONCASTER SALES

Lord Glanely Pays 8,000 Guineas for Gainsborough Colt

The aggregate for the two sessions at the Doncaster Sales yesterday was 95,985 guineas, compared with 111,550 guineas for the corresponding day last year. The morning total was 45,395 guineas, and the evening sales realised 50,590 guineas.

The highest price was for the last of the evening session, a Gainsborough colt from Perce-Neige, a half-sister to Winalot. Captain O. Bell, the Lambourn trainer, and Sir John Jarvis were in the bidding for a long time, but Lord Glanely went to 8,000 guineas, and secured possession.

In the morning sixteen yearlings from the famous Sledmere Stud made 26,070 guineas, compared with 32,310 guineas last year.

The best of the Ballykisteen Stud contingent was the Stratford colt out of Phalconia, the latter mare a sister to Shalfleet, who won the Portland Handicap. Mr. G. E. Cloke got the colt for 1,250 guineas. In the same batch was a Stratford colt out of Synopsis, which appeared to be bought reasonably by Mr. More O'Ferrall for 1,050 guineas.

Good prices were obtained for Lord Furness's contingent, and the thirteen made 19,220 guineas. A sister to Orwell, by Gainsborough—Golden Hair, made 2,700 guineas, and Lord Glanely gave 4,000 guineas for a Pharos colt out of Benvenuta Cellini. Details:—

NEWMARKET HINTS FOR TO-DAY

At Doncaster to-day

ZELICA,

who is reasonably handicapped, should win the Danum Selling Nursery.

Hans Sachs, who is leniently weighted in the Town Moor Handicap, pleased in a recent gallop with the Manchester winner, The Dentist, and I expect him to be well in the lime light, but my vote goes to PEPINO (next best).

The Doncaster Cup should be won by

Stamina will be the chief asset in the Prince of Wales's Nursery. As East Wantleye has proved her ability to stay the distance, I expect her to run well. In a recent trial Rain Cloud finished well in front of Menado, but for the winner I shall rely upon the well galloped who has done well since winning at Good wood.

BINGHAM (nap).

The Doncaster Stakes I leave to

CITADEL,

SPORTING GOSSIP

Fred Fox's Injuries

F. Fox has sustained a fracture of the skull from the temple up to the middle of the head, where it meets one or two cuts. He also has dislocated a shoulder and severely strained his neck. Fortunately the spine is unaffected. The jockey is quite conscious and going on as comfortably as possible.

Sir Alfred Butt's Purchase

The Brook Stud, at Cheveley, near Newmarket, has been bought by Sir Alfred Butt. Sir Alfred's stallion, Orpen, stands there, as does Mrs. F. J. Barlow's Sir Cosmo. Mrs. Barlow has bought 200 acres of land, comprising part of the stud established by Sir Alec Black. Sir Cosmo will go there when the boxes at present being constructed are ready for occupation.

Probus II. Injured

Mr. Geoffrey Leader, the veterinary surgeon, examined Mr. Edward Esmond's Probus II., who returned to J. Jarvis's stables, at Newmarket, after receiving injuries while contesting the Bradgate Park Nursery, at Doncaster, on Wednesday. "His near side knee seems to be the seat of the trouble," said Mr. Leader. "It is very much 'filled' and inflamed."

1,226 to 1 Tote Dividend

The Totalisator Daily Double at Doncaster yesterday paid a dividend of £613 10s. to a 10s. stake, equivalent to the odds of 1,226 to 1. Only five backers coupled the two winners —Shalfleet and Greek Lily.

POWERSTOWN PARK.

ROI RITA STAYS WELL

Brawl Disqualified After Finishing First

RACING at Powerstown Park yesterday was confined to flat and hurdle events alone, and the attendance was not as good as at most previous meetings. This could not have been due in any way to weather conditions, for it was a pleasantly fine autumn afternoon, and the sport was of an entertaining character throughout. Five favourites proved successful, but one suffered disqualification through the intervention of the Stewards.

D.M.S., who had finished third in the Galway hurdle race last month, had an easy task to win the Wilderness Plate. The daughter of Stratford was in the lead for most of the way, and, though making a bad mistake at the last hurdle, was able to recover quickly, and go on to win by more than two lengths from Thurles Hero.

Roi Rita and Queen Gypsy, who were concerned in a close finish over the two miles and a quarter hurdle course at the April meeting, were in opposition again for the Rathronan Plate, over the same distance, and Roi Rita, though now at a disadvantage of 11lb. in the weights, confirmed the previous form. She is a very genuine stayer, and had the measure of Queen Gypsy at every stage of the journey.

Mr. Villiers Morton, thanks to whose energies Powerstown Park is now such a very successful racecourse, won the Woodrooff Hurdle Race with Brighter Cottage, an own brother to Cabin Fire, who was bred by Mrs. Browne, of Mitchelstown. There were only two other runners in opposition, but Brighter Cottage won in a manner that would suggest his being a good stayer. Mr. Morton has not nowadays so many horses in training as in olden times, and this was the first race he won for over twenty years.

THE STEWARDS OBJECT

There was an unusual happening after Brawl had won the Marlfield Plate from a field of seven other runners. Mr. Herbert Dudgeon's horse had been in the lead for virtually the entire journey, and passed the post a length in front of Knight Commander, with Cash Girl, a neck off, third. The Stewards straightaway objected to the winner, and disqualified him on the grounds of crossing the whole field, and at the same time exonerated M. Wing, the rider, from blame in the matter.

Flying Hermes, well ridden by the Southern amateur rider, Mr. J. H. de Bromhead, credited Mr. R. Crotty with the Foxhunters' Plate; and the Barona Plate fell to Mr. H. G. Wellesley's well-bred filly, Ruby Mac, a daughter of Blandford, who had to be hard ridden to dispose of Shanty. Details:—

2.45—WILDERNESS PLATE of 40 sovs. Second 5 sovs. A hurdle race for horses that have not won a hurdle race value 40 sovs. up to time of starting. 1 m. 6 f.

Mr. Denis Kelly's b. m. D.M.S., by Stratford—Dilly Mac, 6, 11-10 ...P. Graham 1
Mr. Jos. Hickey's THURLES HERO, a, 11-5 Mr. M. Hickey 2
Mr. T. Keays's KNOCKEYON, 5, 11-12 Mr. M. J. Mitchell 3
Mr. P. Prendergast's Roman King, 5, 11-10 P. J. Prendergast 0
Mr. W. Prendergast's Lion D'Or, a, 11-10 Mr. J. Foley 0
Mr. C. Ryan's Synovia, 5, 11-10...Mr. T. V. Ryan 0
(Winner trained by W. P. Hanly.)

Betting—3 to 1 on D.M.S., 4 to 1 agst. Knockeyon, 100 to 8 Thurles Hero and Synovia, 50 to 1 any other.

Tote (2/-)—Win 3/-; places 2/6, 5/-.

D.M.S. and Lion d'Or went on with a long lead of Thurles Hero, Roman King and Knockeyon, with Synovia last, to the second-last hurdle, when Thurles Hero joined issue. At the last hurdle D.M.S. made a mistake, but drew clear of Thurles Hero and Knockeyon, to win by two and a half lengths: five lengths. Lion d'Or fourth, Roman King fifth.

3.15—RATHRONAN PLATE of 40 sovs. Second 5 sovs. A handicap hurdle race. 2¼ m.

Mr. John Hayes's b. m. ROI RITA, by Roi Hero, dam by Sprig of Mint, a, 12-0...R. McCarthy 1
Mr. J. J. Parkinson's QUEEN GYPSY, 5, 10-11 H. Holmes 2
Mr. J. P. O'Donnell's OUR TONE, 5, 10-8 W. T. O'Grady 3
Mr. P. Walsh's Herod's Fancy, 6, 11-7 A. P. Thompson 0
(Winner trained by Keating.)

Betting—6 to 4 agst. ROI RITA, 3 to 1 Herod's Fancy and Queen Gypsy, 100 to 16 Our Tone.

Tote (2/-)—Win 5/6; special place pool, 40/-.

Roi Rita settled down from Our Tone, Queen Gypsy and Herod's Fancy, and, retaining the lead throughout, Roi Rita drew clear of Queen Gypsy and Our Tone, to win by three lengths; same.

3.45—WOODROOFF PLATE of 40 sovs. Second 5 sovs. A hurdle race for horses that have not won a race under I.N.H.S. Rules, N.H. Rules and Rules of Racing up to the time of starting. 2¼ m.

Mr. Villiers Morton's br. g. BRIGHTER COTTAGE, by Cottage—Shining Hope, 5, 11-10 ...Mr. H. J. Delmege 1
Mr. E. T. O'Meara's COTTAGE DUST, 6, 11-9 J. Downes 2
Mr. P. Graham's MAD MARGARET, 5, 11-10 Mr. T. V. Ryan 3
(Winner trained by Major Perry.)

Betting—7 to 4 on BRIGHTER COTTAGE, 2 to 1 agst. Cottage Dust, 100 to 16 Mad Margaret.

Tote (2/-)—Win, 3/-.

Cottage Dust led from Brighter Cottage and Mad Margaret, until a quarter of a mile from home, where Brighter Cottage headed Cottage Dust, to win by eight lengths; a bad third.

4.15—MARLFIELD PLATE of 40 sovs. Second 5 sovs. A welter handicap flat race. 1 m. and about 80 yds.

Mr. Jos. Masterson's ch. c. KNIGHT COMMANDER, by Knight of the Garter—Lispopple, 4, 7-10 ...P. Maher 1
Mr. J. Donohoe's CASH GIRL, 5, 8-0 T. Whitehead 2
Mr. F. S. Ringwood's MAYBIRD, 6, 9-1 W. Howard 3
Mr. H. M. Thompson's Lucky Fool, a, 9-7 W. T. O'Grady 0
Mr. J. Joyce's Gaelic Game, 6, 8-9 W. H. Ashurst 0
Mr. D. P. O'Brien's Solford, 4, 8-11...J. Moylan 0
Mr. Herbert Dudgeon's Brawl, 3, 8-6 M. Wing disq.
Miss A. Ryan's Nepal, 3, 7-6...M. Curran 0
(Winner trained by C. Brabazon.)

Betting—6 to 4 agst. Brawl, 4 to 1 Lucky Fool, 8 to 1 each KNIGHT COMMANDER, Nepal and Solford; 100 to 8 each Gaelic Game and Maybird, 50 to 1 Cash Girl.

Tote (2/-)—Win, 6/-; places, 3/6, 21/6, 14/-.

Brawl set the pace to Nepal, Knight Commander, Solford, Cash Girl and Maybird, with Lucky Fool next, to the straight, where Brawl was in front of Knight Commander and Cash Girl, to win by a length; a neck. Maybird was fourth, Solford fifth, Nepal sixth.

The Stewards disqualified Brawl on the grounds of crossing the whole field, and awarded the race to Knight Commander. They exonerated M. Wing from blame.

4.45—FOXHUNTERS' PLATE of 40 sovs. Second 5 sovs. A weight for age flat race for maidens under Rules of Racing, I.N.H.S. Rules and N.H. Rules, at time of starting, the property of residents in the districts hunted over by certain packs of hounds. 1 m. 6 f.

Mr. R. Crotty's b. g. FLYING HERMES, by Prince Hermes—Lady Vah, 4, 11-7 Mr. J. H. de Bromhead 1

YACHTING

FINISH OF THE THURSDAY RACES

The series of Thursday races under the auspices of the D.B.S.C. concluded last evening with matches for the 21-Footers and the 17-Footers. The wind was fresh from S.E., and while some of the 17-Footers carried top-sails all four 21-Footers were content with plain sail.

On the sailing on the first round of the 21-Footers Geraldine looked like carrying off first prize, but Maureen was leader entering harbour the last time, and on the beat up to the line the former dropped back to last place. The finish was—

	H.	M.	S.
Maureen (winner)—Miss H. E. L. Plunket	7	39	2
Innisfallen (2nd prize)—Messrs. A. and C. Odlum	7	39	19
Estelle—Mr. F. FitzGibbon, K.C.	7	39	29
Geraldine—Dr. W. M. A. Wright	7	40	28

17-FOOTERS

Eight started. The fleet was very scattered when they returned to harbour, and Bobolink retired at this stage. Hera held a very long lead, Oona coming next, and then Pauline at the head of the others. Just after Hera had got round the guardship buoy, her bowsprit carried away. Very cleverly the jib was made fast to the stem-head, and she carried on still with a substantial lead. At the coal harbour buoy her jib blew away again, but a repair was effected, and she worked up to cross the winning line over a minute ahead of the second boat. Finish—

	H.	M.	S.
Hera (winner)—Mr. A. E. Nesbitt	7	28	1
Pauline (2nd prize)—Dr. H. J. Wright	7	29	25
Oona—Dr. H. Law	7	30	36
Eileen—Mr. T. H. Roche	7	30	38
Deilginis—Miss E. Barry	7	30	45
Rosemary—Mr. A. F. B. Thompson	7	32	11
Echo—Mr. R. H. Hall	7	32	58

TWO SCOTS IN IRISH FINAL

JOHN BURKE'S DEFEAT

Holder and Ex-Holder to Meet for Amateur Title

BY OUR GOLF CORRESPONDENT.

PORTRUSH, Thursday Evening.

Hector Thomson, holder of the Irish and Scottish Open Championships, will to-morrow defend his Irish title against the challenge of John McLean, a fellow-Scot, and twice winner of our premier amateur event. Thus for the second time this year the two Scots will meet in a 36 holes national final, their previous match being in the final for the Scottish championship, which Thomson won. It should be a brilliant wind-up to this most successful meeting, but there does not appear to be much doubt regarding the ability of Thomson to again beat his rival.

The Irish hope, John Burke, after getting through his morning match against J. P. Zacharias at the nineteenth, broke down halfway through his semi-final struggle with Thomson, and was beaten by the remarkable score of 6 and 4. Never have I seen the Irishman play golf similar to that which he put up in this semi-final of a championship which has eluded him so long, and which he seems destined never to win. He had his chance on this occasion; for, although Thomson played excellent golf and demonstrated throughout the week that he is as good as when he won last year at Portmarnock (he was eight under fours for the seven matches played so far), he was nothing like as superior, at least on the outward journey, as the margin of his victory over a golfer like Burke would suggest to anyone who did not see the play. The Scott was 38 for the first nine, with everything holed out.

THOMSON IMPROVES

Coming in, however, he played ever so much better, his figures for the last five holes totalling 17. Burke, on the other hand, required 41 out and for the other holes three more than the Scotsman. He did not win a hole.

The opening was rather tame, the first five holes being halved in 5, 5, 4, 5, 3. Then came the turning point. Thomson had missed a comparatively short putt to win the fourth hole, and he lipped the hole at the fifth for a 2, but luck came his way at the sixth in an unexpected manner. They played the tee shots and seconds perfectly and Burke had to putt first, but overran the hole by a yard or so. Thomson was almost down for a 3, but he laid one of those golfing abominations, a dead stymie, which Burke could not possibly negotiate, and he lost a hole that he well deserved to halve. Perhaps Burke was fortunate to halve the seventh. Carrying everything with a great drive, he found a nasty lie and could not pitch the ball far enough to escape the bunker at the green. He looked like losing the hole, but Thomson missed an easy putt. Then came another shock for the Irishman. He cut his tee shot to the short eighth, was too strong with his pitch, and became two down to a good 3. But worse was to follow immediately for the challenger. Thomson pulled his drive to the ninth and lay badly off the green, but he chipped nicely with the niblick and holed his putt for a 3. Burke had to tackle an eighteen inches putt—it was no longer—for the half, and missed it to stand 3 down.

THE END

That virtually was the end of it. Apparently badly shaken, Burke lost the tenth also, being bunkered off his second, and over the green with a too low second to the twelfth, with the other ball hole high, he was five down when they went to the thirteenth tee. A half followed, and the match finished appropriately enough at "Calamity Corner," where Thomson had a 3 to Burke's 4. The figures were:

Thomson ... Out—5 5 4 5 3 4 5 3 4=38
Home—4 3 3 4 3 =17
Total for 14 holes—55.
Burke ...... Out—5 5 4 5 3 5 5 4 5=41
Home—5 3 4 4 4 =20
Total for 14 holes—61.

The semi-final match between McLean and John Woollam, the English champion, was a more interesting affair by far, but here, also, the result was never in much doubt from the sixth hole. McLean won the first, but he lost the second when Woollam holed a long putt for a 4. However, he was too strong with his approach to the fifth, and the sixth likewise went to McLean. McLean rammed down an eight-yarder at the eighth for a three holes lead, and Woollam being in trouble at the ninth, the Scot took that hole for a lead of four. The Englishman, however, kept the match going to the sixteenth after being 4 down with 4 to play; but the result was inevitable, and McLean won by 3 and 2.

SIXTH ROUND

J. McLean (Hayston) beat W. R. Rae (Helensburgh)—5 and 3.
J. Woollam (Hooton) beat H. G. Bentley (Hesketh)—2 holes.
H. Thomson (Williamwood) (holder) beat Dr. W. Tweddell (Stourbridge)—8 and 7.
J. Burke (Lahinch) beat J. P. Zacharias (Formby) at the 19th.

SEMI-FINALS

McLean beat Woollam—3 and 2.
Thomson beat Burke—6 and 4.

WRESTLING

O'MAHONY AGAIN BEATS GEORGE

GRUELLING BOUT LASTS TWO HOURS

NEW YORK, Thursday.

Dan O'Mahony, the Irish heavy-weight world wrestling champion, defeated Ed. (Don) George, the New England champion, after two hours five seconds, in a gruelling bout for the world title at Boston last night. The weather at Fenway Park was clear and cool, and 20,000 people were present to witness the fight.

Interest in the contest was particularly strong, as the men had met before in a bout which ended in uproar when James Braddock, the world heavy-weight boxing champion, the referee, awarded the verdict to O'Mahony. At the weigh-in O'Mahony turned the scales at 15st. 10lb. and George at 15st. 13lb.

The bout opened with a rush by George, who hurt his arm in diving at O'Mahony. The Irishman retaliated by seizing George in his famous "Irish whip" grip, and, after applying it three times, he succeeded in throwing the American. Apart from this early excitement the first twenty minutes were quiet but the fur flew when O'Mahony clipped George with his elbow and knocked out one of his teeth.

This infuriated George, who dealt out a series of heavy blows which cut O'Mahony's mouth and caused a great flow of blood. Both men kept up their attack, and O'Mahony nearly succeeded in throwing his opponent with a wristlock, but George cleverly avoided the throw by crawling under the ropes, and forced O'Mahony to release his hold.

When the bout had lasted an hour George secured his first real hold. It was a vicious leg-lock, but O'Mahony fought off the grip, amid the cheers of the crowd. Then another hour passed without a throw by either man, and according to the rules of the American Association only one throw became necessary for a win.

The end came quickly when O'Mahony managed to secure a solid whip grip, from which George was unable to escape, and he scored a popular victory.

Although George set the pace at the start he began to wilt long before the end of the first hour. He put himself at a disadvantage when, in his first furious rush, he collided with a ring post and injured his arm. Throughout the fight his arm was practically useless, and he fled several times to the ropes and relied on ringcraft to ward-off defeat as long as he did.

O'Mahony will again defend his title on September 23rd at Madison Square Garden. His opponent is not yet known, but will be selected by the promoter, Jack Curley.

ATHLETICS

THE ARMY DECATHLON CHAMPIONSHIP

At the Army Athletic grounds, Phœnix Park, yesterday the first events in the Army decathlon championship were decided, and at the end of the day the holder, Private L. Moran (Cavalry Corps, Curragh) was in front with a total of 2,818.75 points, his brother following close on his heels, and a newcomer to this event, Lieutenant Collins, filling third place.

The events decided were:—100 metres flat, 400 metres flat, 16lb. shot, long jump and high jump, and the points gained were:—

Private L. Moran (Cavalry Corps)	2818.75
Private J. Moran (Department of Defence)	2733.05
Lieutenant Collins (Ordnance)	2664.40
Lieutenant Devoy (Air Corps)	2626.31
Private Barry (5th Battalion)	2188.81
Corporal Meaney (2nd Battalion)	1853.90

Last year Private L. Moran won the title with a total of 4,875 points, his brother being second. The events to be decided to-day are 1,500 metres flat, hop, step and jump, javelin, discus and pole vault.

BIG PROFESSIONAL TOURNAMENT

ALLISS AND PADGHAM IN THE FINAL

The British Ryder Cup team, who sail for America to-morrow, could have wished for no finer send-off than the series of successes scored by members of the side in the £1,250 News of the World professional tournament at Royal Mid-Surrey, Richmond. Apart from an unaccountable lapse by J. Busson, Britain's representatives have gone from triumph to triumph in this the last of the season's important golfing events. Percy Alliss and Alfred Padgham yesterday emerged as finalists; the two semi-finals were contested by Ryder Cup players, and there were five of the team in the last eight. Padgham's uncanny accuracy with his putter and his masterly approach play stamp him as the greatest match player in the country at the present time. No other professional has had such a consistently good season. Alliss, who is ten years older than Padgham, has revealed coolness and fighting powers, and has once again shown himself to be the complete golfer.

In their progress to the final neither player has had an easy journey. Alliss, after beating Cotton in the first round, has since played in succession three Ryder Cup colleagues—Cox, Perry and Burton—while Padgham has had to dispose of the brothers Charles and Reginald Whitcombe, in addition to the brilliant assistant, Sam King. Alliss's first performance yesterday was to beat the open champion, Alfred Perry, by 4 and 3. Perry's downfall was brought about by indifferent driving. Alliss led most of the way to the turn, but, when Perry reduced his arrears to two at the twelfth, it looked as though Alliss would have to fight after all. Perry, however, hit wild tee shots to the fourteenth and fifteenth, lost each hole and with them the match.

ALLISS'S LUCKY CHIP

Alliss's semi-final match with Burton, whom he beat by a single hole, was a splendid game.

The Northerner was in the semi-finals for the first time, and his defeat can be attributed to Alliss holing a chip shot from the edge of the seventeenth green to become dormie 1. Until that point the result had been in doubt, and only Alliss's good fortune settled the issue.

Padgham first had to resist the challenge of Sam King, who, although three under fours for sixteen holes, was beaten 3 and 2. That tells the story of Padgham's brilliance, and he accomplished his figures chiefly with his putter. It was this putter which almost enabled him to create a world record—four short holes each in two. Perfect drives and deadly putts gave him a 2 at the fifth, eighth and eleventh, and his putter did not fail him at the sixteenth. It was his drive that was off the line, and forced him to play a second to reach the green. Padgham's task was not so difficult in the semi-final, for Reginald Whitcombe lacked the deadliness usually associated with his play, and was beaten 4 and 3. The secret of his defeat was that his long game was not so accurate as it had been in the four preceding rounds of the tournament; at the same time it was two stymies late in the match that sealed his fate. After the third Padgham was always leading, and, out in 34, he was 1 up at the ninth. He became 2 up at the tenth, and, after Whitcombe had saved the eleventh with a putt of six yards, he was robbed of a half by a stymie at the twelfth and of a win by another stymie at the thirteenth. Whitcombe was 3 down, and another lost hole at the fifteenth gave Padgham the match.

Burton's play in both matches was characterised by phenomenally long driving. In the fourth round against Denny he drove the first green—322 yards—and was the only player to achieve this feat in the tournament. Then, at the last hole in his match with Alliss, Burton actually drove over the green—330 yards distant—in a desperate endeavour to stave off defeat. It was a shot seldom seen even in first-class play.

FOURTH ROUND.

R. A. Whitcombe (Parkstone) beat A. Compston (Coombe Hill)—4 and 3.
A. H. Padgham (Sundridge Park) beat S. L. King (Knole Park)—3 and 2.
P. Alliss (Beaconsfield) beat A. Perry (Leatherhead)—4 and 3.
R. Burton (Hooton) beat C. S. Denny (Thorpe Hall)—3 and 2.

SEMI-FINALS.

Padgham beat Whitcombe—4 and 3.
Alliss beat Burton—1 hole.

THE AMERICAN "OPEN"

CLEVELAND, Thursday.

GOREY AGRICULTURAL SHOW

1,400 ENTRIES: 160 CLASSES

HIGH QUALITY IN ALL SECTIONS

FROM OUR REPORTER.

GOREY, Thursday.

The Gorey Show has always been regarded as one of the most important of the Irish provincial shows. In 1932, however, it was abandoned by the local Farming Society, but a new body—the Gorey Agricultural Society—took up its organisation again in the following year. This new effort has been well rewarded, for to-day's show was claimed to be by far the biggest ever held in the district.

There were 1,400 entries for the 160 classes. The number of cattle was about the same as last year, but there was a general increase in the sheep, horse and pig classes. The increased tillage in the district was reflected in the big entries in the farm produce classes, and a special attraction was a parade of carts through the streets of the town this morning bearing some of the produce entered for the show.

The general opinion of the judges was that the entries were of an unusually high standard, and they found considerable difficulty in making their awards.

A two-day industrial exhibition, at which many leading firms had stands, was opened, and proved quite an attractive feature.

The Quin Perpetual Challenge Cup for the best beast in the cattle classes was awarded to Mr. F. R. L. Ellis, Magherymore, Wicklow, who also won the silver medal for the best Aberdeen-Angus in the show with the same animal. The reserve champion was the shorthorn, Bandmaster, owned by Mr. Thomas Hill, of Ballydaniel, Camolin. The Cooper, McDougall and Robertson Tankard for the best sheep was awarded to a Border Leicester belonging to Mr. Owen Kehoe, Raheenduff, Oulart.

The Mackay Cup, for the best Gelding Colt or Filly likely to become a hunter (confined to Gorey rural district), went to Mr. John Bailey, Anagorteen, Gorey, for a bay gelding by Killiney's Pride. The reserve was a bay by Gartoi owned by Mr. John Roche, Parkmore, Carnew.

A demonstration of sheep-penning was given by two sheep dogs, owned by Mr. G. A. Pennefather, of Fethard, who judged the penning class at the show.

UNCOLLECTED RATES ISSUE

CORK COUNTY COUNCIL ALLEGATIONS

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Thursday.

At Cork County Council meeting to-day, Mr. W. J. Broderick, T.D., presiding, Mr. D. L. O'Gorman referred to the list of uncollected rates, and said that this book contained 181 pages, and on an average there were 51 ratings on each page. It was unfair to proceed against and decree the people who carried the county last year, and leave a number of people in that book untouched. There were several cases there of well-stocked farms, but no rates had been paid. He thought that it was unfair to press people who paid last year until an effort was made to collect the outstanding rates. There was a case in the book of a person who owed £300, and no effort was made to collect it.

Mr. Keane said that in his district certain decrees were in the hands of the Sheriff for three years, and they were not collected.

Mr. Kingston said that if they could get the armoured cars to go around and collect the annuities why could not the Council collect the rates.

Mr. Keane said that he knew the case of a man who paid £5 which he owed for rates, but the money was used for the payment of annuities.

Mr. T. J. Murphy, T.D., commented that in the book there appeared the names of two Dail members for West Cork. Deputies were expected to give a better example.

Mr. T. O'Donoghue asked was it the case that where rates and annuities were due the position was that the money collected was credited to the annuities.

The Chairman—It seems to be the procedure adopted. If the Council wishes you can ask the Law Adviser if the money paid to the Sheriff for a definite purpose can be applied by him to another liability.

Mr. Collins suggested that the Council get into touch with the Sheriff to elicit an explanation from him.

It was decided to have the Law Adviser's advice on the situation.

ARCTIC SEA ROUTE BLAZED

VLADIVOSTOK TO MURMANSK

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MOSCOW, Thursday.

The first passage of the Arctic sea route round the north coast of Siberia, opening up a new means of communication between Western Russia and China, Japan, and the Pacific Ocean, has been accomplished. The steamer Anadir arrived at Murmansk last night, after covering the 11,500 miles from Vladivostok in 76 days. The other freight steamer Stalingrad, accompanying the Anadir, is now approaching Murmansk.

SAYERS GETS FOUR FOR DUNDALK

DOLPHIN WELL BEATEN IN CUP-TIE

DUNDALK .... 6 DOLPHIN 0

Dundalk had an easy win over Dolphin in the Leinster Senior Cup at Dundalk yesterday, winning by six goals to nil. A feature of the game was the clever play of Sayers, the Dundalk centre, who scored four goals. Morgan got the other two. Squires was absent from the Dolphin team, and Carroll was played at half-back. For Dundalk McAfee came on instead of O'Boyle, absent owing to the death of a brother.

For ten minutes Dolphin attacked, but Rudd missed a good chance, and then, from a long pass by Donnelly, Sayers beat Whelan with a powerful shot for Dundalk's first goal. In thirty minutes Morgan beat O'Donnell, and his shot went in over Whelan's arms. The Dolphin goalkeeper was penalised for handling outside the area, and, after Mailey had headed in, Sayers shot Dundalk's third goal.

Dundalk were the stronger side in the second half, and after ten minutes Donnelly passed to Sayers to shoot the fourth. Morgan got the fifth and Sayers the sixth. Twice in the closing stages Rogers shot finely, but McMahon gave a fine exhibition.

Dundalk—McMahon; O'Neill, Powell; McAfee, T. Godwin, Hirst; Morgan, Donnelly, Sayers, Kelly, Mailey.

Dolphin—Whelan; Collins, O'Donnell; Gallagher, Watt, Carroll; Carr, Kavanagh, Rogers, Rudd, Hickey.

L.F.A. CHAIRMAN

At a meeting of the Council of the Leinster F.A. last night, Mr. J. Kane (Brideville) was elected Chairman for the season. It was decided to defer a discussion on proposed changes of rules until a special meeting to be held on next Tuesday night.

CRICKET

BAXTER IN FINE FORM AT SCARBOROUGH

Curious cricket was seen by 4,000 people at Scarborough yesterday, when the M.C.C. West Indies team, after securing a first innings lead of 143 over Leveson-Gower's XI., were dismissed in their second innings for 124. Leveson-Gower's team had lost two men for 9 overnight, and four more fell for an additional 45 runs before Wellard and Brown added 48 in the one stand of the innings. Wellard, usually such a hard hitter, took 70 minutes over his not out 35.

All the five bowlers tried by Wyatt met with success, while Hammond made four catches at slip, and dashing up the pitch he held a soft return from Mitchell with his right hand close to the ground.

Baxter and Bowes carried all before them when the touring team went in a second time. Baxter dismissed three men for two singles, and altogether took six wickets for 47. Leveson-Gower's team were set to get 268 to win, and got eight without loss before stumps were drawn for the day. Score:—

THE REST V. CHAMPIONS

Mr. H. D. G. Leveson-Gower has selected the following team to play for the Rest against Yorkshire, the champion county, at the Oval, commencing to-morrow:—R. E. S. Wyatt (Warwickshire) (captain), F. R. Brown (Surrey), H. D. Read (Essex), Smith (D.) (Derbyshire), Bakewell (Northants), Hardstaff (Notts), Pollard (Lancs), Howorth (Worcester) Duckworth (Lancs), Wellard (Somerset) and Iddon (Lancs).

C. F. Walters, Hammond and Ames were unable to accept invitations to play, and E. R. Holmes and Nicholls stood down through injuries.

LEINSTER SENIOR LEAGUE AVERAGES

The cricket season in Dublin was, to all intents and purposes, brought to a finish last week-end when Leinster, the Senior League Champions, played The Rest. It has, in every way, been a most successful season. There has been a big revival of interest in the game, the standard of play has shown a great improvement over recent years, and the batsmen have displayed a tendency to make their runs at a faster rate.

Ireland won her only representative match of the season, beating a really good M.C.C. XI. at Lord's by 6 wickets. The introduction of the mid-week Senior Cup competition, which was won by Pembroke, proved a success.

For the second year in succession F. G. Connell, Leinster C.C., won the Marchant Cup for topping the Senior League batting averages, and another Leinster player, J. R. Graham, heads the Senior League bowling averages.

FREEHOLD RESIDENCE AND LANDS FOR SALE.
ALSO REALISATION OF STOCK AND FARMING IMPLEMENTS
TO BE SOLD BY PUBLIC AUCTION

WE have received instructions from the Executors of the above Deceased to SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION, on the PREMISES at LISNASLIGGAN, on THURSDAY, the 26th day of SEPTEMBER, 1935, at the hour of One O'Clock, ALL THAT VALUABLE FARM OF LAND, portion of which is situate in the townland of Lisnasliggan and a small portion in the townland of Ballynanny, containing in the whole 82 acres Statute measure, or thereabouts, held in Fee-Simple, subject to half-yearly instalment of £20 8s. 1d., payable to the Ministry of Finance, Northern Ireland.

The lands are of excellent quality, having been exceptionally well cultivated and heavily manured for many years, are well known for their highly productive qualities, and are abundantly supplied with water from running streams through the farm.

The Residence is large and commodious, substantially built, and contains:—Two reception rooms, large hall, four bedrooms, servants' apartments, two large attics, kitchen, pantry, scullery, china closet, etc. The offices are extensive, all slated and in good repair.

The water supply is taken from a pump in the yard, and there is also a never failing supply from a well in close proximity to the house.

The Property is most conveniently situated on the main road from Banbridge to Rathfriland, 3 miles from the former and 5 from the latter.

Immediately after the Sale of the Farm the Stock on the place, comprising:—3 good Milch Cows, 2 being in calf; 2 fat Heifers, 3 young Calves (weanling), 2 good Farm Horses, very useful, excellent workers and strong; 1 small Pony. ALSO A LARGE QUANTITY OF FARMING IMPLEMENTS, etc., and 4 STACKS STRAW, good; will be offered for Sale. Also a large quantity of Potatoes and Turnips in Drills, in lots to suit purchasers.

Terms:—For Farm, One-fourth Purchase Money, together with Auction Fees, at time of Sale, balance upon completion.

For Stock, Farming Implements, etc., Credit for sums over £5 on approved security till 12th January, 1936; for sums of £5 and under, cash at time of Sale, together with Auction Commission.

POULTRY, FISH, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

THE MIDDAY MEAL.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

For the midday meal of soft food the following is recommended: Three parts (by weight) good pollard, two parts good bran, two parts good barley meal, two parts good finely ground oats, one part good fish meal. This mash should be prepared two hours before it is required, and fed warm in troughs. Cooked or finely chopped raw vegetables make a valuable addition to the mash. Skim or separated milk, if available, is a great advantage; it may either be used for mixing the meals to a crumbly state or given separately to drink. Every laying house should have its dry-mash hopper of a reliable make, and this should always be well filled with a good dry mash.

The feeding of such mash ensures that all birds are provided with that little extra that is so necessary to the heavy layer; the mixture may consist of four parts good pollard, two parts good bran, two parts good barley meal, one part finely ground oats, one part fish or meat and bone meal. The addition of cod liver oil, in the proportion of one pint to one cwt., will greatly improve the mixture.

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS

Dublin—Cattle more numerous and cheaper, Sheep and Lambs failed to clear at less money, Dairy Cattle steady, and Pigs weaker. York—Fine show of Irish Stores fit for butcher, and trade slow. London—Grain cargoes dearer, Rubber dull, strong market for Java and Sumatra Tea, Big rise in Tin, and Copper active.

CATTLE.

DUBLIN (METROPOLITAN).

	Numbers on sale this week as compared with last.		Corresponding weeks of 1934.	1933.
Beasts ...	3,242—Increase	554	3,137	3,659
Sheep and lambs	7,685—Increase	1,360	6,859	7,064
Veal calves	22—Increase	4	15	2

In face of much larger supply and full market to deal with here this week and curtailed volume of trade in home and shipping directions, values all round were weaker. Cattle mostly are coming out in plain, but useful, condition, but choice finished beasts continue on the scarce side. Yet there was no particular anxiety shown by butchers or dealers in competition for these specially outstanding exhibits. The fact was that there was more than enough of good, useful trading bullocks and heifers available, and these apparently received more attention at the cheaper rates ruling, which worked out around 1s. per cwt. lower over the week. Sales opened in a nervy fashion, cross-Channel buyers being in smaller want, and with local victuallers uncertain of weather conditions, were not prepared to go beyond immediate requirements. In the circumstances, sellers' position became more difficult as the day wore on, and with heavy supplies to deal with, were not disposed to let any reasonable offer slip in an effort to clear, which, however, failed. There was a good supply of beef cows, with quality on the whole satisfactory. Business opened more active for Germany and Northern Ireland, previous values being readily repeated for suitable beasts, and with fair support from local fleshers, competition throughout proved strong enough to absorb everything of useful quality, without any change in values, and market cleared early, except for some of the aged and lean sorts, which were still on hands at a late hour. Best bullocks and heifers 19s. to 20s., extra around 22s. to 23s. per cwt; useful sorts 17s. to 18s. and rougher 15s. to 16s.; best young beef cows 11s. 6d. to 12s. 6d., occasionally 13s. to 14s.; secondary 9s. to 10s., and aged, etc., 6s. to 8s.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

There was another large increase in supplies here this week, which proved beyond requirements. The show in point of quality was just moderate, and generally lacked meated condition. For choice wethers and fresh ewes opening sales proved fairly satisfactory, but after the first hour or two matters gradually slackened off into a more or less idle state, and continued so, notwithstanding the lower rates which owners were willing to accept. Lambs were decidedly a weaker trade from opening, when local victuallers gave fair support after some concessions, but offtake for shipment proved most disappointing; in fact, there appeared to be little want, and that at such biddings that in most cases could not be seriously entertained, and market closed with large numbers unsold. Prime mutton 6½d. to 7d. per lb., useful quality 5½d. to 6d., other classes 4½d. to 5d., and lambs 15s. to 25s., extra 27s. to 30s. per head.

DAIRY CATTLE.

Just 320 dairy cattle were offered on this market, being an increase of 76 on previous gathering. In point of quality there was little improvement, choice heavy capacity beasts being again scarce and readily placed to shippers, who were in full attendance and businesslike mood. In dealing with the ordinary types of cows much bargaining took place, but over the day's proceeding values showed little change, and a fair clearance was effected around the following prices:—Best cows £13 to £15 10s., extra £16 to £16 10s. per head; heifers £12 10s. to £14 10s., extra £15 to £15 10s.; useful sorts £9 10s. to £11 10s., and smalls, etc., £6 to £8.

PIGS.

The gathering of swine was larger and of good average class, total arrivals being 1,190 head. Buyers were in full attendance; still, more hesitancy overhung business, and the appreciation in values recorded last week was partially in some cases, but wholly in most transactions, lost, and market closed with a clearance difficult to effect, even at the lower rates ruling. Sows more in evidence, but not so readily placed, owing to poor quality. Slips and bonhams little wanted, and failed to clear. Light-weight pigs 40s. to 44s. per cwt., medium and heavier 45s. to 47s., sows 33s. to 37s., slips and bonhams 10s. to 17s., extra 20s. to 25s. per head.

YORK.—Finest show of Irish store cattle for years, all full of flesh and ready for butcher. Trade was slow at up to £20 for best three-year-old bullocks, heifers from £12 to £14. No English store cattle. Trade for calving and milch cows was not so good, and highest price was £21 10/-.

BRISTOL.—There was about 360 fresh Irish cattle at the market, and some 20 English. No beef was shown, and the supply consisted principally of young heifers for dairy purposes and milch cattle. Few buyers attended and there was a very poor demand. Best Aberdeen-Angus heifers made up to £14 each. Yearlings £9 to £11; milch cattle realised from £15 to £18 apiece.

BIRMINGHAM PIG.—Fair supplies continue, with a moderate to good demand. Becons a more active trade, all consignments at schedule rates. Cutters steady, 10/9 to 11/-; sows, more offering at 8/- per score dead-weight.

The carriers of the livestock delivery organisation now passing away deserve a tribute from the producers and the trade for their enterprise, their courage, and their industry. They gave good service, carrying live stock carefully and at cheap rates. May we hope for the same careful handling and reasonable charges under the new system?

Our recent terms of buying are cancelled, and amended terms are available on application. First preference will be given to dealers approved by us delivering pigs in their own lorries.—(Advt.)

GRAIN.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (BALTIC).—WHEAT—Cargoes continue firm, and sellers adopt a reserved attitude in view of a good demand and higher overseas cables. Unfavourable harvesting returns in North America and the uncertain outlook regarding new Southern Hemisphere crops are salient features in the international situation. Prices were marked up by 3d. to 6d. per quarter for Canadian grades, Australian 3d. to 7½d., and Plate 3d. to 6d. No. 1 Northern Manitoba Atlantic shipment September sellers 33/7½, No. 2 ditto September 32/7½, No. 1 Northern Manitoba Churchill November 33/6, West Australian September 29/6, South ditto October 29/3, New South Wales September 28/9. Parcels of Plate 64-65 kilos September sellers 15/3, Russian September 15/3, October 15/3, November 15/6 per quarter of 400lb. c.i.f. Californian superior quality September sellers 21/- per quarter of 448lb. c.i.f. OATS firm for Canadian qualities at 3d. per quarter advance, but Plate showed no alteration. Parcels of No. 2 Canadian Western Atlantic new crop October sellers 18/6, No. 3 ditto October 17/4½, No. 1 Canadian feed Atlantic October 16/6, mixed feed 35lb. September 12/3. Plate f.a.q. quality September-October 16/- per quarter of 320lb. c.i.f.

LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT—With bullish Canadian crop report and better Argentine cables, owing to continued dry weather, forward deliveries of wheat here improved from the outset, with moderate fluctuations, until a fair advance had been established. Then prices varied according to the offerings, afternoon cables having a favourable influence, values in the end being under best, though marking a fair gain on the day. C.i.f. parcels 3d. to 6d. dearer. No. 1 Manitoba September sold at 33/10½ to 34/-. A cargo of No. 1 Manitoba mid-September 33/3, and a cargo New South Wales September 28/6 per quarter. C.i.f. parcels River Plate MAIZE dearer. Arrived and September sold 15/6, October 15/7½, November white flat African October-November 16/-, November 16/- per quarter. WHEAT on the spot firmly held. MAIZE—Spot parcels firm and dearer at 3/7¼ to 3/7¾ per cental for River Plate. FLOUR firm at late rates. Graded wheat futures opened unchanged to ½d. per cental dearer, and ⅛d. to ⅜d. advance afterwards paid. Then prices receded, fluctuated fairly, finishing steady ¼d. to ⅜d. higher on day. Values: October 6/1, December 6/-, March 5/11⅜ per cental. Sales—350 loads.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL. — BACON — Continental supply practically cleared and prices more or less nominal, but any little lots of Danish available would make premiums on the official quotations. London made no change in Danish or Swedish in yesterday's weekly revision. Danish 79/- to 85/- per cwt., Canadian firm at 78/- to 80/-, and Irish 79/- to 84/- per cwt. HAMS firm owing to scarcity. LARD on the spot in fair demand and partially 1/- per cwt. dearer. Brazilian raised to 69/- to 71/-, Dutch 68/- to 70/-, Polish 72/- to 74/- per cwt. CHEESE firm and in fair demand, New Zealand coloured being raised to 54/- to 55/- per cwt. BUTTER irregular, Danish being raised to 129/- to 133/-, Swedish 118/- to 122/-. Colonial easier. Irish Free State extra selected 14/-, selected 13/3, mediums 10/9, pullets 9/3, and Northern specials 17/9 per 120.

BRISTOL.—BACON—There has been a slight improvement in the demand for imported descriptions, although English continues quiet. No change is disclosed in the official quotations. HAMS move slowly into consumption, but English remain steady. Canadian and United States short cut show slight easiness in values. LARD meets a very quiet demand, and, although prices have recently been lowered, no improvement in consumption has been noted. CHEESE—There has been rather more demand during the past week, and both Canadian and New Zealand descriptions have shown firmness, with stocks of the latter now small. BUTTER—Supplies of Colonial descriptions have recently been slow in coming forward, and, with an improving demand, sharp advances have been made in quotations.

CARDIFF.—Provisions markets in South Wales have shown increasing firmness owing to the limited supplies available. Wholesale prices, for delivery in the Cardiff district:—Bacon—Irish 5/- dearer at 80/- to 85/-; Danish 1/- higher at 84/- to 90/- per cwt. Hams—American advanced 7/- to 9/- at 105/- to 109/- per cwt. WOOL

BRADFORD.—Merino topmakers inclined to make slight concession in order to secure new business, and top can be bought at ½d. less than on Monday. A moderate amount of business is being done. There is no change in position of cross-bred tops. The market is steady and business rather quiet. Yarn quotations unchanged and steady.

GOOD DEMAND IN AUSTRALIA.—Competition was keen for all descriptions at the closing wool sale yesterday of the first series at Sydney this season. Japan was the most prominent buyer, but there was also fair support for the market from Continental and Yorkshire representatives. Values were firm at Wednesday's level, but, compared with the rates at the opening of the series, prices are now on a par to 5 per cent. lower for all best fleece skirtings, 5 to 10 per cent. lower for good to average fleece skirtings, and 10 per cent. lower for inferior sorts. Out of yesterday's catalogue of 12,525 bales, which formed a good selection, 11,079 bales were sold. Private transactions consisted of 657 bales. The next series of wool sales will begin on September 23.

DUBLIN AUTUMN SHEEP SALES

The fifth of Messrs. Ganly and Sons' Autumn Sheep Sales attracted a large and representative attendance of buyers to the Dublin Cattle Market on Wednesday last. Over 3,000 sheep and lambs were offered, and prices ruled higher than at the previous week's sale. A complete clearance was made after ready competition, particular interest centring in several choice consignments of lambs from the favoured flocks of the Earl of Wicklow, Lord Crofton, Arklow Estates Co., Earl of Meath, and F. B. Barton.

The following were the owners and prices of the different lots per head:—E. O'Shaughnessy's 160 Galway ewes, 34/- to 30/-; Patrick Diviney's 130 Galway ewes, 33/6 to 27/-; Edward Doherty's 80 Galway ewes, 34/- to 26/-; James Larrissey's 130 Galway ewes, 33/6 to 30/-; Herbert Morris's, 33/-; Arklow Estates Co.'s cheviot ewes, 30/- to 28/6; Patrick Maguire's cheviot ewes, 35/- to 31/6; Earl of Meath's cheviot ewes, 26/- to 24/6; George Walker's cheviot ewes, 25/6 and 25/-; J. Harrison's cheviot ewes, 28 6 to 26/6; Thomas Parker's, 29/- to 26/-; D. Gallagher's, 28/6; Patrick Farrington's, 26/6; John Brennan's, 26/6; James Ryan's, 26/6; Patrick Mahon's, 27/6; C. B. Barton's, 21/6; James McDonnell's, 17/-; Herbert Morris's, 18/-; C. R. Kirwan's cheviot wethers, 29/-. Rams made from 5 guineas to 3 guineas.

STORE CATTLE SALES

MESSRS. GAVIN LOW, LTD.

There was a considerable increase in the number of store cattle on offer yesterday. The quality and condition was also of a higher standard, and with a large and representative attendance of both home and cross-Channel buyers, a large proportion got satisfactorily sold. Best classes fully maintained late rates, but bidding for thin and secondary lots was slower, and these were rather more difficult to place. Quotations:—Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford Crosses made from 17/- to 21/- per cwt., Shorthorn bullocks and heifers, from 14/- to 19/- per cwt.

MESSRS. GANLY AND SONS.

There was a representative attendance of cross-Channel and home buyers at yesterday's sale, but cattle suiting their requirements are as yet not coming forward in any numbers. Best lots are in good request at firm prices, but moderate animals continue to meet an irregular trade. Quotations:—Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford Cross bullocks and heifers made from 20/- to 17/- per cwt., horned and polled bullocks and heifers from 16/6 to 14/6 per cwt.

PRISON OR BACK TO IRELAND?

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Thursday.

A Waterford woman has been given the choice to-day of returning to Ireland or going to prison. Described as Bridget Driscall (30), chambermaid, of OConnell street, Dungarvan, Co. Waterford, she was charged at the Marylebone Police Court with stealing £1 from the Connaught Club, Seymour street, Hyde Park, where she had been employed.

Detective Docherty said that there had been a series of larcenies at the club, and the accused woman was caught as a result of a trap laid by the police. She had been associating with a man, and apparently had been giving him money, although she stated that she had been sending the money home.
